

City honored with Healthy Androscoggin Gold Award

City Councilor Leslie Dubois (l.), City Administrator Ed Barrett and city Wellness Team Chair Joyce Ruby accept the Work Healthy Gold Award conveyed to the City of Lewiston recently by Healthy Androscoggin.

The Work Healthy program of Healthy Androscoggin, which recognizes businesses and organizations within Greater Androscoggin County that place a high priority on promoting good health for their employees, recently conveyed its highest honor to the City of Lewiston.

Highly respected throughout the state as a model on how to effectively facilitate a municipal wellness program, the City of Lewiston's Wellness Team, which operates with grant funding and resources provided by the Maine Municipal Association, has the full support of city administrators.

In tandem with the city's health promotion programs and policies, events and activities facilitated by the Wellness Team provide multiple avenues for employees and their families to achieve or enhance a healthy lifestyle. A city-wide calendar issued to employees every three months promotes available activities that encompass walking, weight loss, personal fitness, Lunch 'n Learn classes, skating, local farmers market drawings, regular blood pressure and cholesterol screenings, and observances of national and worldwide health initiatives.

"We're excited about this award, which is an honor and a distinction that we've been striving to achieve," said City of Lewiston Wellness Team Chair Joyce Ruby. "All the hard work of the team and our employees has paid off, and this recognition will no doubt inspire us to keep up the good work."

Healthy Androscoggin's Work Healthy program encourages employers to provide initiatives to encourage their employees to embrace a tobacco-free lifestyle, physical activity and healthy eating. Workers benefit from improved quality of life, while businesses and organizations realize the benefits of reduced absenteeism, reduced disability costs, reduced health care costs, improved productivity and higher employee morale. Along with the Gold Award, the program also issues Silver, Bronze, and Merit Awards.

Hemond, Williams win 2015 Graziano Scholarships

Graziano Scholarship winners Cindy Williams (l.) and Theresa Hemond, with special guest Edmond Gay, who shared memories of the late Joe Graziano

Theresa Hemond of Minot and Cindy Williams of Topsham, students in the Business Administration-Culinary Arts program at Central Maine Community College, were awarded the 2015 Joseph Graziano Scholarships recently at a reception held at the College.

Special guest Edmond Gay shared memories of scholarship namesake Joe Graziano, who owned and operated Graziano's Restaurant in Lisbon for many years before his death in 2000. Gay noted how the scholarships, which have been presented to culinary students at CMCC for a number of years, are an important way of honoring the memory of a man whose hospitality made his customers feel like his friends.

The Culinary Arts program at CMCC is a one-year certificate program designed to prepare students for employment in a variety of positions in the food service industry. Students may also elect to earn an associate degree in Business Administration with a concentration in Hospitality Management. For more information, contact the Admissions Office at 755-5273.

Governor's Address: Democrats stifle the voice of the Maine people

I have a simple question for the Maine people: Would you like to eliminate the income tax and put $1.2 billion back into your paychecks?

Dear Maine Taxpayer,

Unfortunately, you won't get the chance to answer that question. Democrats in Augusta have denied you, the Maine people, the opportunity to be heard on this important issue.

The Taxation Committee voted along party lines to deny Mainers a voice in this process.

Republicans voted in favor of the Maine people. Democrats voted against you, the Maine people.

State government now takes $1.2 billion out of the paychecks of hard-working Mainers. Eliminating the income tax would put $1.2 billion back in their pockets. In fact, it's the largest wage increase Mainers could get.

I have been holding town hall meetings all over Maine, and citizens up and down the state are in favor of eliminating the income tax.

That's why I asked Legislative leadership for bipartisan support for my bill to amend the Constitution to eliminate the State income tax. Only Republican leaders stepped up to endorse it. Democrat leaders wanted to kill it from the start.

The process to approve a Constitutional amendment includes sending it to Maine voters in a statewide referendum. This gives the Maine people a voice in deciding if they want to get rid of the income tax.

Democrats on the Taxation Committee voted to stifle that voice. They reject any effort to give Mainers back the money they have rightfully earned.

Liberal Democrats just want to keep growing government, no matter how much they have to raise your taxes to pay for it. The rhetoric they use against improving our economy is nothing more than ideological fabrication.

Politicians take money out of your paycheck every week, and you have no say in how they spend it. There is no amount of your money they won't take for their tax-and-spend follies.

For example, legislators are keeping 200 empty positions on the books so they can spend your money in the dark of night. It goes into what they call a "cascade." But it's really just pet projects for politicians.

I believe the Maine people know much better than government how to spend their own money. We are a society of consumers. The people will spend that $1.2 billion and put it right back into our economy. This will provide the revenue we need to operate a government that is affordable, efficient and effective.

We must give the Maine people the power to choose how to spend their own money. It is disgraceful for these politicians to refuse Mainers the opportunity to vote on eliminating the income tax.

You must demand to know why these legislators don't want you to speak on this issue. The Taxation Committee members who voted against you are: Senator Nathan L. Libby (D-Lewiston); Representative Adam A. Goode (D-Bangor); Representative Stephen S. Stanley (D-Medway); Representative Matthew W. Moonen (D-Portland);

Representative Diane M. Russell (D-Portland); Representative Denise A. Tepler (D-Topsham); and Representative Gary E. Sukeforth (I-Appleton).

There is still time for the full legislature to vote on this issue. If you want to eliminate the income tax, find out who your local legislators are. Call them and let them know how you feel.

You, the people of Maine, deserve a say in how $1.2 billion of your hard-earned money is being wasted. Mainers deserve better.

Thank You
Paul R. LePage

Relay for Life set for June 5

On Friday, June 5 at Edward Little High School, teams of local community members will join together to help finish the fight against cancer at the American Cancer Society's annual Relay for Life of Androscoggin County. The event will take place from 4 p.m. to midnight.

At a Relay for Life event, teams and individuals camp out at a local school, park or fairground to take turns walking or running around a track or path. In the months leading up to the event, each team raises funds, pledging to have at least one participant on the track at all times. Symbolizing the battle waged around the clock by those facing the disease, the event, which can last up to 12 hours, empowers the community to take a stand against cancer.

Engaging more than four million participants around the world, Relay for Life events raise critical funds to support the mission of the American Cancer Society, whose work benefits those currently battling cancer, those who may face a cancer diagnosis in the future, and those who may avoid a diagnosis altogether thanks to education, prevention and early detection.

Every dollar raised makes an impact. $100 can provide nine rides to or from treatment for a cancer patient; can help guide four women facing breast cancer through every step of their journey; or can help offer a cancer patient and their caregiver one night of free lodging when having to travel away from home for treatment.

"I am excited to be my son-in-law, Joel, had just finished his stem cell transplant."

It's not too late to get involved by forming a team or making a donation. For more information about Relay for Life of Androscoggin County, call 1-800-227-2345 or visit relayforlife.org/androscogginme.

Federation of the Blind to host local start-up meeting

The National Federation of the Blind of Maine will host the start-up meeting of a new Lewiston-Auburn chapter on Saturday, May 30 from noon to 2 p.m. at the Gridiron Restaurant at 1567 Lisbon Street (Route 196) in Lewiston.

Anyone interested in discovering what the NFB is doing at the local and federal level is invited to attend. The meeting will take place in the side room, which is reserved in Leanne Nelson's name.

For more information, call Leon Proctor Jr. at 212-1456. Those attending will be responsible for their own order off the menu, which can be accessed at gridiron-restaurant.com.

Volunteers needed to place cemetery flags Friday a.m.

The Knights of Columbus (Wallace Assembly Council #106) is seeking volunteers to help place 1,600 flags on the grave-stones of veterans buried in Riverside Cemetery and Grand Army of the Republic Cemetery on Friday, May 22. Knights of Columbus member Richard Vallee is the coordinator of the project and will be on site at 8 a.m. with the flags. The cemetery is located at 192 Riverside Street in Lewiston.

Volunteers are reminded to wear sneakers or boots in case the grass is wet, bring a screwdriver to poke holes in the grass to place the flags, and bring a water bottle, bug spray, hat and sunscreen. Church groups, youth groups, service groups and organizations representing area nonprofits and businesses are encouraged to participate.

Feel free to wear your company or group t-shirts. Children and youth are welcome with adult supervision but should not be dropped off.

Enough is Enough

Bike lanes draw more interest than city budget

By Robert E. Macdonald
Mayor of Lewiston

Last week at a workshop, the Lewiston City Council found before it an agenda item that makes the blood of Lewiston citizens percolate like the coffee in a TV commercial for Chock Full o'Nuts.

This item tends to fill the City Council Chamber with people from both sides of the issue. Perplexed city officials ponder why a discussion on bike lanes draws more people to a City Council meeting than a multi-million dollar budget.

The last time a bike lane was discussed and voted on, a group of citizens began a petition drive to allow Lewiston voters a chance to express their opinion at the ballot box.

The threat of this action was enough to stop a much-needed million-dollar upgrade of upper Lisbon Street to make it more appealing to the general public. It also would have served as a "thank you" to those who believe and have invested in this section of the city.

Title 29A, the section of Maine State Law governing the operation of motor vehicles, allows bicycles on a public way, making them subject to the same rules of the road as motor vehicles. I have had many conversations with members of the public about bike lanes. Their anger appears more directed at those who flaunt the rules of the road than the lanes themselves.

On a daily basis, one continually views the lawless behavior of those operating their bicycles with no concern for public safety. They weave in and around pedestrians walking on sidewalks. They go the wrong way on one-way streets. They continually run stop signs and traffic lights.

They weave in and out of traffic, showing a complete disregard for the law. Anyone challenging them on their behavior will receive a simple hand gesture.

Historical Society event features retired Game Warden, State Trooper

The Androscoggin Historical Society's Annual Meeting and Dinner will take place on Tuesday, May 26 at the United Methodist Church, 439 Park Avenue in Auburn. Starting at 5:30 p.m., a social gathering will allow those attending to view displays of recent acquisitions and to browse books for sale. Dinner at 6 p.m., served by women of the church, will be baked stuff chicken and dessert, followed by the Society's annual meeting. The program at 7 p.m. will feature two entertaining and well known local authors, retired Maine Game Warden John Ford and retired Maine State Trooper Mark Nickerson.

Ford and Nickerson, who have been presenting acclaimed programs together at libraries and other venues across the state, will entertain the audience with stories from their days on the force. A book signing

Retired Maine Game Warden John Ford (L.) and retired Maine State Trooper Mark Nickerson

I think it is high time we put an end to this behavior. The most effective way of doing this is through a traffic summons. A day in court accompanied by a stiff fine should instill incentive into these violators to follow the law.

You may have missed it on the news, but a lawsuit filed by the cities of Portland and Westbrook and the Maine Municipal Association several months ago is finally being heard in Cumberland County's hall of justice. This suit challenges the State of Maine's right to refuse to support foreign tourists (asylum seekers) who have run out of funds, refuse to go back to their homes and want the local taxpayers to support them.

The Maine State Department of Health and Human Services argues it is following the federal law that prohibits the support of asylum seekers. Portland, Westbrook and the Maine Municipal Association argue that the state is changing the General Assistance rules because over the years asylum seekers have been supported by local property taxpayers with a percentage of the expense being reimbursed by the state.

This sounds like the same argument that Portland officials made when they were caught with their hands in the cookie jar and being reimbursed for homeless people that they shouldn't have been supporting. We await the verdict!

This week in Augusta, members of the Health and Human Service Committee were engaged in a work session discussing the pros and cons of the various General Assistance bills before them. During these deliberations, both parties found it necessary to caucus (meet with and discuss) with various groups in order to come up with finished pieces of legislation.

The Democrats caucused with Maine Equal Justice Partners. The Republicans caucused with Maine welfare directors. Which party would you say is looking out for the interest of the Maine taxpayers?

On Saturday, the Cities of Lewiston-Auburn will solemnly remember Memorial Day with a parade and a ceremony in Veteran's Park. It is a time to remember the sacrifice of those who remain forever young. Will you be among those present?

will follow their presentation.

The public is invited to attend the meeting and dinner and the program or just the program only. Tickets for the dinner are $15 and may be reserved by calling the Historical Society at 784-0586. There is no charge to attend the program with Ford and Nickerson.

John Ford comes from a long line of Maine Game Wardens. In his twenty year career in Waldo County in Central Maine, he has seen it all - from desperate prison escapees to animals in need of rescue - and lived to write about it in his local newspaper column, as a regular contributor to "The Northwoods Sporting Journal," and as the author of two books: "Suddenly, the Cider Didn't Taste So Good: Adventures of a Game Warden in Maine" and "This Cider Still Tastes Funny! Further Adventures of a Maine

"Glimpses of Iran" at APL

Parivash Rohani of Auburn will present "Glimpses of Iran" on Thursday, May 28 at noon at Auburn Public Library. Rohani will discuss the current state of Iran, including Iranian art and culture and the country's education system.

Born in Ardestan, Iran during the reign of the Shah, Rohani grew up as part of that country's Baha'i religious community. Due to religious persecution under the Islamic fundamentalist government that overthrew the Shah in 1979, her family felt it would be safer for her to pursue her higher education in India.

Rohani moved to India at the age of 18 and remained there for six years. While there, she studied economics and business and met her husband, Nassar, who is also a native of Iran. In 1985, the couple and their young daughter emigrated to the United States. They were directed to move to Auburn and have lived here ever since.

The Rohanis had three more children, all of whom have pursued higher education, and Parivash herself became a Registered Nurse, working in the Intensive Care Unit at St. Mary's Regional Medical Center. The family has remained faithful to their Baha'i religious beliefs and are active members of the local Baha'i community.

During her presentation, Rohani will discuss how Iran today is different from the Iran of her childhood, including the continuing persecution of the Baha'i religion, members of whom are barred from higher education in Iran's colleges and universities.

The program is free and open to the public. For more information, call 333-6640 ext. 4.

St. Dom's teacher inducted into MPA Hall of Excellence

Saint Dominic Academy science teacher Keith Weatherbie

Keith Weatherbie, a science teacher at Saint Dominic Academy, was inducted recently into the Maine Principle's Association Hall of Excellence.

One of the highest honors offered by the association, induction recognizes educators for their impactful careers and contributions to interscholastic activities.

"I am so happy to have Mr. Weatherbie as part of our faculty," said Joline Girouard, principal at Saint Dominic Academy's Auburn campus. "His teaching methods are very effective and he goes out of his way to make a connection with every student."

After earning a bachelor's degree from the University of Maine at Orono, Weatherbie embarked on a teaching career that has spanned nearly five decades. In addition to his excellence in the classroom, he has taught the importance of sportsmanship and integrity to thousands of students through athletics. Weatherbie coached track and field at Cape Elizabeth High School for over 20 years. He once coached the legendary Joan Benoit Samuelson, who went on to win the gold medal in the women's marathon at the Summer Olympics in 1984.

Today, as one of the most popular teachers at Saint Dominic Academy, Weatherbie utilizes his energy and upbeat personality to make learning fun for his students. He is well-known for leading the student body in the "We Are St. Dom's!" chant during pep rallies.

Weatherbie finds that, though times have changed during his career, students in large part have remained the same. "Kids have not changed over the last four decades," he says. "They want to be successful and they want to have fun."

Farmers' Market to open for season

The Lewiston Farmers' Market opens for its outdoor season on Sunday, May 24.

The Lewiston Farmers' Market at Bates Mill No. 5 will open for the season on the Sunday of Memorial Day weekend, May 24, at 10 a.m. at the municipal parking lot on the corner of Lincoln and Main Streets. The outdoor market will be open every Sunday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. through the middle of October.

Family friendly activities for the day will include live music, puppet making for the kids and a Memorial Day raffle filled with market goodies. Tables and chairs will be available for visitors to sit and enjoy good food and company. For the convenience of customers and vendors, the market will now have a porta-potty on site.

Visitors to the market can expect to shop with more than 20 new and returning vendors selling farm fresh vegetables, seasonal fruits, grass fed beef, chicken, lamb, pork, rabbit, artisan cheeses and dairy, homemade baked goods, gluten free products, maple products, fresh cut flowers, perennial plants, hand-crafted soaps, local art and crafts and more, including the (likely) return of live lobsters.

As in years past, customers may purchase market goods using cash, credit or debit cards, SNAP (food stamps) or WIC. The market will provide its "Market Rewards" program for loyal customers and its "Fresh Food Champion" program to support SNAP and WIC users in purchasing more fresh fruits and vegetables. SNAP users who help spread the word about the Fresh Food Champion program will receive bonus market dollars; for more information, call 513-3848.

Sponsored by St. Mary's Health System and supported by staff and volunteers of the St. Mary's Nutrition Center, the Lewiston Farmers' Market provides area farmers, artists and crafts people with a venue to sell their products directly to consumers. To see a complete list of participating vendors, to sign up for the market e-newsletter or for more information, call 513-3848 or email lewistonfarmersmarket@gmail.com.

YMCA summer camps now open for registration

Located on Lower Range Pond, the YMCA's Camp Connor will celebrate its 49th season serving kids and teens this summer.

This summer, the YMCA of Auburn-Lewiston will offer local kids three different summer camp options designed to help them get more out of summer break. Entering its 49th season, Camp Connor, located on Lower Range Pond, offers kids a traditional outdoor camp experience where they are encouraged to learn skills and build confidence. The Y Kids Camp, based at the Y's facility at 62 Turner Street in Auburn, features a mix of games and field trips to engage kids in activities right in their own backyard. And the Teen Leadership Camp, also located on Lower Range Pond, provides structured training and mentoring to ninth and tenth graders who want to take on leadership roles in their community or as future YMCA camp counselors. All three camps provide an enriching mix of fun and educational activities, such as swimming, field trips, nature hikes, geocaching and more. Activities are structured to foster the social-emotional, cognitive and physical development of all participants, emphasizing positive relationships and making new friends. "With school out during the summer, many kids don't get enough physical activity or learning - a critical gap the Y wants to address," says YMCA camp and youth sports director Christopher Shea. "In our day camps, kids benefit from a fun environment with nurturing adults where they feel welcome, develop character and explore new talents and interests. We want them to go home so excited about all they've accomplished today that they can't wait to come back tomorrow." Registration for all three YMCA camp programs is now open. Financial assistance is available. For more information or to register, call 795-4095 or see the YMCA website at www.alympca.org.

Poliquin names Warren Second District Director

Congressman Bruce Poliquin has announced that Samantha Warren will serve as his Second District Director. She will be based in the Congressman’s Lewiston office at 179 Lisbon Street and will work throughout the district. Warren previously served as a Director of Communications in the LePage Administration, first at the Department of Environmental Protection and more recently at the Department of Education.

A graduate of the University of Maine at Farmington who did her graduate work at the University of Maine, Warren is well-known throughout western Maine, where she worked as a community journalist, first as a staff writer for the Rangeley Highlander and the Lewiston Sun Journal and then as editor of the Livermore Falls Advertiser. Warren is a member of the Board of Directors for Day One, a statewide nonprofit that works to reduce youth substance abuse, and also volunteers for WinterKids, a statewide nonprofit that helps children develop healthy lifestyles through outdoor winter activity.

“I’m excited to welcome Samantha to our state staff team,” said Poliquin. “I am confident her strong leadership will be a great addition to our staff in serving Maine’s Second District.”

Congressman Poliquin provides constituent services to residents and businesses throughout the Second District - the largest congressional district east of the Mississippi - via three regional offices. His Lewiston office, manned by Staff Assistants Curtis Ayotte and Karen Staples, serves Androscoggin, Franklin, Kennebec, Oxford and Somerset Counties. For more information about constituent services, see <https://poliquin.house.gov/>.

Kaplan introduces student Competency Reports

As part of its ongoing commitment to measuring student learning, Kaplan University announced recently that it has started providing its students with a personalized Competency Report.

The report provides assessments of the skills and knowledge demonstrated by each student throughout his or her program(s) of study at the University. It includes how the student applies the knowledge, skills, abilities and behaviors needed to execute work-related activities and projects. The reports will be available to students by July 1.

The new Competency Report contains a list of professional and programmatic competencies denoting one of six levels of proficiencies achieved - No Progress, Introductory, Emergent, Practiced, Proficient and Mastery.

Kaplan is one of the first institutions in higher education to issue such a report for each of its students at this granular level and on this scale. Approximately 42,000 students attend Kaplan University.

"The detailed reports we are now providing to all of our students are a very powerful complement to a traditional college transcript," said Kaplan University Provost Dr. Betty Vandenbosch. "It highlights work-relevant competencies a student demonstrates throughout his or her studies at Kaplan.

Combining an official graded transcript and the Competency Report provides a more complete picture of a student's academic achievement."

The Competency Report is visible to each student through the student portal at any time during his or her program and is available as a printable PDF. Students can tailor the printed report for the intended recipient by choosing which competencies to share.

"The Competency Report is incredibly valuable, not only to our students to augment their resumes, but to employers looking for employees who are job-ready on day one," added Jennifer Lasater, Kaplan University's Vice President of Employer and Career Services. "Increasingly, employers are placing more emphasis on what students and graduates can do, rather than simply what they may know."

Lasater noted that finding talent with the right skills is a big challenge for many employers. According to ManpowerGroup's ninth annual Talent Shortage survey in 2014, 40 percent of U.S. employers surveyed reported difficulty filling jobs. The top two reasons cited were lack of technical competencies (hard skills) and workplace competencies (soft skills).

Other recent surveys highlight disparities in the perceptions of college leaders, students and employers on whether college graduates are prepared for the job market.

For instance, a 2013 survey of nearly 400 presidents and chancellors at four-year colleges revealed that nearly three in four college leaders said their students were very well or well prepared, compared to only one in five employers who said the same thing. Similarly, while ninety-six percent of chief academic officers surveyed by Inside Higher Ed in 2014 said they were doing a good job preparing students for success in the work force, a 2014 survey conducted by Gallup found that just eleven percent of business leaders strongly agreed that graduates have the necessary skills and competencies to succeed in the workplace.

"A Competency Report helps bridge the skills gap by providing evidence-based, skill-specific confirmation," said Vandenbosch.

Kaplan's announcement marks another step in a decade-long journey to create its comprehensive, competency-based education model. Since 2009, the university has incorporated general education competencies, not just in general education courses, but across its curriculum, and in 2010 it began measuring course-level outcomes through assessments that identify students' current mastery level of skills and knowledge.

The University has also deployed randomized controlled trials to measure and improve the efficacy of outcome-based assessments, and last month announced that its entire curriculum at both the undergraduate and graduate levels now incorporates the professional competencies of communication, teamwork, leadership, problem solving and critical thinking, personal presentation, multiculturalism and diversity.

With 13 campuses in Iowa, Indiana, Nebraska, Maryland, Maine, and Wisconsin, and Learning Centers in Maryland and Missouri, Kaplan University serves approximately 42,000 online and campus-based students. Accredited by the Higher Learning Commission, Kaplan offers a distinctive approach to higher education by striving to help adult students unlock their talent by providing a practical, student-centered education that prepares them for careers in some of the fastest-growing industries.

What's Going On

Kaplan University is part of Kaplan Higher Education, LLC and Kaplan, Inc., which serves over 1.2 million students globally each year through its array of higher education, test preparation, professional education, English-language training, university preparation and K-12 offerings to individuals, institutions and businesses. For more information, see www.Kaplan.com.

White Dog Arts, in association with Executive Producer Charlie Hewitt and Producer Sandy Marquis, will present the world premiere screening of their documentary film "Raising Ali: A Lewiston Story" on Monday, May 25 at 7:30 p.m. at the Androscoggin Bank Colisée.

The screening will mark the 50th anniversary to the day of the famous rematch, when Cassius Clay, fighting for the first time as Muhammad Ali, defeated Sonny Liston in the Colisée building, then known as the St. Dominic Ice Arena, in Lewiston.

The bout had been moved to Lewiston just weeks before the event, when Massachusetts officials, concerned about the reputed ties of the promoters to organized crime, sought an injunction to prevent it from occurring in Boston. The fight ended in the first round, with Liston falling to the canvas from a "phantom punch" many claim Ali never landed or even threw.

While the Lewiston venue was small for a championship fight, the bout produced one of the most iconic photographs in boxing history, with Ali gesturing defiantly over the sprawling Liston.

At its core, the documentary seeks to go beyond the events surrounding the controversial fight to tell a story about the community, then and now, that hosted the event. Archival materials, along with interviews of event participants and current and former community residents and leaders, are featured throughout the film.

"This film is a love letter to our community," says Lewiston-born Executive Producer Charlie Hewitt.

The event will be hosted by Nick Knowlton and will feature special musical guest Denny Breaux. Rarely seen footage will be shown before the film. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. Reserved seating is $10 and $12. Tickets are on sale now at The Colisée or online at thecolisee.com.

Thread Theater at the Franco Center will host its latest theatrical throw-down style performance on Thursday, May 21. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m. for Happy Hour, with food and drinks in Heritage Café, and the show will start at 7:30. Jason Pelletier will be the host for the evening.

Tonight's theme will be "Props." Playwrights are invited to submit plays or scenes on this theme that are 10 minutes or less in length. They will also bring any required props and enough copies of the script for all of the required actors, plus one to submit.

The playwrights will enter their names into a drawing, as will those wanting to act. Ten scripts will be drawn at random to be performed in two acts: five plays in the first act and five in the second. When a playwright's script is drawn, he or she will draw their actors. The playwright will then have two minutes to cast the show, explain the characters and set the stage before show time.

All are invited to come and watch from the audience, which is encouraged to actively let the cast of each play know how they are doing. At the end of the evening, the audience will vote for their favorite script and actor of the evening.

There is a $5 entrance fee for everyone, including playwrights, actors and spectators. Thread Theatre often presents adult themes and is generally not appropriate for minors.

Located at 46 Cedar Street in Lewiston, the Franco Center is wheelchair accessible. For more information, visit the Franco Center Box Office Monday through Friday from noon to 4 p.m., call 783-1585 or see www.francocenter.org.

CLT names crew for “Importance of Being Earnest”

Making preparations for “The Importance of Being Earnest” are (l. to r.) assistant director Stephanie Lynn, stage manager Tyler Pulk, prompter and stage crew member Sophie Messina, producer Chris Hodgkin and director Celeste Philippon.

Director Celeste Philippon has announced the crew for the upcoming Community Little Theater production of “The Importance of Being Earnest.” Written by Oscar Wilde and first performed in 1895 at the St. James’s Theatre in London, this farcical comedy is widely considered his most enduringly popular play.

The assistant director for the production will be Stephanie Lynn; the stage manager will be Tyler Pulk;

the prompter will be Sophie Messina; and the producer will be Chris Hodgkin. The other crew members will be John Blanchette, set design; Richard Martin, light design; Jackie McDonald, properties; Heather Marichal, hair and makeup; Roger Philippon, publicity; Kat Carney, lobby photos; Eileen Messina, Ellen Hodgkin, Dominique Cyr, Chiara Ferrante and Katie Luu, costumes; Jennifer Fox, Britny Anderson and Genevieve Hering, set décor; and Gerry Therrien, John Blanchette, Bernie Button, Mark Hazard, Jane Mitchell, Andrea Quaid and Christopher Hodgkin, set crew.

Production dates for the show are June 5, 6, 11, 12, and 13 at 7:30 p.m. and June 7 and 14 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $18 for adults, $15 for seniors and $12 for children 12 and under. For more information or to purchase tickets, see www.lact.com.

Maine Event Comedy presents Krazy Jake Hodgdon

He wears shorts in the winter, boots on the beach and his favorite color is flannel. Maine native Krazy Jake Hodgdon, a star on Animal Planet’s new hit series “Yankee Jungle,” will headline Maine Event Comedy on Friday May 22 at 8 p.m. at the Auburn Fireside Inn. His first appearance in the twin cities will also feature fellow comedians Bill Picard and Mark Turcotte.

Yankee Jungle is a docu-series showcasing DEW Haven, a zoo of sorts in Mt. Vernon, Maine, which cares for over 200 animals. As the handyman on the show, Hodgdon has already had hilarious run-ins with spider monkeys, black bears and DEW staff.

He recorded his debut album in Ellsworth last year. The performance, due for release this summer, captures his high energy, Maine influenced blue collar style. A finalist in Portland’s Funniest Krazy Jake makes his first twin cities appearance on Friday, May 22 at the Maine Event Comedy show at the Auburn Fireside Inn.

Professional Contest, he spent three years touring with Bob Marley and has performed at many of New England’s premiere venues, including Foxwoods Casino, the Wilbur Theater in Boston, Meadowbrook Pavilion in NH and Merrill Auditorium in Portland.

Picard is truly a unique act. Born with cerebral palsy and confined to a wheelchair, he has used his physical limitations to educate and entertain. He has a business degree from the University of Maine and works as a motivational speaker.

Founder of the Comedy Fix fundraising series, Mark Turcotte was a finalist in the Funniest Comic on the East Coast Contest at Mohegan Sun and performed at the 2014 Maine Comedy Festival. He’s appeared on “The Nite Show with Danny Cashman,” the ‘207’ television show and the 107.5 Frank FM “Morning Show.”

Tickets are $10 in advance or $12 at the door and may be purchased at maineeventcomedy.com. Seating is general admission and doors will open at 7 p.m. The show is for those ages 21-plus.

The Fireside Inn is located at 1777 Washington Street. For more information, call 513-0742 or email maineeventcomedy@gmail.com.

Celebration Barn receives grants for facilities improvements

A renowned center for the physical performing arts, Celebration Barn offers summer workshops, residencies and performances in this restored horse barn in South Paris.

Celebration Barn Theater recently received awards from two Maine-based foundations to make improvements to its facilities in South Paris.

Founded by renowned mime Tony Montanaro in 1972, the Barn and its associated facilities serve as a center for fostering and expanding the physical performing arts. Dedicated to growing a creative community both locally and internationally, the Barn fuels the development of innovative new work through summer workshops, residencies and performances offered in its restored horse barn in beautiful South Paris, Maine. This unique setting, away from distractions and obligations, allows performers to focus on their craft and develop their work in a supportive atmosphere where creativity and experimentation are encouraged.

The Davis Family Foundation has awarded the Barn a $20,000 grant to update its theater and artist-in-residence facilities to improve the experience of its students. This year's students will arrive to find housing featuring a renovated kitchen and other enhancements, including new lighting, furniture and other finishing touches. The Maine Community Foundation's Maine Theater Fund has awarded the Barn a $2,500 grant to install energy-efficient LED work lights in the performance space and rehearsal studios. New stage lighting will also be installed for use on the main stage.

The surrounding community has been very supportive of the Barn in recent years. The recent installation of a new heating and cooling system that extended the Barn's performance season into the fall encouraged a 40% leap in audience attendance numbers in 2014. For 2015, the Barn has received strong early registration numbers for its summer workshops and residencies and will premiere two original productions at the end of the summer: "The Last Hurrah at Camp Maine" and "Traveling Light."

Celebration Barn Theater is located just off Route #117 at 190 Stock Farm Road in South Paris. Live performances are offered at 8 p.m. on most Saturdays from June through August, with additional dates scheduled in September and October. For more information, visit the theater's website at www.CelebrationBarn.com.

Senior College students are older, but they throw themselves into their courses. I always find it exhilarating to see my classmates coming early to class with their book bags, a few with walking sticks, many with coffee containers, greeting each other and sharing how their courses are going. Seldom if ever is there a missing student

Falmouth student wins youth volunteer award

U.S. Senators Susan Collins and Angus King congratulated Meghan Charest of Falmouth and Kevin Ayotte of Madawaska recently for being named the top youth volunteers in Maine by the 2015 Prudential Spirit of Community Awards. Senators Collins and King met with the two winners to recognize and thank them for their work in their communities and their contributions to the state of Maine.

Meghan Charest of Falmouth has been named a Maine winner of the 2015 Prudential Spirit of Community Award. She is pictured here in Washington, D.C. with co-winner Kevin Ayotte and Senator Angus King.

"Meghan and Kevin have demonstrated a remarkable commitment to their communities, and it was a pleasure to congratulate them on this well-deserved recognition," said Senators Collins and King in a joint statement. "Maine is blessed with a strong sense of community and civic duty, and it is very encouraging to see young people continue that important tradition."

Charest, 17, and Ayotte, 14, were honored at a ceremony at the Smithsonian's Museum of Natural History. They each received a $1,000 prize, an engraved silver medallion and an all-expense-paid trip to Washington, D.C. to join the top honorees from each state and the District of Columbia for the national recognition events.

Charest was recognized for her efforts to offer fresh fruits and vegetables to people in need through a community garden she started to offer organic produce to a local food pantry. After she researched crop yields, secured grant funding and recruited volunteers, the community garden project now yields about 500 pounds of food a year for the Falmouth Food Pantry.

Ayotte was recognized for his volunteer work at the Four Seasons Trail Association in Madawaska. He volunteers at the organization in both the winter and summer months, performing an array of tasks that include stacking and loading firewood at the lodge, shoveling the porch and deck, waxing skis for the youth ski program, mowing the lawn, cutting brush and building trails.

Established in 1995, the Prudential Spirit of Community Awards has grown into the nation's largest youth recognition program based entirely on community service. The program is celebrating its 20th anniversary this year and has honored more than 100,000 young volunteers at the local, state and national level.

Thank you letter

We wanted to thank everyone for all your support for Larry Pelletier. Had a great turn out for the benefit. Over 200 people attended. There was so much love and support. Thanks to Bob Smith for getting everything going. He put in a lot of time to make sure everything was perfect and it was. Also to Patrick and Tom for a great dinner and to Joey and Tracy for all their hard work. To the New Auburn

Social Club for the use of the hall and their support. A big thank you to all the people who donated things for the raffles and a special thank you to Carol Cusson for the great cupcakes and to our Maine Oxy family and their wives for serving the food and doing the clean up and for being there for us. There are still caring people out there, thanks to the Past Time Club and to our neighbors. A special thank you to our neighbors who came and kept us shoveled out through all this snow and for being there for us. Thank you Bruce and Sue Marston, Eric and Denise Kayser & boys, Ron, Sandy and Chad Roy and Randy Hartt and all our family and friends. You all have touched Larry & my hearts so thank all of you for being wonderful people. Lastly, a special thanks to Twin City TIMES for advertising the banquet. WE are so grateful to all of you. Love from Larry & Bonnie Pelletier.
