Androscoggin Bank sponsors Run for Independence

The only run in Maine focused upon people with disabilities, this year's Run for Independence will take place on Sunday, May 17 at Brunswick Junior High School.

Androscoggin Bank has signed on as platinum sponsor of the Independence Association's third annual Run for Independence. The only run in Maine focused upon people with disabilities, and the first 10K run in Maine to include a para-athletes wheeled division, the run will take place on Sunday, May 17 at 9 a.m. at Brunswick Junior High School. Androscoggin Bank has committed to a three-year sponsorship of this annual event. See Run, page 3

Railroad Club presents Hobo Holiday

Model trains of various sizes will be on display at the Great Falls Model Railroad Club's annual Hobo Holiday on Saturday, May 16.

The Great Falls Model Railroad Club will present its fourth annual Hobo Holiday on Saturday, May 16 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the club's two-story, wheelchair accessible building at 144 Mill Street, across from the Barker Mill Apartments in Auburn. Children and adults are invited to add to the festive atmosphere of this family-fun event by dressing as hobos.

The event will provide visitors with a unique opportunity to learn about this fascinating part of railroad history while enjoying model railroad displays and participating in various activities and games. Hobo culture and hobo folklore will be outlined in a special handout and hobo symbols will be placed around the building to alert the initiated about potential dangers or where they are welcome. Everyone will have a chance to sample hobo stew.

A scavenger hunt will encourage participants to investigate the entire railroad club building, with its extensive library and model railroad layouts in various scales. Younger children will enjoy the special play area with age-appropriate trains and will operate Thomas the Tank Engine on the newly expanded layout in the G-gauge room. Older children will run trains on the club's permanent HO layout downstairs. Children's games will include Hoop a Caboose, Roundhouse Roulette and Fishing for Prizes in the special fish pond. Model railroad supplies and TrainTime See Hobo, page 3

College of Health Professions graduates 64

The Maine College of Health Professions, formerly the Central Maine Medical Center's College of Nursing and Health Professions, graduated two Nuclear Medicine Technology, 42 Nursing and 20 Radiologic Technology students in a recent ceremony at Lewiston Middle School.

Having successfully completed the College's education programs, the graduates were awarded Associate Degrees in the Applied Science of Nuclear Medicine Technology, Nursing or Radiologic Technology. A number of graduating students received awards during the ceremony.

Graduates, friends, and family gathered with faculty, staff, administration, and honored dignitaries to celebrate commencement.

MCHP Senior Director Otis Vance welcomed guests Marsha Auster, Chair of the MCHP Board of Trustees; Mark Adams, Chair of the CMMC Board of Trustees and President-CEO of Sebago Technics; and John Jenkins, Founder-President of Jenkins Technique and Creator-Presenter of SAFE Plan and PepTalk.com. Sister Therese Demers, Assistant Chaplain of Pastoral Care at CMMC, offered the Invocation and Benediction. Phil House was the pianist.

Susan Poulin, Faculty and Coordinator of General Education, served as Master of Ceremony. Poulin introduced the Honorable John Jenkins, who provided the graduation address. Jenkins spoke about keeping the "care" in healthcare. The presentation highlighted the key aspects of care: Compassion, Attention, Respect and Encouragement. He urged the graduates to take care of themselves so they could, in turn, take care of their patients.

Providing reflections of the class were Cole Harradon, Nuclear Medicine Technology Student Representative; Stephanie Chin, Nursing Class President; and Jesse Burke, Radiologic Technology Class President.

Kyle Bates was honored with the CMMC Board of Trustees Award, conferred upon the student who exhibits excellence in delivering care. The recipient demonstrates gentleness, independence, understanding, caring, compassion and love in communicating with and caring for people. Mark Adams presented this award.

Abigail Stubbs was honored with the MCHP Board of Trustees Award, conferred to the student who demonstrates leadership qualities, displays concern and understanding for others, makes decisions and assumes responsibility for his or her actions and establishes trust in interactions. Marsha Auster presented this award.

Otis Vance, Interim Director and Director of Financial Services for the College, presented the MCHP President's Award for the senior students attaining the highest academic achievements to Cole Harradon (Nuclear Medicine), Bonnie White (Nursing) and Brian Zaldumbide (Radiologic Technology).

Members of the MCHP Class of 2015 are Sara Grant, Cole Harradon, Brian Zaldumbide, and Donald Zamborsky of Auburn; Zackery Nollette, Biddeford; Kimberly Rivet and Rosemary Wisner, Bridgton; Abigail Stubbs, Brooks; Shantel Gibson, Camden; Alison Dupont, Cape Elizabeth; Sonya Morris, Dixmont; Kathleen Foley and Taylor Labbe, Durham; Stephanie Chin, East Baldwin; Emily Corthell, Farmington; Toni-Jean Seymour, Freeport; Jesse Burke, Fryeburg; Morgan Gilbert, Greene; Amanda Collins, Gorham; Christina Nault, Harrison; Katilynn Strong, Hebron; Catherine Rolfe, Jay; Brittany Cameron, Leeds; Ashley Brown, Sonia Clark, Natalie Ellis, Abigail Havener, Ryan Lemelin, Allison Morin, Lacey Richards, Tamara Roy, Lindsay Smith, and Bethany St. Hilaire, Lewiston; Leah Osborne, Lisbon; Kyle Bates, Mechanic Falls; Amanda James, Makayla Dube, and Benjamin Ramsdell, Minot; Elaine Jones, DeEtte Martin, and Molly Plossay, Monmouth; Elizabeth Leighton, Naples; Julia Waters, New Gloucester; Jennifer Tardiff, Otisfield; See MCHP, page 4

Governor's Address: Federal Takeover of the Katahdin Region is the Wrong Way to Go

Maine is home to 48 State Parks and historic sites. Acadia National Park is also right in our backyard.

Dear Maine Taxpayer, These parks are a part of what make Maine beautiful. They entice people from near and far to explore our coastline, mountains and woods.

Now there is talk about turning land in northern Maine into a National Park. There is no need for this intrusive land grab from the federal government.

This land borders one of Maine's finest parks, Baxter State Park, the home of Mount Katahdin. Today, thousands of residents and visitors enjoy areas around Baxter by ATV and snowmobile.

People hunt and fish there, too. If the federal government takes over, that could and likely will come to an end. Remember in 2013 when the federal government shut down? The feds closed a critical access point because it was located on federal land. We requested the boat launch to remain open. Since Maine taxpayers completely fund and operate the park in which it is located, it seemed like a perfectly logical request. That request was denied.

We do not need any more political dysfunction from Washington, D.C.

Make no mistake, the creation of another National Park will diminish the ability of Mainers to use the land and Great Ponds in Northern Maine for the traditional activities they have enjoyed for nearly 200 years.

Some say a National Park is needed to boost the economy in this region. They believe the "branding" of a National Park designation is necessary for economic growth in this region.

However, National Parks draw visitors based on the spectacular natural assets they protect – not as a result of "branding." The proposed Park does not have such magnificent assets.

The federal government has proven it is not a good manager of forest land, as we have seen from forest fires in the West. Prohibiting the timber harvest in the National Park would be irresponsible.

Proponents have discussed the economic benefits of this scheme by touting studies performed by pro-National Park consultants. These economic promises provide false hope to those who live in this region.

Let's give the people in this region real hope. Today, more than three-and-a-half million acres of our State are protected by conservation easements. If additional land needs to be protected in the Katahdin region to spur economic development, I welcome that discussion.

I would gladly consider expanding Baxter State Park to make that a reality.

Even Governor Baxter himself saw the flaw of a federal takeover. In the mid-1930s, there was serious thought given to making the Katahdin region a National Park.

Governor Baxter saw the folly in this idea. He successfully waged a personal battle for years to stop a National Park from being established in this area and to keep control of our resources in our state—not in Washington, D.C.

The Maine Legislature also said no. In 2011, legislators overwhelmingly opposed the creation of a National Park by a Joint Resolution. Of the 186 legislators, only 3 were in favor of a park.

When there are problems with our State Parks, Mainers know who to call to get these issues resolved. A National Park will put faceless bureaucrats in Washington D.C. in charge of our land.

I wrote to President Obama on this very issue. I told him another National Park is not welcome in Maine, and now it's up to you. Please contact the Maine Congressional Delegation and let them know how you feel. Tell them a federal takeover of the Katahdin Region is the wrong way to go.

Thank You
Paul R. LePage
Governor

"It is our privilege to partner with the Independence Association to support their great programs for Mainers with disabilities," said Androscoggin Bank Vice President of Marketing and Client Relations Melissa Rock. "The Run for Independence is a chance for the Bank's employees to team up with and make a big impact in our community. We not only want to help the Independence Association raise funds, but more importantly, we want to help them bring greater awareness of their programs for people with disabilities. It is our honor to sponsor this event."

The Run for Independence "Celebrates Ability" while raising awareness and encouraging inclusivity. Proceeds from the race support Independence Association employment service programs for individuals with intellectual disabilities.

"This is the first of its kind 10K in Maine for individuals with all types of disabilities," said Independence Association Executive Director Dennis St. Pierre. "The race is designed to allow anyone with any kind of disability to enjoy participating as a complete equal."

The event includes a 10K Wheel Division, 10K Run, 5K Run, 1-Mile Run and Free Kids Fun Run. $1440 in cash prizes will be awarded to the winners. To register, to learn more about participating (as an individual or a team), or to learn more about sponsorship opportunities, contact St. Pierre at 514-3885 or dstpierre@iaofmaine.org or visit www.runforindependence.org.

Founded by area families in 1966 to assist adults and children with intellectual disabilities achieve full and inclusive lives, Independence Association is a community of parents, families, friends, local business people and dedicated staff working together to provide services and support. As a 501c-3 nonprofit organization, IA responds to participants' needs and dreams by providing quality programming through residential, home-based and community support programs, including Spindlenetworks, Spin-off Studios, EnvisionMe, Community Works and Community Living Services. videos will be available for purchase.

Railroads are private property and hobos rode trains illegally. Since the club does not want to encourage trespassing on railroad property, one feature of Hobo Holiday is a Railroad Safety Quiz. Operation Lifesaver safety posters will be on display throughout the building, providing information to be used to answer questions in a Railroad Safety Quiz. Those who answer the questions correctly will be entered into a drawing for prizes, including gift certificates from Governor's Restaurant and Craft Mania and a free pass to ride on one of Maine's participating tourist railroads.

Admission to the event is $3; children under 12 will enter for free. For more information, see www.greatfallsmodelrrclub.org.

Enough is Enough

Legislators should cast their vote for the taxpayers

By Robert E. Macdonald
MAYOR OF LEWISTON

Starting next week, this column will deal with economic development, train service and the improvement of our inner city neighborhood. What will not be in the mix is welfare.

Why? Because it is crystal clear that this issue is not that important to the citizens of Lewiston-Auburn.

In my quest to reform welfare, I have received support from Governor Paul R. LePage, Senator Eric Brakey, Senator Mike Thibodeau, Senator Garrett Mason, Representative Ken Fredette and Representative

Jeff Timberlake. They have taken an active position on General Assistance reform.

But local support is what counts. With the exception of a very few letters to the editor, the Lewiston-Auburn public has shown little interest in reform. The subject is treated by local officials like they were dealing with "Typhoid Mary."

But I get it. The citizens of Lewiston-Auburn want me to move on. This may be my last column on the subject of General Assistance. So let me close by pointing out a few items to ponder.

On May 12, you went

to the polls to vote on the school budget. Prior to the vote, the Lewiston School Department sent out a flyer to all voters containing the budget numbers and the facts used in the creation of next year's school budget. Did you read this?

Did anything under School Budget Expenditures catch your eye? It showed a $1.7 million increase in Special Education—a 10.9% increase! An explanation followed: "The Special Education services are mandated by law and have accelerated in recent years because families are attracted to Lewiston as a service center."

The cost could be higher. However, the flyer goes on to say: "This budget includes further expansion for our in-house autism program to reduce the need for private school placement." Does any of this sound familiar?

Then we have the altruistic City of Portland, one of the biggest obstacles to welfare reform in the State of Maine. They are now starting to feel the fiscal pain they have inflicted over the years on the Lewiston-Auburn community. Currently, they stand to lose $4.8 million in state aid.

This aid will have to be made up by Portland property taxpayers. This will occur if the cities of Portland and Westbrook and the Maine Municipal Association lose a lawsuit they have pending before the court. This lawsuit, if they win, would force Maine state government to fully reimburse local taxpayer money spent by local municipalities to support asylum seekers. Asylum seekers are not recognized as warranting support by either the federal or state government.

Our friends in Portland have reached a fork in the road. If they lose their lawsuit, they will have to decide whether to continue to support asylum seekers, which will mean raising $5.7 million on the backs of the Portland property taxpayers.

Or they can remove them from the general assistance rolls and let the Churches and the advocacy groups that make a living off the poor support them.

This week the Maine State Legislature is addressing, debating and voting on welfare reform. The passage of three of these bills, LD 722, LD 368 and LD 369, is critical if Lewiston and Auburn hope to redefine themselves.

The vote will be close. I am hoping that our local legislators will cast their vote for the taxpayers and not the Democratic Party and their supporters, many of whom make their living off the poor.

Lastly, if those bills go down to defeat and your taxes continue to rise, before you call any elected municipal official, look in the mirror and ask: What did I do to stop this?

APL presents "The Healthcare Movie"

Auburn Public Library will present a special screening of "The Healthcare Movie" on Thursday, May 21 at 6 p.m. Narrated by Kiefer Sutherland, this documentary describes how the health care systems in Canada and the United States evolved to be so different when once they were essentially the same.

According to the film makers, most people under the age of 50 in both countries are not aware of the intensity of the political struggle that led to the universal medical care system in Canada. Nor are they aware of the public relations campaigns, still active today, that have been prevalent since the early 1900's in the United States to dissuade the public from supporting national health care.

Produced by Canadian-American couple Laurie Simons and Terry Sterenberg, The Healthcare Movie reveals the personal and emotional impact on Canadians who now have access to universal health care because of the efforts of people who took a stand nearly 50 years ago. It also reveals the continuing struggle in the United States between the fear of government intervention and the right to quality health care for all people.

The program is free and open to the public. For more information, call 333-6640 ext. 4.

Lisbon Community School was awarded a 2015 Bowdoin College Common Good Grant in the amount of $2,381.44 recently to support its Library-Literacy Program through the purchase of 114 eBooks.

Whiting Farm director at Optimist Club

Kim Finnerty receives her copy of the Optimist Creed from past club president George Mathews.

The eBooks will provide an opportunity for elementary school students to practice, maintain and increase their reading skills during classroom instruction and at home.

The Bowdoin College Common Good Grants provide over $10,000 each year to local and non-profits serving the greater Brunswick community. The grants are funded by an anonymous donor interested in providing Bowdoin College students with opportunities to learn about the field of philanthropy while developing relationships with non-profit agencies.

The grant was awarded to Lisbon Community School by a selection panel consisting of twelve Bowdoin College students, advised by the staff of the McKeen Center and its Assistant Director, Nhi Nguyen. Bowdoin senior Ashley Talbot and sophomore Monique Lillis conducted a site visit of the school in March and met with Principal Robert Kahler, District Librarian Katy Dodge, School Librarian Victoria Worden and Community Resource Coordinator-Grant Writer Monica Millhime.

Kim Finnerty, Director of the new Whiting Farm Program, was the featured speaker recently at the Lewiston-Auburn Optimist Club. Finnerty explained how she became involved with Whiting Farms through her work as a Physical Sciences teacher at Edward Little High School. Excited about the future of Whiting Farms and its partnership with the John F. Murphy Homes and the people of Lewiston-Auburn, she discussed new programs that will take place at the farm and her vision for its role in the community.

College for ME presents College Navigator Summit

College for ME-Androscoggin will present its first annual College Navigator Summit on Thursday, May 21 from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. at Bates College. Designed to spotlight challenges facing adult college students and the benefits of mentoring in addressing those challenges, the event will convene trained College Navigators, adult students, community members and adult education and college professionals to identify obstacles that typically affect adult students and discuss methods to help students overcome them.

Over the past year, College for ME-Androscoggin has trained more than 60 College Navigators across the region. As professionals who interact with families in the course of their daily work, College Navigators work with the staff of College for ME-Androscoggin to mentor adults who are considering attending college or are currently enrolled in college and need help overcoming obstacles that may prevent them from earning a degree. College for ME-Androscoggin works with more than 40 partner organizations, including six public school districts and eight colleges and universities, to increase the number of degree holders in Androscoggin County. They provide career and college counseling for adults and local business, help teens take tuition-free college courses while in high school, and help multiple generations in families focus upon college entry and success. For more information about the College Navigator Summit, becoming a College Navigator, or College for ME-Androscoggin, see www.collegeformeandrosoggin.org.

Women's Center launches support group

On May 20, the Center for Wisdom's Women will launch a new support group called "Women for Sobriety." Meeting Wednesdays from 2:30 to 4 p.m., the group will be led by Lise Pelletier and Denise Mailhot, licensed addiction counselors with Health Affiliates Maine who have over 50 years of combined experience.

Begun in July of 1976, Women for Sobriety was the first national self-help program for women alcoholics. Based on a Thirteen Statement Program of positivity, the program encourages abstinence and emotional and spiritual growth. As an alternative or addition to AA groups, it has been very effective in helping women overcome their addictions and embrace positive new lifestyles.

WFS believes that addiction begins as a means to cope with stress, loneliness, frustration or emotional deprivation in daily life. It recognizes each woman's need for self-discovery. Members live by the philosophy, "Release the past; plan for tomorrow; live for today."

Other support groups meeting at the center include a Trauma Recovery and Empowerment group run by Health Affiliates, which meets Mondays from 3 to 4:30 p.m.; the only Al-Anon group in Lewiston, which meets Wednesdays at 5:30 p.m.; and a group for bisexual, lesbian and transgendered women and their friends and family members, which meets the last Thursday of each month from 2 to 3 p.m.

There is no fee for the program, but voluntary donations are encouraged. For information, call 513-3922 or see <http://womenforsobriety.org>.

Students attend career development conference

What's Going On

Students in Lisbon High School's Jobs For Maine's Graduates program traveled to the Augusta Civic Center recently for the 2015 Career Development Conference, an annual event where juniors and seniors from across the state gather to work on career development skills, compete against their peers and attend workshops focused upon their future aspirations.

Seniors Taylor Martin,

Victoria Swan, Destiny Pagan and JD Martin and juniors Alyssa Finlay, Katherin George and Olivia Leduc attended the conference, where they participated in numerous scheduled activities, networked with other students and tended the booth exhibit, called "Scooby Doo and the Mystery Machine," that they created for the event. The exhibit centered around the theme, "Life is a mystery. Find the clues to solve it." The group received two first place honors at the conference, winning the Facebook cover photo competition, where participants create a photo cover showing what they do in the JMG program, and the Golden Tab Award, where participants vie to collect the most aluminum can tabs to benefit the Ronald McDonald Foundation. The Lisbon team turned in 99 pounds of tabs.

Rate and closing cost offer are effective April 1, 2015, subject to change without notice and are for new home equity lines of credit. The 3.25% Annual Percentage Rate (APR) is fixed for the first 12 months after the loan closes and then becomes variable each month. The APR will be based on an Index PLUS a margin after the initial fixed rate period. The index is the highest Prime Rate published in The Wall Street Journal. As of April 1, 2015 the Prime Rate was 3.25%; however the APR can never go below 3.25%, the floor rate. The maximum APR will be 16% APR, the ceiling rate. APRs assume a credit score of 750 or better; other programs with other terms or costs are available for credit scores below 750 or line amounts over $500,000. Minimum line amount is $5,000.00. Offer excludes expenses for unusual legal, unique property appraisals or title issues. Offer applies to owner-occupied 1-4 family primary residences and second homes, excluding mobile homes. Homeowners insurance is required.

AHCH installs standby generator

Androscoggin Home Care & Hospice recently tested their newly installed 200 kilowatt natural gas generator to ensure critical services are supported during power outages. The new system was installed in February at the agency's Lewiston facility at 15 Strawberry Avenue and went operational after the April 13 test.

"This generator will provide AHCH with the equipment we need to be prepared for any future power outages, ensuring that our agency's infrastructure will stay viable," said AHCH President and CEO Julie Shackley. "With the numerous snow storms of 2014, our leadership recognized a need to have a plan in place to act quickly when there is a power failure. In the event of an emergency, this backup generator will enable our agency to remain open and keep our patients and staff safe."

The standby generator works in tandem with an automatic transfer switch that continuously monitors utility power. When power is lost from the utility, the switch automatically transfers the electrical load to the standby generator. The transfer of power to the standby generator usually takes 5 seconds or less.

"This generator will be able to power our critical and sophisticated computer systems, lights, heating/cooling systems, refrigerators, security systems, electronics and more," said Stephen Doyon, Facilities Supervisor of AHCH.

Volunteer training at AHCH

Volunteer support plays an integral part in the services provided by Androscoggin Home Care & Hospice. Upcoming volunteer training opportunities at AHCH include:

Hospice Volunteer Training. Androscoggin Home Care & Hospice office, 15 Strawberry Avenue, Lewiston. June 2, 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; June 4, 9, 11 and 16, 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; and June 19, 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Hospice volunteers receive 20 hours of training on how to provide companionship and support to terminally ill patients and their families. The training also covers topics on family dynamics, disease process, spirituality and more.

Freeport Historical Soc. unveils exhibit today

Making moccasins at Freeport's Casco Bay Trading Post c. 1970.

Freeport Historical Society will unveil its new exhibit, "Cobblers to Capitalists: Two Centuries of Freeport Shoe-making," with an opening reception on Thursday, May 14 at 5 p.m. The event is free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served.

On display at FHS headquarters through January 15, the exhibit chronicles the town's history as a significant shoe manufacturing center long before it became known as a retail mecca.

For more than a century, shoemaking was an important manufacturing industry in Freeport, from the establishment of the first true factories in the 1870s until the production of the final pair of Freeport-made shoes in 2001. During that period, more than 30 different companies operated in town, including those owned by the Davis Brothers, the Cushings, H. P. Dennison and A.W. Shaw. A large segment of the town's population was employed by shoe manufacturers like Cumberland Shoe, Lenox, Freeport Shoe, Small-Abbott, E.E. Taylor, Free-Moc and Eastland Shoe.

"Cobblers to Capitalists" delves into the history of the industry in Freeport, from the early itinerant cobblers who traveled to people's homesteads to construct custom-made footwear in the late 18th century to the mechanization of the 19th century and the eventual decline due to outsourcing in the 20th-century. The exhibit features objects and photographs from the society's collections and on loan from local residents and businesses, including the L.L. Bean archives. A number of interesting shoe designs will be on display, including early and unsold variations of the classic Bean hunting shoe, as well as cobblers' benches, hand tools, sewing machines and other items.

Freeport Historical Society is located at 45 Main Street in Freeport. Summer hours are Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The admission fee to the exhibit will be a suggested donation of $3. For more information, call 865-3170 or see www.freeporthistoricalsociety.org.

New look for CLT entrance

The entrance to Lewiston-Auburn Community Little Theatre at 30 Academy Street in Auburn sports a fresh new look these days, thanks to the efforts and support of local businesses and volunteers.

The new deck with adjoining ramp access was constructed by Travis Mayo, while the handsome new comedy and tragedy masks that now greet visitors were designed by Bill Hamilton of Joy & Hamilton Architects, built and donated by McCann Fabrication and professionally painted by Maine Metal Coatings. The masks were installed by Phil Vampatella, Bill Hamilton and Marcelo Landaeta.

More improvements for the entrance are planned in preparation for the theater's 75th season.

Fenn-Ross Heritage Scramble tees off May 17

The oldest resort golf course in America, the Links at Poland Spring hosts this annual event to support the maintenance and repair of the historic buildings and grounds at Poland Spring Resort.

Area golfers will approach the tee to the strains of bagpipe music on May 17 when the historic Poland Spring Resort, nestled in the hills of Western Maine, hosts the annual Fenn-Ross Heritage Scramble Cup golf tournament.

Presented by the Poland Spring Preservation Society to support the maintenance and repair of its historic buildings and grounds, including the All Souls Chapel and Maine State Building, the tournament is unique in Maine because of how it manifests a sense of history throughout the event.

Prizes will be awarded for successful scramble teams and for the male and female contestant judged to be the most colorful and true to golf dress typical for the golden era of Poland Spring

Resort. It was a time when Presidents, world notables and some of golf history's greatest players journeyed to the storied resort each year to play the Donald Ross-designed course.

There will be prizes for the longest drive on the first hole using a hickory shafted driver and for closest to the hole on #6 using a hickory shafted iron. Original hickory shafted clubs will be provided for the events. The winning foursome will have their names inscribed on the large Fenn-Ross trophy on display in the clubhouse and will receive smaller, personal facsimile versions of the trophy to memorialize their victory. Following the tournament, participants will enjoy a full buffet dinner and awards presentation.

Opening in 1915, the Links at Poland Spring is the oldest resort golf course in the United States. The course was designed by Donald Ross, a prolific course architect who designed nearly 500 courses in the United States, including Pinehurst #2, site of last year's U.S. Open.

The entry fee is $50 per person, which includes golf with cart, tee gifts, prizes, continental breakfast and dinner. Contestants without a full team will be grouped in foursomes by tournament officials. Contestants need not have a USGA GHIN handicap to participate. Entry forms are available at the Poland Spring Resort golf course pro shop and online at Polandspringps.org.

For more information, call the Pro Shop at 998-6002.

Poland Spring course features storied history

Golf has been played at Poland Spring since the late nineteenth century. Touted as the oldest resort golf course in the United States, the Links at Poland Spring opened in 1896 as one of the first 80 courses built in the United States. This year it celebrates the centennial of its Donald Ross redesign and enlargement to an 18-hole course.

Arthur H. Fenn, America's first home-bred golf professional, designed the original course in 1896 at the request of the Ricker Family, owners of the famed resort. Fenn laid out a small, rudimentary course, surrounded by hay fields among the resort's walking and riding paths. Over the next two years, he returned to oversee changes to the course and, after turning professional in 1898, stayed at Poland Spring until his death in 1925.

As the game's popularity rose, increasing demand led to the need to enlarge the course from nine to eighteen holes. The expanded course, which opened on July 12, 1915, was Donald Ross's first work in Maine and one of his first thirty courses overall. Ross went on to design or enlarge over 400 courses and remains well known today for his work at Pinehurst No. 2, Seminole and Oak Hills. A few years later, adjustments were made to the course by fellow World Golf Hall of Fame member and early amateur champion Walter Travis.

"What's so great about this course is that so much of the original design still exists, relatively unaltered, today" says course professional Allan Menne, PGA.

The course's history includes a number of fascinating stories. Many of the game's early stars played Poland Spring. In fact, Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen, two of the game's greats, both held the course record here. In 2013, the course, with much of the rest of the Poland Spring property, was added to the National Register of Historic Places.

"The Poland Spring

course is truly a treasure, not only for its recreational opportunities, but for its connection to the early developments of the game in the state and the nation," said Jason C. Libby, vice-chair of the Maine Historic Preservation Commission and author of a recent book about the course's history, "A Course Built by Legends," published in 2014.

The course opened for the 2015 season on May 1. Also available for use is Fenn Park, which features a miniature golf course, a disc golf course and a 330-yard driving range with artificial and grass tees. Lessons are also available.

In operation as a destination for travelers in the state and abroad since 1794, Poland Spring Resort is composed of three hotels, eleven cottages and several dining facilities on the grounds. Guests may enjoy music, golf, hiking, boating, museums and other entertainment on its 400-acre grounds. For more information, see www.polandspringinns.com.

Story and photos by Rachel Morin

You can almost hear the crickets in John Mitchell's seaside meadow Function Room 170 at USM's Lewiston Auburn College was bustling recently when family and friends of the art students at Lewiston Auburn Senior College turned out for an opportunity to view their work.

Those attending admired the accomplished pieces on display while mingling, discussing ideas and techniques with the artists and enjoying refreshments, including grapes, cheeses, homemade baked goods and cafes of lemonade.

After creating works in watercolor, acrylic and pencil for several semesters, the students of instructors Linda DeSantis, Anita Poulin and Joie Crockett determined it was time to schedule an exhibit.

For this first public viewing, they decided to "start small" by restricting the event to invited

Preble Street plans homeless youth count

Preble Street, a state-wide social service and advocacy organization based in Portland, has organized agencies in seven counties across Maine to conduct the state's first ever runaway and homeless youth count. Made possible through financial support from the Butler Family Fund, a Washington D.C.-

based foundation that focuses on the inequities of homelessness and in the criminal justice system, the point-in-time count will take place the week of May 18.

"This will be one of the most comprehensive counts of homeless and runaway youth undertaken anywhere in the nation, and perhaps the first to take place in a largely rural state," said Jon Bradley, Preble Street Associate Director.

"The lack of accurate counts of runaway and homeless youth is a national concern, and gaining a better understanding of the number of youth and the causes of their situations, is key to developing programs and policies to prevent homelessness and to meet the needs of youth who are already out of their homes."

Working with local partners in each of the seven participating counties, Preble Street will reach out to schools, law enforcement, the Department of Health and Human Services Office of Family and Children's Services and other community resources to find young people ages 20 and under who are not staying with parents or guardians and remain unstably housed or at risk.

Partners are New Beginnings in Androscoggin and Franklin counties; Preble Street and Tedford Housing in Cumberland County; Kennebec Behavioral Health in Kennebec County; Knox County Homeless Coalition and Penquis CAP in Knox County; Rumford Group

Homes in Oxford County; and the Opportunity Alliance in York County.

"Because there are only three youth shelters in Maine, many youth find alternative ways of surviving when away from guardians, including staying with friends or 'couch surfing,' sleeping out or finding abandoned properties," said Bradley.

An in-depth 30-question survey, developed based on youth and provider input, will gather information from each youth counted. Results will be analyzed to provide Maine government officials with specific recommendations for decreasing the number of homeless and runaway youth in the state.
