Message to all of you people out there who think the minimum wage should be $15/hour: surprise. $9/hour is what you would clear after taxes so if you want a minimum wage of $15/hour then you should be in favor of lower taxes for everyone, including businesses who are over taxed. If taxes were lower then guess what? Wages would be higher! Ideal opportunity for retired person. Don't apply if you are going to be on your cell phone all of the time and goofing off. All you need to know is the difference between a flower and a weed and not be a lazy sod. Call 610-849-3776.

You're Right... There is a time NOT to advertise, when...

1. You have no competition.
2. You have all the business in town.
3. There are no new people moving into your area.
4. You want to keep your large inventory.
5. You have more business than you can handle.
6. The birth rate is zero.
7. You have more than enough friends that shop your business, keeping you far to busy.
8. You've netted your third million (after taxes).
9. You have no desire to work hard.
10. You would have to hire more people to handle the additional business advertising brings.

Strategies To Motivate Children And Teens To Be More Physically Active

Today's students arguably have more on their plates than any generation that came before them. But even with their hectic schedules, kids still have free time, which many are not always using in the healthiest ways possible.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, nearly one-third high school students play video games or computer games for three or more hours on an average school day. Sedentary lifestyles can increase kids' risk for being overweight or obese, and many parents struggle in their efforts to encourage their school-aged children to get off the couch and embrace physical activities. The following are a handful of strategies concerned parents can employ as they attempt to motivate youngsters to be more physically active.

- CHOOSE THE RIGHT ACTIVITY. Physical activity and organized sports are not one and the same. Kids can still be physically active even if they are not athletic or if they are simply not interested in sports. Find an activity kids can embrace, such as hiking, swimming or even riding bikes, and they will be more likely to get off the couch.
- LIMIT SCREEN TIME. Kids spend lots of time in front of computer and television screens, which can be detrimental to their overall health. Parents can place restrictions on the amount of time kids are allowed to spend surfing the Internet, playing video games and watching television, encouraging youngsters to spend time enjoying the great outdoors or playing with friends rather than spending it staring at a screen.
- JOIN IN THE FUN. Parents can set positive examples by being physically active and even exercising with their children. Rather than retiring to the couch after dinner, take nightly walks or bike rides as a family. This is a great way to get kids off the couch, but also a great way to spend more time together as a family.
- INVOLVE KIDS IN YOUR OWN PURSUITS. Parents who are weekend warrior athletes can involve their kids in their own activities. Take kids along on weekend jogs, kayaking trips and so on, all the while explaining the important role physical activity plays in living a healthy lifestyle.

The Differences Between Hot And Cold Therapies

Inflammation can affect anyone, and those who have battled it likely have nothing positive to say. But while few people may associate inflammation with something good, inflammation is actually a process by which the body's white blood cells and the substances those cells produce protect the body from infection at the hands of bacteria, viruses and other foreign organisms. While inflammation is protective by nature, sometimes an inflammatory response is triggered by mistake. When that happens, the body's immune system, which is designed to protect the body, begins to damage its own tissues. The resulting symptoms of this faulty immune system response may include joint pain, joint stiffness, loss of function in the joints, and swelling of the joints. None of those symptoms are comfortable, and people suffering from them may be on the lookout for ways to alleviate their pain and suffering. While anyone battling persistent inflammation should speak with their physicians to explore their treatment options, a preliminary search of how to best treat inflammation will no doubt turn up information about heat therapy and cold therapy. The following breakdown should not replace a physician's advice, but it can help patients battling inflammation better understand both treatment options.

HEAT THERAPY
 According to the Merck Manual, a reference book for physicians and patients alike, heat works against inflammation by increasing blood flow and making connective tissues more flexible. Heat also can be used to combat edema, a condition characterized by an excess of fluid in the tissues of the body. Upon application, heat can temporarily reduce pain and alleviate stiffness in the joints. Heat also may temporarily relieve muscles spasms. The Cleveland Clinic notes that heat can be effective at relieving pain associated with worn-away cartilage in the joints because it eases chronically stiff joints and relaxes tight muscles. In addition, moist heat can relax painful neck spasms linked to nerves or blood vessels in the head or pain emanating from muscles in the neck. Heat can be applied via hot packs, infrared heat, paraffin baths, and hydrotherapy.

COLD THERAPY
 Cold therapy, sometimes referred to as "cryotherapy," can relieve pain associated with inflammation that has developed recently. Cold can help numb tissues and relieve muscle spasms and can also be used to alleviate pain associated with injuries. The Merck Manual notes that ice bags or cold packs can be used to apply cold. In addition, fluids that cool by evaporation, including ethyl chloride, may be applied topically. Some medicines may interact with ethyl chloride spray, so inflammation sufferers should consult their physicians before applying such sprays. According to the Cleveland Clinic, ice can be used to calm flare-ups and numb pain associated with chronic, inflammatory arthritis. Ice also can ease inflammation and numb pain linked to pulled muscles or injured tendons. Pain and inflammation resulting from the stretching or tearing of ligaments in the joints may also be eased by applying ice to the affected area. Heat and cold therapies can effectively combat symptoms associated with inflammation, but such treatments should always be discussed with a physician before being instituted.

Share Your Light And Love

"Be an angel", "do a small act of service", "be a blessing to someone", angel day motto by Rev. Jayne Feldman. The new moon in Leo is an astrological time to be extra positive and follow your dreams, according to astrologer Diane Carbone, that is now! Many people dream of a life of following a higher power, living intuitively with common sense. Many are seeking spiritual holistic answers beyond the traditional, because the way things were done in the past aren't working. Follow your dreams.....What are your dreams? My dreams are about expressing my love of nature, Divine nature, beauty, and love of the earth and stars in the form of angel flowers fairy paintings, and pottery, and cards as healing, "heaven and nature sing" and in sharing community experiences like Angel Days Spiritual Holistic Faire, with mural painting with native American flute music, open to everyone, all materials provided. My dream is also to be surrounded by angel friends all shapes, sizes and colors, sharing our talents to help the world be a better place, helping each other enjoy life, feel more like our divine selves through art, music, creative visualizations, reiki, reflexology, crystals, aromatherapy.....Etc. Angel Days Spiritual Holistic Faire, Leesport Market Banquet Hall, air conditioned, Leesport, PA is Saturday, August 5 and Sunday, August 6, 10:00 to 4:00, public welcome. Admission $6.00, $5.00 if you donate cat and or dog food. Contact Kimberlee Dawn, Angel Days Spiritual Holistic Faire producer, angel artist, 4 8 4 . 3 6 3 . 7 3 5 6 . Kimberleedawn88@gmail.com
