BCSC's annual youth regatta a 'rousing success'

It was a hectic scene at Rocky Point Park last Wednesday, July 19, as competitors in the Laser class dashed to get their vessels in the water as quickly as possible before the first races began.

- Article & photos by Devin Crum -

More than 500 people descended on the beautiful shores of Rocky Point Park in Essex last week during the Baltimore County Sailing Center's 2017 Summer Junior Regatta.

The annual event hosted more than 150 competitors from five states to participate in a variety of sailboat races over two days last Wednesday, July 19, and Thursday, July 20. As a qualifier event for both the Chesapeake Bay Yacht Racing Association (CBYRA) and the United States Sailing Association (US Sailing), the event also allowed participants to jockey for position in regional as well as national championship series, said

George Good, BCSC's chairperson for the event.

In regional competition, the regatta counted toward CBYRA's Junior High Point standings. On the national level, it served as an Area "C" US Sailing regional qualifier for the Chubb U.S. Junior Championships in pursuit of the Bemis and Smythe trophies, according to a press release for the event. Area C consists of Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Virginia.

"A lot of these kids that were coming to our event were there to help build their qualifying status for those nationals that happen at the end of the season in fall or winter," Good said.

Holding the races over two days this year allowed the sailors to participate in as many races as possible and drop their lowest scores to improve their standings. And despite some weather issues, Good called the overall event a "rousing success."

County Councilman Todd Crandell, who represents the area, also participated in the opening ceremonies.

Sunny skies, calm seas and a steady breeze made for a nearly ideal first day of racing Wednesday. But an approaching storm forced the event into postponement after just one race for each fleet. Races were able to resume after the weather

Dundalk residents use Dumpster Day as occasion to help neighbor in need

- Article & photos by Devin Crum -

During the West Inverness Community Association's second annual Dumpster Day Saturday, July 22, community members not only provided a way for residents to get rid of their trash and junk, but also presented a disabled neighbor with a new mode of transportation.

The recipient, Mario Carlucci, has lived in the West Inverness community in Dundalk for around 40 years and was born with a spinal cord condition that prevents him from walking, according to WICA President Susan Rayba.

"He owns his home and never asks for help with anything, but he's always there to help others," Rayba said.

She added that neighbors often give Carlucci rides in their cars to take him where he needs to go, and they try to help him however they can. And when no one is available to provide transportation, he simply pushes himself in his manual wheelchair to his destination.

But the recent wave of summer heat over the past few weeks and Carlucci's increasing age have made it more difficult to push himself in his old wheelchair, Rayba said.

Lucky for Carlucci, however, his neighbors used an unfortunate situation to help better the life of someone they care about.

A friend of WICA Vice President Bob Compton recently passed away, leaving a motorized scooter chair behind. And although it needed a little work, he and others decided it would be perfect for Carlucci.

Cliff O'Connell of Cliff's Hi-Tech and Cliff's Direct Effect in Essex volunteered to perform the needed work free of charge, fixing any problems with the scooter and giving it a fresh coat of paint.

Rayba said it was funny to see O'Connell, who usually works on cars, working on a motor scooter instead.

Nevertheless, she said those are the kinds of things she and others like her are doing to try to bring the community together and move it forward.

"We're hoping this is going to change Mario's life," she said.

"This is real nice," Carlucci said after receiving the scooter, adding that it was fun taking it for a test drive. "This will certainly be faster to get to the store."

Rayba and O'Connell, along with O'Connell's wife Debbie, Lynne Mitchell and Nora Baublitz - all of whom attended the event - comprise of group of community activists known as the Core Group. They came together from the southeastern Baltimore County communities of West Inverness, Middlesex, Berkshire and Eastwood, respectively, after realizing their communities face many of the same problems including trash, rats, crime and issues with homes and properties in their neighborhoods.

Rayba noted that the presentation and the community Dumpster Day - which the Back River Restoration Committee also helped with - were all part of the Core Group's mission to better communities in Essex and Dundalk.

"We're bringing more people into our vision and making our community a better place to live," she said. "We're all about quality of life issues and making things better and working together."

Henrietta Lacks to be honored with Turner Station street dedication

- By Marge Neal -

Henrietta Lacks, a Turner Station resident and unwitting medical pioneer, will be honored Saturday, July 29, in a street-renaming ceremony scheduled at the Fleming Community Center, 641 Main St. in Turner Station.

The tribute program will begin at 10 a.m. and will include a free screening of the movie, "The Immortal Life of Henrietta Lacks," starring Oprah Winfrey, according to a statement from Baltimore County officials. The movie is based on the book of the same title by Rebecca Skloot.

New Pittsburgh Avenue, where the Lacks family lived at the time of Henrietta's death, is expected to be dedicated to the woman whose cancer cells became the basis for numerous medical research projects that led to medical advancements, including vaccines, in-vitro fertilization techniques and cancer-fighting drugs.

County officials told the East County

Times in May of their plan to dedicate a street in Lacks' honor, shortly after state legislation was passed to dedicate a portion of Broening Highway, a state road, to Lacks.

Lacks, who died of cervical cancer in 1951 at the age of 31, was being treated at Johns Hopkins Hospital when her cancer cells were harvested and then cultivated in a laboratory. The hardy cells were the first human cells to be successfully grown outside the body. Known as the HeLa cell line, the prolific cells made their way into labs around the world where they were used for various research projects.

Many organizations, including the Lacks family, the Henrietta Lacks House of Healing, the Henrietta Lacks Legacy Group, the Turner Station Conservation team and the Fleming Senior Center Council, are working together on the event, according to the statement from the county.

The public is invited to attend the free event.

Destiny is fulfilled as community gathers to rededicate Aquila Randall monument

- Article and photo by Marge Neal -

Little could Capt. Benjamin C. Howard have known in 1817 that eight simple, yet prophetic words from a speech he delivered would serve as an invitation for others to gather at the same spot exactly 200 years later.

On July 21, 1817, on a little patch of land along what is now North Point Road in Dundalk, members of the First Mechanical Volunteers dedicated a war memorial in honor of Pvt. Aquila Randall, the first man killed in the Battle of North Point during the War of 1812. After erecting and dedicating the monument, Howard spoke poignantly of the "melancholy event which has caused our assemblage at this spot."

"We commit this monument to destiny and time," Howard told those gathered.

So it was destiny that another crowd would gather on that small patch of land 200 years later to the day to rededicate the memorial and remember not only the dead, but the survivors of that battle and the important role they played in protecting Baltimore from invading British forces led by Gen. Robert Ross.

Ross, who was leading the much larger, better-equipped British force, was killed in the same skirmish in which Randall died. Also killed were Daniel Wells and Henry McComas who, according to local legend, fired simultaneous gun shots, one of which felled Ross.

"It was his leading from the front that would lose his life," re-enactor and historian Ed Seufert said of Ross.

With a solemn ceremony of prayer, patriotic music, flag displays, the recitation of news articles and speeches from 1817 by men in period costumes and the presentation of modern-day proclamations by 21st-century elected leaders, the memory of Aquila Randall was once again committed to destiny and time.

A crowd of about 75 people representing a variety of local organizations, including the Maryland National Guard, the Maryland Society of the War of 1812 and the Wells-McComas Citizens Improvement Association, gathered under canopies on a swelteringly hot day to remember Randall, as well as to honor the area's role in helping to secure the freedom and independence of Maryland and the fledgling nation.

Jean Walker, president of the Dundalk-Patapsco Neck Historical Society, said after the event she believes it is important to remember Dundalk's role in vital events that helped shape a young nation.

"We knew so little about the Battle of North Point when we were in school because they just didn't teach about it," she said. "Most of us didn't learn a lot about it until we got involved with the society."

Events such as this one help keep people educated as well as keep the memory of those early heroes alive, she believes.

The desire to tell another generation the story of the monument was a major reason for planning the event, according to local resident Patricia Paul, who coordinated all the participating organizations.

"We wanted to tell the story in a meaningful manner, so that when people left they had the back story of the monument and a better understanding of the battle," Paul said after the event."

At the request of "a friend from across the pond," the ceremony also made a point out of showing "dignity and respect" for Ross, according to Paul.

Lt. Col. John McDaniel, commander of the 175th Infantry Regiment, Maryland National Guard, said his unit "proudly carries the pride and lineage" of the First Mechanical Volunteers unit, which was part of Maryland's Fifth Regiment.

He spoke of the soldiers who gave the last of their devotion and sacrificed their lives for state and country.

"Maryland's Dandy Fifth honors them today," he said. Citing a unit slogan, he added, "We are 'always ready, always here.'"

Friday's gathering honored Howard's words as much as it honored Randall.

"We owe something to those who are dead - something to those who are yet unborn," Howard told his volunteers at the original dedication in 1817. "So strongly do I feel this, that my imagination at this moment flies forward to the future, and my memory to the past. I can picture to myself sensations of those who in far distant days will contemplate this monument, while my memory brings before me the scene which was exhibited here and the melancholy event which has caused our assemblage at this spot."

In those far distant days that Howard envisioned, on July 21, 2017, on that small parcel of sacred land, another generation gathered to remember that melancholy event, most probably with their own thoughts of far distant days when yet another generation will again gather in a show of respect for a slice of local history.

Ed Seufert, an 1812 historian, read excerpts from Capt. Benjamin Howard's speech delivered at the 1817 dedication of the Aquila Randall monument.

Medical marijuana stores set to open locally by year's end

- Article & photo by Virginia Terhune -

People living with chronic pain stand to soon benefit from a new state program that will allow the regulated sale of medical marijuana at more than 100 retail outlets around Maryland, including six stores serving the eastern Baltimore County area.

State law allows two dispensaries in each legislative district, and more than 100 pre-approvals have been granted by the Maryland Medical Cannabis Commission, subject to final inspections later this year.

In the works are two dispensaries in Perry Hall for District 8, one in White Marsh and one in Joppa for District 7, and two in Dundalk for District 6.

Pre-approved applicants have until late December to find locations, secure local zoning and permit approvals and pass final inspections before opening.

The federal government does not sanction the sale of marijuana, but 24 states now legally allow it, including Maryland. The cost of products is not covered by Medicare, Medicaid or insurance companies, and customers will be expected to pay in cash, although some locations are looking into additional forms of payment.

The Maryland commission has also granted pre-approvals to growers who produce the plants, including a site in Lutherville, and to processors who make the oils, salves, tinctures and creams that contain the pain-relieving marijuana.

Products are not sold in smokable form and they cannot be passed along to anyone except registered patients who have been certified by registered doctors.

Perry Hall

Blue Ridge Wellness LLC, a private investor group, hopes to open a dispensary in the Festival at Perry Hall shopping center on E. Joppa Road just west of Belair

Road in November.

The center is managed by Kline Scott Visco, a commercial real estate company based in Frederick.

"We'll be applying for building permits in the next few weeks," said Edward Scott, one of the principals, about plans to renovate a vacant space.

Scott said the project is allowed under current zoning according to a letter he received from the county.

County Councilman David Marks, who represents Perry Hall, said he plans to meet next week with the Perry Hall Improvement Association and the Perry Hall Business and Professional Association about the group's plans.

Marks said there are possible concerns about exactly where the store will locate in the center, which is also home to a daycare.

Scott said he also hopes to meet with local community associations and businesses about the business. He said a management company will handle the day-to-day operations. The store will employ five people, not including security guards.

Also pre-approved in District 8 is LMS Wellness, Benefit LLC, which plans to lease a vacant florist building at 4741 Ridge Road near the intersection of Perry Hall Boulevard.

Located in a residential area, the site is about half a mile southwest of White Marsh Mall.

Attorney William Huber, a Perry Hall resident and one of the principals in the venture, spoke about the project at a meeting of the South Perry Hall Improvement Association on July 17.

He said one of his goals is to dispel some of the stigma associated with marijuana. Although illegal under federal law, more than 20 states allow it to be used as a medicine to relieve pain, and some view it as a good alternative to opioid medications.

"It's an amazing, viable option for people," Huber said.

The current plan is to be open every day except Sunday, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., he said. The facility would employ 15 people and contract with a security firm for guards.

A video surveillance system will be installed, and rooms within the building will be secured, he said.

However, some residents oppose the location in a residential neighborhood, and Marks has proposed a bill that could block the project.

The Baltimore County Council is set to discuss the bill during a work session on Tuesday, Aug. 1, followed by a vote on Monday, Aug. 7.

Current county regulations say that a medical marijuana dispensary cannot be within 500 feet of a school site, and Marks' bill would increase that boundary to 800 feet.

The bill could affect the project because within 750 feet is a heavily wooded, developable school site at Gum Spring Road and Rossville Boulevard. Design money has been approved, and an elementary school is set to open there in 2020, Marks said.

His bill would also require that marijuana businesses notify council members when they ask for a special exception or apply for permits.

Huber said the group has already invested more than $75,000 in a new roof and has plans to install new flooring and upgrade the parking lot. He said he hopes to meet with Marks before the work session, but Marks said the group has had plenty of time to contact him before now.

Marks said he supports the therapeutic use of marijuana but believes stores should be located in more heavily traveled areas. He also said that locating two stores in Perry Hall means none can be located in Parkville or Carney.

White Marsh

In District 7, Chesapeake Health Sciences plans to open a dispensary just west of Pulaski Highway at 5512 Ebenezer Road, at the Red Lion Road intersection.

Formerly a Sprint mobile phone store, the building was most recently occupied by the Dave's Deals pawn shop, which has also now moved.

A representative of the group did not immediately return a phone call and email request for comment.

The applicants have asked the county for a special exception under the zoning regulations, and a hearing before a county administrative law judge is scheduled for Monday, July 31, in Towson.

Also pre-approved for the district is Meshow LLC, which is in the process of buying a site off Pulaski Highway in Joppa just across the county line in Harford County.

"It's a standalone building with room for expansion," said managing member Paul Michaud, a retired banker who presently lives in Monkton.

Michaud considered leasing a site but found that some landlords are concerned that doing business with entities that sell marijuana could violate provisions in mortgage documents.

Dundalk

Already at work renovating a leased building at 717 North Point Blvd. in a commercial area across from Eastpoint Mall is Charm City Medicus LLC, a group of private investors.

President and CEO Bryan Hill, whose grandparents lived in Dundalk, said the group plans to open the store in late October or early November and operate Monday through Sunday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The group will employ a licensed pharmacist to run the store and will employ students at the University of Maryland pharmacy school to work with clients.

The business will be hiring people for administrative and inventory work.

"We've gotten a lot of inquiries," said Hill. "They believe in the industry and they want to know how to get involved."

Customers will need to pay in cash, but the group is also looking into systems that automatically debit accounts.

Charm City Medicus LLC is currently renovating this building on North Point Boulevard for a marijuana dispensary.

Hill said marijuana oils have helped older people with arthritis and children with epilepsy, as well as his father who is living with esophageal cancer.

Also pre-approved to operate in District 6 is GreenMart of Maryland which is affiliated with CGX Life Sciences, a division of a Canadian company.

The group purchased a site at 7458 German Hill Road next to a convenience store and recently asked for relief from certain county parking and landscaping regulations at hearing on July 10.

The group plans to open by mid-December and operate from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. seven days a week.

A list of growers, processors and dispensaries, along with registration requirements for customers and other information is posted on the Maryland Medical Cannabis Commission website at www.mmcc.maryland.gov.

Could This Get Rid Of Knee Pain Once And For All...Without Drugs, Shots, or Surgery?

Let's face it, your knees aren't as young as they used to be, and playing with the kids or grandkids isn't any easier either. Maybe your knee pain keeps you from walking short distances or playing golf like you used to.

Nothing's worse than feeling great mentally, but physically feeling held back from life because your knee hurts and the pain just won't go away!

My name is Dr. Dennis Travagline, D.C., owner of Perry Hall Chiropractic & Physical Therapy. Since we opened, we've seen hundreds of people with knee problems leave the office pain-free.

If you're suffering from these conditions, a new breakthrough in medical technology may completely eliminate your pain and help restore normal function to your knees.

Finally, You Have an Option Other Than Drugs or Surgery

New research in a treatment called low level laser therapy, or Cold Laser, is having a profound effect on patients suffering with knee pain. Unlike the cutting type of laser seen in movies and used in medical procedures, Cold Laser penetrates the surface of the skin with no heating effect or damage.

Cold Laser therapy has been tested for 40 years, had over 2000 papers published on it, and been shown to aid in damaged tissue regeneration, decrease inflammation, relieve pain and boost the immune system. This means that there is a good chance Cold Laser therapy could be your knee pain solution, allowing you to live a more active lifestyle.

Do You Have Any of the Following Conditions?

- Arthritis
- Knee pain
- Cartilage damage
- Bone-on-bone'
- Tendonitis

REGATTA

passed, however, and the respective fleets squeezed in two more races to make for a solid day.

Then Thursday brought its own challenges in the form of a lack of wind in the morning, Good said.

"So the competitors arrived between 7 a.m. and 9 a.m. [Thursday], we had the skippers meeting at 9 a.m. and immediately put up the postponement of race flag," he said.

Good noted that the sailors had to sit on-shore until about 11:30 a.m., but were able to get back on the water with "great conditions" after eating lunch. The last fleet came off the water at about 4:30 p.m. after each group put in three more races, he said.

"Despite some weather non-cooperativeness from Mother Nature, we were able to work with what she was giving us and we got in a six-race regatta in each fleet," Good commented. "So that's considered a very successful event."

He said BCSC received a lot of positive responses from participants about Baltimore County and the sailing venue. Some visitors to the event from outside the area were even able to enjoy some of the local flavor while in town, such as visiting Pizza John's in Essex or catching an Orioles game.

"It was really great, because all these people came from out of town and they got to experience Baltimore," Good said. "So it was very rewarding for us as a board, and myself as the regatta chairperson, to see so many happy, smiling faces on the kids and to get so many great, positive comments from the parents of the participants."

Although most visitors were from the five Area C states, Good mentioned he saw license plates in the parking lot from farther away, such as Florida, Missouri, Texas and even Colorado, and at least 30 different sailing clubs were represented at the event.

The participants, aged 8 to under 18, competed in three different classes of sailboats during the regatta: the Club 420s, the Lasers and the Optimists, nicknamed "Optis." The event saw around 40 Club 420s, more than 40 Lasers and 48 Optis sailing, according to Good.

The youngest Opti sailors compete in the "green" fleet, then move up to the white, blue or red fleets based on their age, Good said. They can sail in the Opti class until their 15th birthday, and the Optis raced on a course about a half-mile in length.

The Club 420 fleet headed back to shore Wednesday due to an impending storm after completing just one race.

The Laser Radial class, a larger boat, does not have the lower age limit but accommodates sailors up to age 18.

The Club 420s have the same age range as the Laser Radials but are larger and have two sails (a jib and a main) and two sailors (a skipper and a crew) while the Lasers only have one of each.

The Laser Radials and 420s all used the same roughly mile-long course, and both courses were set up between the Rocky Point Park shore and Hart-Miller Island.

Along with the competitors, the regatta saw about 30 coaches, more than 100 parents, roughly 50 volunteers and the participants in BCSC's summer sailing camp, making for a sizable crowd at Rocky Point.

Good stressed that BCSC is an almost all-volunteer organization, functioning as a self-sufficient recreation council of the Baltimore County Department of Recreation and Parks, and called the sailing camp the BCSC's "bread and butter."

"A lot of our programs are entirely run by volunteers," he said, "including when we host a special event like this."

"[The camp is] where Baltimore County Sailing Center gets its sustainability," Good said, because the income from it helps pay for their other programs and events.

BCSC's mission is to introduce children and adults to the joy and challenge of small boat sailing through affordable learn-to-sail and seamanship programs, the press release stated. As a tax-exempt, charitable organization, they depend on fundraising activity to sustain their unique programs and continue to provide seamanship excellence to the community.

An Opti competitor carries out a maneuver known as a "roll tack" which helps more quickly turn the sail to square it with the wind after a turn.

Accident on 95 in Kingsville leaves one dead

On July 20 at approximately 12:33 p.m., The Maryland State Police responded to a serious motor vehicle accident involving a flatbed tow truck and a disabled tractor trailer, which was parked on the right shoulder of the highway.

The tow truck was traveling northbound on I-95 in the area of the Bradshaw Road in the middle lane. For unknown reasons, the tow truck veered into lane four and onto the right shoulder, striking the right rear of the trailer portion of a tractor trailer with the front left corner of the tow truck. The tow truck then traveled under the trailer, entrapping the driver of the tow truck.

The passenger of the tow truck was ejected from the vehicle onto the right shoulder. The involved tractor trailer was parked on the right shoulder and the occupant stated that his vehicle was disabled, and he was asleep in the sleeping area of the truck tractor when the collision occurred. The driver of the tow truck, identified as Ronald Lee Bower, 61, of Pasadena, was flown to Shock Trauma by MSP medivac where he succumbed to his injuries. The passenger of the tow truck was transported by ambulance to Bay View Medical Center to be treated for his injuries. The occupant of the tractor trailer was not injured.

This incident is still being investigated by police. No charges have been filed at this time.

Aggressive driving not tolerated by county police

Throughout the summer, Baltimore County Police will continue to clamp down on aggressive drivers.

Aggressive drivers speed, weave in and out of lanes, tailgate and cause crashes. They do not obey stop signs, red lights and officers. Aggressive drivers drive on road shoulders, sidewalks and medians. They are a menace on the highway.

Officers will be out in force to stop this behavior by issuing tickets, running tags to see if the driver has other tickets or outstanding warrants. Those driving under the influence will be arrested as will others depending on the infraction.

Avoid the hassle. Be a considerate driver, be patient in traffic and don't speed.

Back-to-school supply drive kicks off around the county

Beginning on Tuesday, July 25, Baltimore County residents are likely to see boxes everywhere - in local stores, libraries, health clubs, and offices. These boxes are collection bins for the annual school supply drive coordinated by The Education Foundation of Baltimore County Public Schools.

All new school supplies are welcome and will be well used. The most needed school supplies are: folders, composition books / notebooks, pencils, crayons, highlighters / markers, glue sticks, scissors, backpacks, binders, pens, Post-it Notes, and primary journals (composition books that include space for drawing). The school supply drive will run through Sunday, Aug. 13.

To date, the following businesses/organizations have agreed to accept public donations of school supplies:

- Anytime Fitness, Perry Hall and Timonium
- Baltimore County Public Library, all branches
- Barnes and Noble Booksellers, Pikesville
- Boscov's, White Marsh Mall
- Chesapeake Bank of Maryland
- Chick-fil-A, Eastpoint
- The Columbia Bank, Fairgrounds Plaza
- First Financial Federal Credit Union, all branches in Baltimore County
- Hiss United Methodist Church
- Office Depot, all locations in Baltimore County
- Santoni's
- SASS Salon
- White Marsh VFC

Boscov's of White Marsh Mall, a longtime partner of BCPS, began its school supply drive early - at the beginning of July - and will continue it through Saturday, Aug. 26. In addition to collecting school supplies, the store is accepting donations of new socks and underwear for students who are experiencing homelessness.

In addition, three festive community drop-off events will be held to accept public donations of school supplies. These will be held:

- Tuesday, Aug. 8, from 2 - 6 p.m. Pikesville Farmers Market, Pomona Square Shopping Center, 1700 Reisterstown Rd., 21208

Hosted by the Pikesville Chamber of Commerce

- Saturday, Aug. 12, from 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.

First Financial Federal branch, 1301 York Rd., Lutherville, 21093

Hosted by First Financial Federal Credit Union

- A date will soon be announced for a community drop-off event at the Towson Farmer's Market.

Hosted by the Towson Chamber of Commerce

The first and largest contributor to the drive is Open Door Before and After School Care, which, as the Cornerstone sponsor, has donated $10,000 worth of supplies for each of the past two years.

The following businesses/organizations will be collecting school supplies from their employees and customers/members or have already donated supplies:

- Baltimore County Democratic Central Committee
- basys
- Bohler Engineering
- Chesapeake Gateway Chamber of Commerce
- CitiFinancial Servicing
- Daly
- Financial Fitness
- HMS Insurance Associates, Inc.
- KCI Technologies Inc.
- KPMG LLP
- Lakeshore Learning, Towson

- Mitre Corporation
- Oak Contracting
- Padonia Park Club
- Patient First
- Phillips Way, Inc.
- Pikesville Chamber of Commerce
- The Pinder Plotkin Legal Team
- Scholnick Law
- SouthernManagementCorporation
- Towson University

There is still time to get involved. Interested businesses can sign up by contacting Diana Spencer at dspencer4@bcps.org. Information and posters will be sent to them.

Businesses can deliver donated supplies to the BCPS warehouse from Aug. 14 - 18, or BCPS will pick up the donated supplies on those same days. Once collected, the supplies will be sorted and organized, and then teachers can come to a one-day "store" to select the items most needed by their students.

The school supply drive is part of the BCPS annual Back to School Involves You, Too! campaign in association with The Education Foundation of BCPS. Designed to garner community support for BCPS students and schools, the campaign this year includes National Summer Learning Day, Parent University workshops and more. The Education Foundation of BCPS, Inc., is a nonprofit organization established to attract and direct public financial contributions to programs and activities of the school system in support of quality education for all children.

BCPS Controller's office honored again

For the 21st consecutive year, the Controller's Office of Baltimore County Public Schools has received the Certificate of Achievement for Excellence in Financial Reporting from the Government Finance Officers Association.

This certificate recognizes the office for its comprehensive annual financial report. The Certificate of Achievement is the highest form of recognition in the area of governmental accounting and financial reporting, and its attainment represents a significant accomplishment by a government and its management.

"To best serve our students and our community, it is essential that Baltimore County Public Schools manages its $1.84 billion budget with the utmost integrity," said Interim Superintendent Verletta White. "This latest honor for our Controller's Office confirms once again that our school system excels in this arena. We congratulate our staff in the Department of Fiscal Services and deeply appreciate their expertise and dedication."

Rats, Community and Politicians

Several months ago, I wrote a letter titled "Working Together to Get Things Done." The point of the letter was to show what can be accomplished when people in the community work together with our representatives and agencies to resolve problems. In this situation, it was a rat infestation on county-owned property.

In the months since that letter was published I am sorry to say that the rat infestation is back, and the lack of response from some of the staff at Code Enforcement, as well as County Councilman Todd Crandell's office, has been disappointing. However, there have been positive experiences as well.

I have to say that, in addition to the county-owned property not being maintained, residents of the community have contributed to the problem by no maintaining their own property and not using trash cans to contain their garbage. This was the issue a friend in the community was facing. Her neighbors had a shed that was in disrepair, providing an ideal environment for the rats, and their trash was put out only in plastic bags. According to information on the Baltimore County website, "containers shall be sturdy, water-tight and rodent-resistant, with handles and a tight fitting cover."

When my neighbor was having difficulty finding the right person to contact about the rat problem, I tried calling Todd Crandell's office, the councilman for District 7. I was told that the councilman was not in and that his chief of staff would return my call. I left a message and expected that I would get a return call. After three and a half hours with no return call, I called back and was told the chief of staff was still on the phone! I told her to tell him, if this was the type of service to expect, not to bother returning the call; I would look for help elsewhere.

During this period, my neighbor called Code Enforcement five times and never received a return phone call.

This led me to Delegate Ric Metzgar. I went to Del. Metzgar's office to talk to him about the situation and the lack of response from Code Enforcement. While I was in his office, he called Code Enforcement and was told he would get a return call. Four days later he still had not received the promised call.

If one of our delegates is ignored, what can we as ordinary citizens expect from our agencies?

Unlike Crandell's office, Del. Metzgar has always returned my calls, and typically within 10 - 15 minutes. I also want to mention that he currently doesn't have a chief of staff or an aide.

The story does have a happy ending. Finally, my neighbor was able to talk to Adam Whitlock in Code Enforcement. Two days later, the shed was torn down and the neighbors had new trash cans. I have dealt with Adam in the past and he has always been responsive. We do have good people working in our government as politicians and as agency employees. There just aren't enough of them.

Yes, I am a senior citizen and I do sometimes long for the "good old days" when people did their job, phone calls were returned, politicians recognized that they work for the people and residents took pride in maintaining their property and respected their neighbors.

Lynch Cove Run Cleanup 6/24/17:

Despite an abysmal weather forecast, Clean Bread and Cheese Creek had an absolutely beautiful day to work with over 65 incredible volunteers to clean up Lynch Cove Run. We removed over 275 bags of trash, five chairs, four couches, three mattresses and box springs, two broken concrete bird baths, a leather sectional, a kiddie pool, metal fencing, a storm door, a marine fuel tank, a dishwasher, a cat tree, a suitcase and much more, completely filling a 40-yard dumpster!

Thank you everyone so very much for all your incredible hard work! Our volunteer dedication to working toward a cleaner, greener, healthier community and environment cannot be topped! We truly wish to thank AmeriCorps, the U.S. Army and the U.S. Navy for volunteering at the cleanup. We also had a special guest - The Chesapeake Mermaid! She came out to participate and video tape the event.

We also thank Tony's Pizza and Harris Teeter of Canton for donating food to feed all our hungry and hardworking volunteers. We thank Staples of Eastpoint for donating several boxes of trash bags and TradePoint Atlantic for their recent donation of water. Thank you so much for your incredible generosity!

We would also like to thank the Alliance for the Chesapeake Bay, American Rivers, Baltimore County Highways, Merritt Park Baptist Church and the Eastfield-Stanbrook Civic Association for all their assistance and support on this cleanup. Thank you so much everyone for another incredible job and another win for the environment!

MARIAH
Hello world! My name is Mariah, but you can call me "Moo Moo" for short - everyone else does and I love it. I know you stopped to look at me because of how gorgeous I am, but there is so much more to me than just my good looks. I'm a sweet, loving, affectionate girl with a few qualities I think you'll love. One of them being that I am still very puppy-like! I love going for long walks and using my nose to smell all the cool things around me. I also LOVE squeaky toys. A lot. I am very affectionate and I am definitely a cuddler. I also LOVE swimming in the pool here at the Baltimore Humane Society. I have a lot of friends here, both staff and volunteers, who always tell me I'm their favorite. Maybe you'll feel that way about me too? Come in and see me. We might be the perfect match!

NODDY
Hello, future family! My name is Noddy, and I am waiting for you to come take me home! I am friendly, sweet and affectionate. I love lounging in comfy cat beds, checking out the scenery from a window, or lounging in the sun. When I'm not relaxing, I enjoy playing with toy mice and ping pong balls. Those are really cool! Do I sound like the one for you? If so, hurry into the Baltimore Humane Society. See you soon!

The adoption fee is $100 for Mariah and free for Noddy.

'Girls Trip' worth the journey to the theater

- By Teddy Durgin -

with it by getting into some truly funny and raucous situations in the Big Easy. In the middle of the film, director Malcolm D. Lee and screenwriters Kenya Barris and Karen McCullah hit the audience with three almost breathlessly hilarious sequences in a row. I'll call them the Cooking Demonstration, the Absinthe Club Scene, and the Bar Fight... and I'll leave it at that. There is also a sequence in which Dina demonstrates something called "grapefruiting" that is one of the most graphic (and most funny) things I've seen the MPAA allow in a flick maybe ever. Seriously, you'll never be able to look at fresh fruit again the same way.

While all four leads are good in "Girls Trip" and you really get a sense that they've known each other for years and years, Haddish is the real standout. I wager that this movie will do for her what "Bridesmaids" did for Melissa McCarthy and what "The Hangover" did for Zach Galifianakis. More actors and actresses will become daring with citrus on the big screen after this flick.

My only nitpick is the film runs a bit long. It's actually 15 minutes longer than "Dunkirk!" But, in this case, the longer running time does ultimately help make the final resolutions feel not so rushed. With "Girls Trip," I expect a new comedy franchise has been born, and I look forward to trippin' with these girls again in a couple of years' time.

"Girls Trip" is the funniest movie of its kind since "Bridesmaids." This is the flick "Rough Night" wanted to be and "Bad Moms" almost was. More than anything, it really shows what an appealing cast, working with a smart script and a good director, can do in a sub-genre of comedy that many feel has run dry.

The film follows four college friends now pushing 40. Regina Hall is Ryan, a best-selling author who's branded herself as "the woman who has it all." Queen Latifah is Sasha, a journalist who runs a celebrity gossip website a la TMZ. Jada Pinkett-Smith is Lisa, a divorced mother of two very cute kids. And Tiffany Haddish is the free-spirited Dina.

But all of them are lying to each other and to themselves about some shortcoming(s) as they embark on a getaway weekend together in New Orleans, where Ryan is to deliver the keynote address at the annual, three-day Essence gathering to celebrate African-American women. Ryan's football star husband, Stewart (Mike Colter), has been cheating on her for years all the while she's been unable to get pregnant. Sasha's website isn't getting the hits it once did, and she's behind on all of her bills. Lisa hasn't been in a relationship for two years and has moved in with her mom. And Dina was recently fired.

There is some heavy stuff that each of the ladies are dealing with. But they deal

Christopher Nolan declares war on summer movies with 'Dunkirk'

- By Teddy Durgin -

Unless we're looking at some kind of "Red Dawn"-like scenario, I will never know war. I won't know what it's like to walk across a war-ravaged landscape unsure if there's a sniper's scope on me or if the enemy that wants to kill me is waiting just around the bend or if the ground underneath my feet is rigged with explosive devices. I only have the movies to put me in those scenarios. And "Dunkirk" does one of the better jobs I've seen - probably the best job since "Saving Private Ryan" - of giving audience members a "You are there!" perspective.

Christopher Nolan's film is urgent, gripping and altogether captivating. As the director of the film, he doesn't give you images that will play great on an iPhone or even your flat-screen TV at home. The man conceives sequences and moments that will only have the most impact in a movie theater. And as the film's screenwriter, he has come up with a fractured time narrative here that sets one storyline over the course of a week, a second over the course of a day and a third over the course of a single hour. And the three eventually converge in a climactic final act that will have you alternating between whispering "Oh wow!" and muttering "Oh [insert your favorite four-letter expletive]!"

Set in 1940, "Dunkirk" dramatizes Operation Dynamo in which the Nazis were able to back thousands of British and Allied troops up to the shallow sea in the small French beach town of Dunkirk. And rather than wage a gigantic ground battle, committing thousands of their own soldiers, the Germans rather sadistically held position on the edges of town and launched air raid after air raid to strafe and dive-bomb the trapped military. Britain, meanwhile, decided to hold its Navy back to guard against a larger scale assault. Because Dunkirk is only a relatively short distance from England across the Channel, hundreds of civilian boats were drafted to cross the water and rescue the stranded forces with only limited air cover.

The storyline that stretches over a week centers on the ground troops awaiting rescue, and we mostly follow a young British infantryman named Tommy (Fionn Whitehead) as he survives numerous brushes with death. The storyline that stretches over a day centers on Dawson (Mark Rylance), who pilots his small pleasure boat with his son and a local teenage boy who has jumped aboard at the last moment, eager to see war. And the storyline that stretches over an hour follows two fighter pilots played by Tom Hardy and Jack Lowden as they engage in dogfights and constantly have to monitor their fuel supplies in the hopes they can provide some help to the troops who are sitting ducks on the ground.

The enemy? You never see a German face or hear a single German word. The enemy in this film is fear. When you hear the Nazi fighter planes approaching from the distant horizon, with the kind of nasty, shrill motors that sound like Darth Maul's light saber blades being ignited in Hell... man, is it unnerving! In this film, you'll get a sense of what it was like to be waiting on those piers with hundreds of other men with no cover as bullets and bombs rained down on you from above. You'll be plopped into the bowels of a torpedoed freighter, slowly sinking, with the water rising and dozens of screaming soldiers flailing all around you fumbling towards a single exit. You'll be in the cockpit of a fighter plane, your gauges busted, the smoking town of Dunkirk on the horizon, and tailing a Nazi bomber that must be stopped before it drops its deadly payload.

Look, I'm not going to dissuade you from beating the summer heat by thrilling to the adventures of Spider-Man or sharing some good laughs with the ladies of "Girl Trip." But if you are looking for great cinema, "Dunkirk" is the clear choice in theaters now. This is a special motion picture, folks.

"Dunkirk" is rated PG-13.

Our Arrangements

come in all shapes and sizes.

We believe a service should be as unique as the individual. That's why we respect the choice of our families as much as the choice of the traditional burial. Whichever you choose, your options are far from limited. In fact, both allow for the same variety of services. No matter what your preferences, you can count on us for choices.
