Tips for newcomers to the game of golf

Few hobbies can be as enjoyable one moment and as frustrating the next as golf. Golfers know a great putt can be quickly followed by a bad tee shot, and maintaining their composure through the highs and lows of the game is a key to success on the links.

Maintaining that composure isn't always easy, even for the professionals. It's even more difficult for beginners, who quickly learn the game of golf involves more than just spending sunny weekend afternoons on pristine golf courses. In fact, golf can be quite demanding, and beginners would be wise to heed a few tips before hitting the course.

- Don't commit to an expensive set of clubs right off the bat. Golf clubs can be very expensive, so beginners should buy an affordable secondhand set of clubs so they can get the hang of what they like before spending a lot of money. Visit a pro shop and explain that you are just a beginner. The shop will likely make some valuable suggestions and might even let you try out a pair of clubs. In addition, many driving ranges allow customers to rent clubs, and this can be a great and inexpensive way to find the right clubs for you.

- Take lessons. Even the very best at self-teaching might find it extremely difficult to become a self-taught golfer. When first trying your hand at golf, take some lessons and don't expect to be playing 18 holes any time soon. Before hitting the course, where you might be discouraged and you might frustrate those golfing behind you, learn the fundamentals by taking a few lessons at the driving range. Learn from a professional, who won't offer you any hidden secrets to golfing glory (there aren't any) but will offer sound advice on the game's fundamentals.

- Take the game home with you. Beginners can even take advantage of golf's vast popularity by taking the game home with them. This doesn't mean building a putting green in your backyard. Rather, purchase some instructional DVDs to learn the game during your down time throughout the week. Many golfers don't have time to hit the links during the week, but they do have time to watch some DVDs when they get home from work. Such instructional DVDs can help you master your grip and stance, which you can then take with you to the course over the weekend.

- Have fun. Golf is a fun game; it just takes time to hone your skills. But even if you aren't ready for the professional tour after your first few rounds, you can still have fun. Don't let some beginner's frustration, which every golfer experiences, ruin the fun of the game. Take note of your surroundings when you hit the links, and appreciate the time you're spending with your group. If the game becomes more a source of frustration than fun, then take a break and put in some more work away from the course, be it at the driving range or studying at home.

Don't let injury slow your game down

Contributed by:
Reuben Gobezie, MD
 Founder/Director, Cleveland
 Shoulder Institute

Though golf is considered a moderate risk activity, an in-depth look at golf reveals that overuse and poor technique can result in serious injury. At first glance, the golf swing may appear to be a relatively simple move. However, the swing requires a synchronized effort of muscle strength, timing, and coordination to generate high club-head speeds, often more than 100 mph.

Golf injuries originate either from overuse or from a traumatic origin and primarily affect the elbow, wrist, shoulder and the lumbar area. With shoulder injuries, the lead shoulder, or the left shoulder in the right-handed golfer, is particularly vulnerable to injury. Common shoulder problems affecting golfers include rotator cuff tears, long head of the biceps tendon injuries, subacromial impingement, acromioclavicular arthrosis and glenohumeral instability.

Most patients sustaining a golf related shoulder injury will respond to nonsurgical treatment, such as rest and a physical therapy program including: (a) muscular strengthening and flexibility; (b) a pre-game warm-up routine; and (c) the adjustment of an individual's golf swing to meet their physical capacities and limitations through properly supervised golf lessons.

At the Cleveland Shoulder Institute, we highly encourage the adoption of our "Five Week Interval Golf Program." This is a structured progressive rehabilitation program aimed at accelerating the return to play golf for our patients who suffered a shoulder injury or after undergoing a shoulder related surgery. This program is comprised of a set of several swings using different clubs performed three days a week, for four weeks. By the fifth week, our patients can enjoy a game of nine holes. For a copy of this golf interval program, visit <http://bit.ly/clerehabgolf>.

Golfers who fail to respond to non-surgical treatment options can often return to competitive golf after appropriate surgical treatment. For more information on shoulder anatomy, disease, surgery and management, please visit: clevelandshoulder.com.

Dr. Gobezie is founder/director of The Cleveland Shoulder Institute, GO Ortho and Regen Orthopedics.

Getting kids into golf is a great way for parents to bond with their children while enjoying the great outdoors. Golf can also be used to teach kids humility, sportsmanship and the importance of hard work. Thanks to the often frustrating nature of golf, parents may find it somewhat challenging to instill a love of the game in their youngsters. But there are ways to introduce kids to this wonderful game that kids might just play for the rest of their lives.

GOLF TERMINOLOGY

Golf: the origin of the word “golf” is thought to have come from the Dutch word “kolf” or “kolve”, meaning “club” and the passed into Scottish language and became to “golfe,” “gowl” or “gouf” because of the eccentricities of Scottish dialect. Many people wrongly believe that it’s because it forms the acronym; “Gentleman Only, Ladies Forbidden”, but that is merely an internet myth.

Birdie: coined by an American named Ab Smith who initially referred to a “bird of a shot” which later became a “birdie.”

Caddy: is derived from the French word “cadet” (with has roots in the Gascon Occitan as capdèth or capdet, meaning chief then younger boy) used to refer to the Cadets de Gascogne, the youngest sons of the aristocratic families of Gascony who were captains serving in the French Army during the 15th century.

Scratch golfer: a golfer with a handicap of zero.

The Honor (Honour in British English): when a golfer is entitled to tee off first, usually having won the last hole, or maintained “The Honor since the last hole with a winner.

Condor: not a phrase you’re likely to come across in golf, a “condor” is the name for a score of 4 under par. There have only been four verified condor’s, all hole-in-one’s on par 5.

Links golf courses: are characterized by being built on the thin strip of grass, sand and dunes between the sea and typical agricultural land. As a result they often have undulating fairways, are interspersed with sand dunes, have numerous bunkers and very little in the way of trees.

Parkland golf courses: typically have lush, well maintained fairways, mature trees and woodland, deep rough and bunkers.

Resort golf courses: resort courses are typically more playable than other types of golf courses because they’re designed to entertain guests of hotels and resort companies. Featuring wide fairways, short cut rough and forgiving greens, resort courses are designed for quick, easy play and to make the most of their natural surroundings.

Heath-land golf courses: usually have rolling fairways, sculpted through the natural landscape with bushes, shrubs and few trees.

Desert golf courses: rely heavily on man-made watering systems to maintain lush fairways and greens in stark contrast to their barren desert setting. Popular in southwestern US states they’re also becoming more common in North Africa and the Middle East. Desert golf courses are usually flat with man-made lakes and waterways, cacti, palm trees and rocky outcrops.

A “mulligan” is a bad shot which by mutual agreement between playing partners is cancelled and replayed.

Striking the ground before making contact with the ball was called a “sclaff”.

PRO GOLF FACTS

Walter Hagen was the first professional golfer, in the 1920's he became a golf club pro and earned a living teaching.

Dr. Cary Middlecoff, an honoree at this year's Memorial Tournament, gave up dentistry to play golf and won 37 tournaments, including the Masters and two U.S. Opens.

In 1962, Jack Nicklaus collected his first paycheck on the PGA Tour, $33.33 at the L.A. Open.

The only female golfer to make the cut at a PGA Tour event is Babe Zaharias at the L.A. Open in 1945.

In 1957, Doug Ford predicted that he'd win The Masters with a score of 283. Amazingly, not only won the tournament he got the score he predicted too.

Despite being the most talented left-handed golfer ever, Phil Mickelson is naturally right-handed. He learnt to play golf mirroring his father's swings and it worked so well for him never had reason to change.

The 1953 World Championship of Golf was the first nationally televised golf tournament. The tournament was filled with the drama that has helped golf become a mainstay of sports entertainment. Lew Worsham needed a birdie to take the tournament into a playoff against Chandler Harper but he eagled from 104 yards to win on the final hole.

The LPGA Tour's record for the fastest round is held by Alice Miller.

Miller completed 18 holes in 1 hour, 26 minutes and 44 seconds at the Welch's/Circle K Championship in 1997

The longest recorded putt in a professional tournament was made by Bob Cook at the 1976 International Fourball Pro Am Tournament. On the 18th hole at St. Andrews, Cook made a 140 foot and 2¾ inch long putt.

The legendary Sam Snead is the only male golfer to have won a tournament on the LPGA Tour. In 1962, he won the 1962 Royal Poinciana Plaza Invitational finishing with a 5 shot lead.

The chances of making two consecutive holes in one is at the edge of the realms of possibility and odds have been put anywhere where between 25,000,000 and 65,000,000 to 1. But at the 1971 Martini Tournament in Norwich, England John Hudson did just that, with aces on the 11th and 12th holes. The 11th hole was 195 yards long and the 12th hole, a whopping 311 yards.

Golfing legend Billy Casper had a lesser trodden route into professional golf. While serving in the Navy, he was assigned to the special athletic unit in San Diego giving him the opportunity to hone his game. He turned pro during the Korean War in 1954.

In 1963 Jack Nicklaus became the youngest player to win The Masters.

In 1986, Jack Nicklaus became the oldest player to win The Masters.

Tiger Woods made his first hole-in-one when he was just 8 years old.

RANDOM GOLF FACTS

125,000 golf balls a year are hit into the water at the famous 17th hole of the Stadium Course at Sawgrass

Golf balls travel significantly further on hot days. A golfer swinging a club at around 100 mph will carry the driver up to eight yards longer for each increase in air temperature of 25°F.

80% of all golfers will never achieve a handicap of less than 18.

Oakland University's Kassandra Komma scored two hole-in-ones in nine holes. The odds, one in 64 million.

It's common for Japanese golfers to have insurance for getting a "hole-in-one". Having made hole-in-one It's customary to throw a party and present gifts to all your friends to share your good luck.

Las Vegas' Shadow Creek Golf Course is the United States' most expensive public course at $500 for an 18 hole round.

The oldest known rules of golf were written in 1744 by an Edinburgh Golf Club.

South African golfer Gary Player wore a pair of trousers with one black leg and one white leg at the 1960 Open Championship in St Andrews to protest against Apartheid.
