Reggie's Kawasaki supports Maine wardens

Reggie's Kawasaki & Ski-Doo of Leeds recently loaned three new recreational vehicles at no charge to assist the staff of the Maine Warden Service in their work this summer and fall.

Provided through Kawasaki's User Relations Loaner Program, the vehicles are a 2015 Kawasaki TERYX 800 two-passenger 4x4 utility vehicle and two 2015 Kawasaki STX1500 jet skis. The utility vehicle will be used in search and rescue operations, ATV special enforcement details and to transport people and equipment to and from the woods in a variety of circumstances. The jet skis will be used for recreational boating safety enforcement on Maine's busiest lakes. The vehicles will be returned to Reggie's when the loan expires in November.

This is the third year Reggie's has helped secure the use of recreational vehicles for the Maine Warden Service under this program. "It's been a great partnership," said Reggie's General Manager Craig Caron. "It's good public relations, provides valuable tools to help the Warden Service do its work, and has been good for our business."

Governor’s Address: Government Shutdown Not Needed

Let me be clear: I have never called for a government shutdown. I do not want a shutdown. It is not necessary.

Dear Maine Taxpayer,

Democrats are using scare tactics to make state employees and the Maine people believe a government shutdown is imminent. Furthermore, they are trying to blame it on Republicans. Folks, this just isn't true. A shutdown is not necessary.

There is plenty of time for legislators to work out a responsible budget that serves the best interests of Mainers. They just need to get back to work.

Don't be fooled by the false deadlines the Democrats keep talking about. They would rather pack up and go home for the summer than create a budget that benefits the Maine people. That's because legislators don't get paid for working after June 30. Instead of worrying about their pay, Democrats should be more concerned with getting the job done for the people they claim to represent.

This budget must include what the Maine people are demanding. They told us very clearly in November they want tax relief, more welfare reform and less spending on government.

The Democrats propose spending $125 million more in their budget. But they give no tax cuts for Mainers. In fact, Democrats disenfranchise the Maine people – that is, until they need your vote at the next election. They also take money from nursing homes to give to undocumented immigrants.

Thankfully, Republicans in the House are sticking to their principles. Their budget would lower taxes, keep reforming welfare and limit spending.

Democrats have a choice. They can keep playing games or they can do what's right for Mainers. On June 30, they will have 3 options. They can recess, adjourn or take action to keep government open. If Democrats have not agreed to a responsible budget by June 30, I will submit a continuing resolution to keep state government running.

It will provide the revenue needed to keep government open on a month-by-month basis. A two-thirds vote of the Legislature is needed to enact a continuing resolution. If Democrats don't vote for the continuing resolution, then it is their choice – and their choice only – to shut down government.

Again, a shutdown is not necessary. It's just political fear-mongering by Democrats. Instead of using scare tactics to threaten state workers, Democrats should get to work and do what's right for the people of Maine.

Thank You,
Paul R. LePage
Governor

“We shared experiences that united us,” said Ladd. “By junior year, we started to truly know each and every member of our class on a personal level.”

“St. Dom’s has taught us that it isn’t enough to merely say what we think is right and wrong; we must show it in our deeds,” said Lee. “This will serve us well as we go out into the world.”

“This senior class is, and always will be, very special to me,” said Principal Girouard. “I have watched them grow and become young adults. I am very proud of their accomplishments as they move on to the next chapter of their lives.”

The days leading up to graduation included a Baccalaureate Mass and an awards banquet. Several students were recognized for their accomplishments in the arts, sciences, math, overall academic standing and extracurricular activities. A few were awarded college scholarship based upon their academic performance.

The top 10 students from the Class of 2015 are Anya Lee (daughter of Mark Lee & Sandra Heutz-Lee), Samantha Ladd (daughter of Jonathan and Patricia Ladd), Bella Bennett (daughter of Thomas and Mary Bennett), Matthew Keaney (son of Michael & Linda Keaney), Hailey Eason (daughter of Michael and Susan Eason), Emily Martin (daughter of Lloyd and M. Elizabeth Martin), Jessica Boulet (daughter of James and Nicole Boulet), Nicole Robitaille (daughter of Marc and Brenda Robitaille), Zoë Caron (daughter of Tammy Caron) and Keenan Lynch (son of Scott and Darlene Lynch).

WE'VE MOVED!

Enough is Enough

Passenger rail would help improve local economy

By Robert E. Macdonald
MAYOR OF LEWISTON

I enjoy a peaceful walk in the morning. The crisp, fresh air is not only exhilarating, but helps clear your mind.

Last week the tranquil early morning quiet was shattered by the sound of a train whistle. I love the sound of a train whistle in the morning. It signals the start of a new day. Its toot reminds the populace that it's time to get up and go to work.

Its long, steady whistle announces the start of daily commerce in retail, restaurants and commercial business. It also signals to some layabouts that it's time to go to bed.

Yes, I love the sound of train whistles in the morning: it's the sound of economic development.

The progress of economic development of the past few decades in Lewiston can best be described using medical terms. A while ago, it was hard to find a pulse. The pulse got stronger as a small group of entrepreneurs came to Lewiston with a vision. When those visions were realized, our city progressed to the working-out stage at the gym.

Now as outside developers and businesses start to show interest in Lewiston, we are well on our way to compete in the state body-building championships.

For years, Lewiston's industrial base has been eroding. This has been made worse by the recession. We have lagged woefully behind many areas in southern Maine and Bangor. Thankfully, several local entrepreneurs have had faith in our city, invested and moved us to a point that more investors are currently considering investing in our city. We have finally become of age.

Last week I was in Augusta to testify in support of LD 438: "An Act To Authorize A General Fund Bond Issue To Invest In Maine's Rail Infrastructure And Expand Passenger Rail Service." This bill was introduced by state Senator Nate Libby, who is also a Lewiston City Councillor.

Once passed, the bill will appear on this year's November ballot. It will ask Maine voters to approve a $25 million bond to fund the construction of key rail infrastructure between Lewiston and Portland, as well as other rail projects at the discretion of the Maine Department of Transportation.

Our quest to bring passenger rail service to Lewiston has a wide range of support among state, county, city and town officials. Liberal and conservative groups, which are usually opposing each other, are on board and backing the bill.

Lewiston-Auburn local state legislators are also on board with Senator Nate Libby, Representative Jared Golden and Representative Bruce Bickford as our area point men.

I seldom vote for bonds; however, this bond is an exception. We need passenger rail to help develop and improve our communities' economy. By creating alternative transportation, we will appeal to the young affluent professionals.

In the Marine Corps, we were trained to adapt and overcome. Change is difficult for those of us over 65. But unless we change and adapt to the needs of our young people, we will wither on the vine and our city will die. Yes, change is hard, but it is also necessary. So let's start adapting.

Most young professionals are looking to live in an apartment or condominium located close to work and the area nightlife. They prefer walking, biking and public transportation to cars. The train will open the world to Lewiston, Auburn and our surrounding towns.

It will also allow area residents a safe, reliable and comfortable means of transportation to Portland, Boston, Montreal and beyond. Lastly, the prosperity it will bring will make it difficult for our layabouts to ... lay about.

Central Maine FCU president joins MCUL board

Vicki Stuart, President/CEO of Central Maine Federal Credit Union, was elected to the Maine Credit Union League's Board of Directors at the League's annual meeting recently in Portland. Stuart, who has been President/CEO of CMFCU since 1992, will represent the Norm Nolette chapter. Central Maine FCU has locations in Lewiston and Auburn.

A "seal" of approval for PMT students

There was something special about the official medallion worn by President Scott Knapp during the Commencement Exercises at Central Maine Community College this spring. The medallion, which bears the new official seal of the college, was actually made by student Ian Munsell, with some assistance by fellow student Greg Manocchio and faculty members of the school's Precision Machining Technology (PMT) program.

A resident of Auburn, Munsell graduated with high honors from the PMT program in May. A member of the Phi Theta Kappa International Honor Society, Munsell was one of only 50 students who received a scholarship to attend a National Science Foundation conference in Washington, D.C., last fall. He prepared and staffed a display related to CMCC's Regional Advanced Machining Partnership project, which is funded by the NSF.

One of the largest in the Northeastern United States, CMCC's PMT program offers a two-year associate in applied science degree and a one-year certificate. Students are trained in conventional and Computer Numeric Control (CNC) machining. Graduates of the program are employed as machine operators, CNC machinists, tool and die makers, quality control inspectors, machine assemblers, machine tool designers, CNC programmers and field service representatives.

Jan Phillips, Executive Director of College for ME-Androscoggin, applauded the scholarship recipients. "These adults are determined to succeed in college because it is a dream a long time in the making, one they know will make a huge difference for themselves and their families." College for ME-Androscoggin is a local nonprofit that works to promote college aspiration, access and attainment in Androscoggin County.

Lewiston M.S program preps eighth graders for future success

A graduate of Lewiston High School and Bates College, Tufts Medical School student Jennifer Bergeron will spend Monday discussing her academic journey with graduating eighth graders at Lewiston Middle School.

On Monday, June 15, Lewiston High School Class of 2010 graduate Jennifer Bergeron will be at Lewiston Middle School to discuss her educational journey with the school's graduating eighth graders. Bergeron attended Bates College as an undergraduate and just completed her first year at Tufts University School of Medicine, where she was admitted to the school's Maine Track Program.

Bergeron will visit the middle school as a special guest of its Steps To Accomplishing Real-Life Transitions (START) program. Now in its ninth year, the program encourages students to see the limitless possibilities open to them through effort, engagement and positive choices during their high school experience.

Later in the day, Social Media Strategist Abbie McGilvery will discuss the positive use of applications like Twitter, Snapchat, Instagram and Facebook.

The day's START activities will conclude at 6 p.m., when parents are encouraged to attend a program recap with START speaker Jennifer Bergeron and LMS Aspirations Director Billie Jo Brito in the school auditorium. Immediately following the recap, Lewiston High School principal Shawn Chabot and other members of the high school staff will discuss next year's grading and reporting system for ninth grade students. They will also answer any questions parents may have about their child's transition to Lewiston High School.

Jennifer Bergeron graduated as class salutatorian from LHS, where she challenged herself with upper-level classes, including offerings in the Lewiston Regional Technical Center's Health Science program.

Federal Department of Education 2007 Maine Teacher of the Year Pam Abzan remembers Bergeron well. "There was no doubt in my mind that she would go on to do great things," said Abzan. "She was fascinated by the cardiovascular system and, as a capstone project, wrote a manual on how to read EKGs. I still have the manual and use it as an exemplar to motivate other students."

While at LHS, Bergeron also participated in extracurricular activities. She was a varsity athlete in cross country, swimming and track, a member of the math team, and participated in the Androscoggin Valley Education Collaborative. At Bates, she majored in Biological Chemistry, studying under noted professor, Paula Schlax, with whom she researched the cause of Lyme disease. She balanced college academics with participation in competitive ballroom and Bollywood dancing and by studying in Denmark.

Bergeron will spend this summer working for the Maine Medical Center Research Institute, focusing on how high cholesterol affects the heart's function. In the fall, she will travel from Boston to Bangor every other week to spend a few days at Penobscot Community Health Care.

Other aspects of this year's START program have included a communications seminar with Andrew Harris of Portland Stage, a transition to high school presentation by LHS Substance Abuse Counselor Vicky Wiegman and Aspirations Coordinator Doug Dumont, visits to the Lewiston Regional Technical Center, Southern Maine Community College and Bates College, a finance education seminar presented by the Finance Authority of Maine and a round table discussion with recent college graduates.

For more information about the START program, contact Billie Jo Brito at 795-4180 or bbrito@lewistonpublicschools.org.

LAWPC receives grant to continue watershed improvements

The Lake Auburn Watershed Protection Commission has received a Maine DEP grant award of $148,000 to implement erosion control projects in the Lake Auburn watershed. Combined with contributions of labor and materials by project partners, including the Androscoggin Soil and Water Conservation District and the Towns of Turner and Minot, this brings the total value of slated improvements to $264,000.

Since an algae bloom that resulted in fish kill in Lake Auburn in 2012, staff and consultants have investigated the watershed for sources of polluted runoff to the lake. Approximately 74 problem sites were identified, with a price tag of $3 million to fix them. The LAWPC has already addressed the most serious problems.

This grant will allow local partners to complete additional work, including culvert replacements, road-side drainage improvements, and the planting of pollution-capturing buffers along shorelines, all designed to reduce the amount of phosphorous entering the lake.

The grant also includes funds for education and outreach about lake protection. In addition to helping homeowners establish lake-friendly practices, LAWPC will work closely with students from Edward Little High School's Ag program to grow buffer plants in the school greenhouse. Students will then conduct workshops to teach area residents about the value of shoreline buffer plantings and will help provide and plant the buffers.

"Assistant Principal

Jim Horn and I are excited to put two of our most precious resources together: our students and our water," said LAWPC Education and Outreach manager Lynne Richard. "We believe that one of the best ways to protect our drinking water source is to teach our future leaders how to care for the lake and its surrounding watershed."

Work on grant-funded projects will begin during the summer of 2015 and is expected to continue over the next two to three years.

Celebration Barn kicks off with "Early Evening Show"

Mike Miclon brings his popular "Early Evening Show" back to Celebration Barn Theater on Saturday, June 13.

Celebration Barn Theater will kick off its 2015 performance season on Saturday, June 13 at 8 p.m. with a new installment of Mike Miclon's "The Early Evening Show."

Hosted by funny man Mike Miclon, the show is a spoof of late-night television talk shows that, with its 14-year run at the Oddfellow Theater in Buckfield, has become the longest-running live variety show in Maine. Complete with wild improvisations, surprise guests and audience interactions, the show spotlights an eccentric cast of recurring characters, including Dickie Hyper-Hynie, Moto Hoonchbach and the Early Evening Show Orchestra. The Bangor Daily News has called it "a seamless, hilarious production" and CBS Sunday Morning has called it "must-see reality." Celebration Barn will present two more installments of the show later in the season.

June's performance will feature special guests Thom Wall and Fritz Grobe. Wall is a knock-out juggler who visits fresh from a tour with Cirque du Soleil and a run at Radio City Music Hall. Fan favorite Grobe is co-founder of Eepy Bird (a.k.a. the Coke and Mentos Guys) who has a long history of appearances on The Early Evening Show.

Celebration Barn is located just off Route #117 at 190 Stock Farm Road in South Paris. Live performances are scheduled at 8 p.m. on most Saturday evenings from June through August, with additional dates scheduled in September and October.

Tickets are $14 for adults, $12 for seniors and $8 for kids. They can be purchased online via Brown Paper Tickets or by calling 743-8452. For more information, see www.CelebrationBarn.com.

Maine Fiberarts presents "Maine Indian Basketry"

Now on display at Maine Fiberarts in Topsham is an exhibition of 78 baskets woven by over thirty Wabanaki basket makers that were lent from 12 different sources. "Maine Indian Basketry" is on view to the public through June 30. The Wabanaki, or "People of the Dawn," include members of the Penobscot, Passamaquoddy, Maliseet and Micmac tribes who hail from the Northern and Down East regions of Maine. They have a long standing tradition of weaving baskets prized for their utility and fine craftsmanship. Since January, members of a curatorial committee have been gathering baskets for Maine Fiberarts' show from several sources, including the Abbe Museum in Bar Harbor,

Home & Away Gallery in Kennebunkport, several private collections and the artists themselves. Baskets on display include both historical and contemporary examples. While the materials used are mainly brown ash and sweetgrass, the techniques employed vary widely. Point baskets, curly baskets, handkerchief, alewife, button, sewing, See Basketry, page 12

Summer line-up at Arundel Barn Playhouse

Arundel Barn Playhouse kicks off its 2015 season on June 16 with “Nunsense: A-Men!”

Arundel Barn Playhouse returns this month for its 18th season of family summer theater. The 2015 season kicks off June 16 through 27 with the music, laughter and mayhem of “Nunsense: A-Men!”, in which the Little Sisters of Hoboken (played by male actors who “get in the habit”) plan a benefit to pay for the burial of four nuns waiting in the freezer.

“The Addams Family” runs June 30 through July 11. The bizarre but beloved clan will entertain audiences to death when daughter Wednesday announces her plans to marry a “normal” guy. (Come join us - we’ll leave the lights off for you.) Disney’s “The Little Mermaid” takes center stage July 14 through August 1. It’s magic under the sea as a dazzling array of sea creatures, including Flounder, Sebastian and Ursula, tell this timeless tale with song, dance and laughter for the whole family.

“La Cage Aux Folles”

runs August 4 through 15. This warmhearted story about being true to oneself is an all-time audience favorite, one of Broadway’s biggest hits, and won six Tony Awards, including Best Musical, Best Score and Best Book. (Includes PG12 content.)

“Beehive: The 60’s Musical,” running August 18 through 29, is the perfect end-of-summer treat. Celebrate the age of love-ins and rock and roll with hits by the era’s hottest female singers and groups. Sing along with pop songs from the bubble gum days to the later civil unrest, including “Downtown,” “Respect,” “It’s My Party” and “Proud Mary.”

Arundel Barn Playhouse is located at 53 Old Post Road in Arundel. Call or visit the Box Office for subscriptions or individual tickets. Group rates are available. Early season box office hours are weekdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

For more information, call 985-5552 or see www.arundelbarnplayhouse.com.

The exhibition includes baskets created by David Moses Bridges, Pam Cunningham, George Neptune, Clara Keezer, Molly Neptune Parker, Jeremy Frey, Fred Tomah, Mary Sanipass, Theresa Secord and Sarah Sockbeson, among others.

Special programming to coincide with the exhibition will also be presented. On Saturday, June 13, from 1 to 3 p.m., Passamaquoddy basket maker George Neptune will discuss “Collecting Maine Baskets” at Curtis Memorial Library in Brunswick. On Saturday, June 20, from 1 to 2 p.m., Theresa Secord will offer a hands-on workshop called “Weaving an Ash and Sweetgrass Bookmark” at Topsham Public Library. The workshop is free for the first twenty people who sign up by calling 725-1727 or emailing cyndi@topshamlibrary.org.

Since the year 2000, Maine Fiberarts has hosted exhibitions that change every two or three months. This statewide arts non-profit currently hosts a free

CMCC, Auburn Rec. to spotlight local sports tourism

Central Maine Community College and the Auburn Recreation and Advisory Committee will co-sponsor a summer education series on the topic of sports tourism. To date, two sessions have been scheduled on the value of sports tourism and how best to promote it in the local community. Each session will consist of a brief presentation, followed by audience questions and a discussion.

Both programs are free and open to the public. They will take place at 6 p.m. in Kirk Hall at Central Maine Community College, 1250 Turner Street in Auburn.

The Wednesday, June 17 program will feature Bill Baker, a full-time advocate for businesses and residents of the City of Westbrook, who has helped increase economic activity by attracting national recreation events, such as the "Tough Mudder," to the area.

The Wednesday, July 8 program will feature Rob Cappola, strategic director for the Maine Sports Commission. Cappola develops marketing strategies and materials and collaborates with Maine's eight tourism regions to research and develop new sporting events.

"Auburn has been steadily making investments in our facilities for athletic events, most notably Maine's only dual-sheet ice arena and now an indoor field turf facility at Ingersoll Arena," said Auburn Mayor Jonathan LaBonte. "The region's youth sports programs, competitive high school teams and small college partners position us to grow a tourism economy here through sports. This could mean more hotel stays, more restaurant visits and, ultimately, more jobs and a greater tax base."

For more information about the series, call Dave Gonyea at 755-5251.
