Androscoggin Home Care & Hospice's 12th annual Autumn Night Out Gala & Auction in October raised more than $64,000 to help supplement care for Hospice House patients in need and to support the agency's bereavement and volunteer services. Held at Poland Spring Resort in Poland, the event sold out this year with 235 people seated. Seventeen of the agency's staff and volunteers donated their time to the event, helping to ensure that the evening ran as smoothly as possible. Valet parking was provided courtesy of the staff of Fortin Group Funeral Homes.

Snowmobile club seeks community's help to crack down on rogue riders

The Hillside Family Riders Snowmobile Club held a press conference recently to ask for the community's help this winter to keep local snowmobile trails open. The club, which is tasked with building and maintaining the snowmobile trails in Lewiston, is concerned about "rogue" riders who damage trails and infringe upon the rights of local property owners.

Such riders use dirt bikes on marked snowmobile trails in violation of state law; use illegal snowmobiles outfitted with loud performance exhausts that disturb the peace of homeowners who live nearby; and leave marked trails to trespass onto private property where permission to ride has not been granted.

ELHS Band brings home bronze medal

The Edward Little High School Marching Band was recently awarded a bronze medal for their performance at the Maine Band Directors Association's final field show at Thornton Academy in Saco. The band's drum major, Nysa Chartier, was awarded the special recognition of 5 out of 5 stars for her skill in leading the band. The band's program this year was entitled "The Strong Survive" and featured the theme music of various superheroes. The band has performed locally, appearing at all ELHS home football games, as well as at the recent Dempsey Challenge Survivor's Walk and the rededication of the bandstand in Lewiston's Kennedy Park.

Historical Society program features local ephemera

Androscoggin Historical Society will present an educational program with local collector, educator and businessman Lew Alessio called "Passing Fancy" on Tuesday, November 17 at 7 p.m. at the Society's museum on the third floor of the County Building. The subject of the program will be "ephemera," the numerous types of written or printed material that were not meant to be retained or preserved, but which survive as the subject of various collections. Using vintage images and objects, the evening's highly visual presentation will explore the role of ephemera in Central Maine from the late 1800s to WWII - Lewiston's own "Golden Age."

Presenter Lew Alessio will look at paper goods from the city's past, including catalogs, greeting cards, trade cards, advertising, postcards, programs, billboards and broadsides, with some familiar names and faces, and more than a few surprises, represented.

Alessio has collected examples of ephemera since childhood, with a deep interest in paper goods that affected the everyday lives of rural folk. Born and raised in New York City, Alessio has lived for 43 years in the 1791 Bachelor Stetson homestead in Greene, which he shares with his husband, Jim Shaffer, four cats, and the spirits of generations of the remarkable Stetson Family. They own both an antiques business and "in your own words, LLC," which creates greeting cards featuring vin-

Governor's Address: Thank a Veteran on Veterans Day and Every Day

Maine has one of the highest numbers of veterans per capita in the country. With pride, Mainers have always answered the call of duty to defend our State and Nation.

Dear Maine Taxpayer,

On this Veteran's Day, I ask you to honor the millions of American men and women who have given of themselves for their country since our nation's founding.

Our debt to these heroes can never be repaid, but our gratitude and respect must last forever.

Ann and I fully support programs for our veterans, including the Hire-A-Vet campaign at the Maine Department of Labor.

We want our veterans to return home to good-paying careers that take advantage of the skills they developed serving our country. The campaign's goal was for 100 businesses to hire 100 veterans.

So far, 127 businesses have signed up, and 135 veterans have been hired. Now we are hoping for 200 businesses to hire 200 veterans.

Whether you are a veteran or an employer, we urge you to connect with this campaign to help hire our veterans.

To encourage veterans to stay in Maine after their service, we pushed hard to eliminate the income tax on military pensions. We want to welcome veterans from Maine and around the country to settle in our state and bring their skills with them.

Just last week, the Bureau of Veterans Services announced the Maine Veterans Legacy Project, which will preserve the personal stories of our veterans in their own words.

The project is now collecting first-person accounts of those who defended the United States during wartime and protected our borders during peacetime.

Our veterans are living history, and it is our responsibility to ensure these memories are shared with Mainers for generations to come.

WABI TV5 of Bangor is filming and producing the interviews with veterans, and they will be kept at the State of Maine Archives for public viewing.

Ann and I urge you to show your support for our veterans. Just say "thank you" to the next veteran you meet. Hire a veteran in your workplace, visit a VA hospital or donate to a veterans program. We must ask ourselves as a nation: Are we serving veterans even half as well as they have served us?

Ann and I are indebted to the families and service members who have given so much for this great country in the name of freedom.

We must remember them. We must appreciate them. God bless our veterans, and God bless America.

Thank You,
Paul R. LePage
Governor

"Because of the generosity of our sponsors and the hard work of our event planning committee, we are also excited to say that the event operated for well under 50% of the sponsorship dollars raised," said Cyndi Robbins, planning committee chair and owner of Poland Spring Resort & Golf. "That means that not only does 100% of the funds raised through ticket sales and auction items directly impact patient care, but so will 50% of the sponsors' dollars."

Autumn Night Out 2015 was sponsored by TD Bank, TD Wealth Management, HealthWyse, LLC,

Easy Payment Solutions, Cross Insurance, Lebel and Harriman, LLP, Winxnet, Employee Benefits Solutions, Aetna, Brann & Isaacson, Butler Bros., Modern Woodmen of America - Paul Colasante, Norman Hanson & DeTroy, LLC, Poland Spring Water, Principal Financial Group, Suzanne & Rupert Grover, Auburn Animal Hospital, Auburn Savings Bank, Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Dow's Law Office, Jim's Auto Sales, Penmor Lithographers, and Skelton, Taintor and Abbott.

The volunteer members of the 2015 Autumn Night Out Planning Committee were Tammy Chamberland, Lorraine Heikkinen, Cathy MacDonald, Deb Ouellette of New England Plumbing & Heating Inc., Heather Printup of Poland Spring Bottling Co., Cyndi Robbins of Poland Spring Resort & Golf, Lisa Roy of Cross Insurance and Mark Stasium.

The 13th annual Autumn Night Out Gala & Auction is tentatively scheduled for October of 2016.

To address the problem, the club is working with local law enforcement agencies, who plan to increase enforcement efforts, and is calling upon the local snowmobile community and landowners to note registration numbers and descriptions of violators in order to report them to the local warden service or police.

The club is also calling upon snowmobilers to get involved by joining their local snowmobile club to help build and maintain the local trail system. Last year, there were almost 1000 registered snowmobiles in Lewiston, but only 140 snowmobile club members. Membership dues are only $25 per year, and all funds are used to purchase the equipment and fuel needed to build and maintain local trails.

For more information about this effort or about the Hillside Family Riders Snowmobile Club, call 212-8950 or see www.hillsidefamilyriders.com.

What's Going On

St. Dom's to host teen Journey Retreat

Teenagers from around Maine will gather at Saint Dominic Academy in Auburn this month for a special weekend designed to help them grow in and deepen their relationships with God and each other. With the theme "Steeped in Mercy, Offered in Love," this Journey Retreat is centered on an encounter with Christ and an invitation to young people to respond to Jesus by faithfully serving God and neighbor.

Taking place November 20 through 22, the weekend will feature a long list of special guests from around the region who will present engaging talks, lead discussions and join the participants in prayer. These will include Bishop Robert P. Deeley, who will celebrate Mass and spend time with the participants on Saturday, November 21 at 11 a.m.; Fr. Michael MacInnis and Br. Roberto Serrano, Franciscan friars currently ministering in Boston; Sr. Laura Downing, a servant of the Immaculate Heart of Mary from North Carolina; Sr. Mary Rose and Sr. Maximilian, two sisters from the Daughters of Mary, Mother of Healing Love; Sr. Regina Cochran from the Franciscan Sisters of the Eucharist; and Ricky Vazquez, Danielle Faucher, and other local musicians, who will lead the music throughout the weekend. Priests from the Diocese of Portland will also be in attendance and present to hear confessions during the retreat.

All Catholic high school youth are encouraged to attend. The cost is $100 and includes a t-shirt, lodging at the academy and all meals. If a family is not able to afford the full cost, contact event organizers at journey@portlanddiocese.org.

Registration will begin on Friday, November 20 at 5 p.m., with the retreat starting at 6:30 p.m. The event will conclude after lunch on Sunday, November 22 at 1 p.m. For more information, including the complete retreat schedule, or to register, visit the retreat website at www.journeymaine.org.

Enough is Enough

Your vote determines the direction of the city

By Robert E. Macdonald
MAYOR OF LEWISTON

Shameful, shameful, shameful!

Last week's column dealt with the sacrifices made by those who donned the uniform of our country, sacrificing a comfortable home life, to protect and continue to ensure our freedoms—freedoms bought for us by the bloody sacrifices of our forefathers and those that came after them.

The first and most important duty you have as an American citizen is to vote. It is your vote that picks those whom you choose to lead our country. It is your vote that will be used to determine the direction your city, state and national government will go.

Unfortunately, an apathetic and defeatist attitude seems to run through the veins of the majority of voters throughout the United States. They fail to show up at the polls either because they forgot, they were busy or, worst of all, they feel that their vote won't count.

Well, your vote does count. It acts as a barometer showing how voters feel about issues and candidates. When the vote tallies are in and races and ballot questions have been decided, the wailing and gnashing of teeth soon begins. Usually the loudest and nastiest voices are from those who did not vote. They look for someone to blame. That someone can be found in their bathroom mirror.

Today we live in a society of complacency. One day we will wake up befuddled and find that the freedoms and lifestyles we once enjoyed are no longer there. You will then find yourself forced to adjust to a brave new world.

At the end of last week I attended the monthly Lewiston Auburn Economic Growth Council meeting. In short, the new leaderships of LAEGC's John Holden and Androscoggin County Chamber of Commerce's new director Matt Leonard have not only rallied and instilled upon membership a can-do spirit, but are aggressively marketing Lewiston and Auburn.

Over the last few months in Lewiston we have seen a high-tech Italian manufacturer, Modula, set up shop on Alfred Plourde Parkway, creating 60 very good-paying technical jobs. Once adjustments are made and orders start coming in, we could see over a period of time a growth of up to 180 jobs at the company.

Then we have Argo Call Center located in the former McCrory's. Argo's decision to relocate to this building on upper Lisbon Street saw a $2.2 million modernization of the building, bringing beauty and foot traffic to the area. It has also brought an additional 300 good-paying jobs to the area.

In Auburn city officials stand on the brink of a multi-million-dollar investment from the Chinese that will significantly add to Auburn's tax base.

Both Lewiston and Auburn are on the verge of an economic renaissance. Let's hope that soon our children, who left for greener pastures, will start returning home saying: The cities of the Androscoggin—It's the only place I want to be.

All good things eventually come to an end. The Jesus Party, created and run by the Rev. Doug and Sonia Taylor, held its last party back in June. Over the last 20 years, they have provided a safe environment to many inner-city children, keeping them from mischief and instilling in them values needed to live in a civil society. Their ministry will be sorely missed.

Congratulations to the State Class A Championship Lewiston Boys Soccer Team. Their hard work and persistence finally paid off. They are a winning team from a winning city.

County Republicans meet

The Androscoggin County Republican Committee will meet on Monday, November 16 at 7 p.m. in the meeting room at Sabattus Town Hall, 190 Middle Road in Sabattus. Please note that the Caucus Planning Subcommittee will meet at 6 p.m. and the Executive Committee will meet at 6:30

Tommy's Feral Felines needs fir and spruce boughs

Winter will soon be upon us, and we all know how brutal a Maine winter can be. The volunteers at Tommy's Feral Felines need to start preparing now to help ensure that the feral cats they care for can survive the winter.

p.m. All committee members and interested, registered Republicans are welcome and encouraged to attend. Please come and get involved.

These are formerly domestic cats who, through no fault of their own, have been left to fend for themselves in the wild. To do this, Tommy's needs a lot of fir and blue spruce boughs.

Tommy's is a volunteer, no-kill organization that receives no outside funding and relies totally on donations to do its work. One of the many things they do is build and maintain shelters in various locations where the cats can feed safely and find protection from the elements. These shelters are vital to their survival, and the boughs are the perfect material to add an extra layer of warmth and insulation.

If you have any boughs, or anticipate cutting some boughs in the near future, or have any suggestions that would help Tommy's volunteers locate boughs, please contact Norm Blais at 240-8767.

Governor LePage and First Lady to Host 5th Annual Blaine House Food Drive

The First Family invites the public to visit the Blaine House on Saturday in an effort to help fellow Mainers who are less fortunate. Since Governor Paul R. LePage and First Lady Ann M. LePage began the food drive in 2011, they have collected thousands of pounds of food for pantries and shelters across Maine.

"This provides us an opportunity to open the Blaine House to visitors and share the history of the house while collecting food for those who need a helping hand in our communities," said Governor LePage. "It's important the First Lady and I give back to the people of Maine, and this is one of the ways we are able to do that."

Doors will be open at the Blaine House between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Saturday, November 14. Mainers will have an opportunity to bring a food donation, get a tour of the Blaine House led by Governor LePage and enjoy light refreshments.

The Good Shepherd Food-Bank will accept all donations brought to the Blaine House. Good Shepherd Food-Bank will determine the communities that are have the most need and distribute the donations.

Next CMHRA meeting spotlights metal health issues

November's Central Maine Human Resources Association program will tackle the issue of mental illness and addiction in the workplace. The program will take place on Tuesday, November 17, from 7:45 to 9:30 a.m. at the Ramada Inn of Lewiston. The presenters will be Amy Sneirson, Executive Director of the Maine Human Rights Commission, and Cindy Cronkhite and Cindy Letourneau of the Human Resources Department at St. Mary's Health System.

Sneirson will draw from her years at the helm of the Commission in discussing top issues facing employers in the areas of mental health and addiction, areas in which employers most often run into trouble, and how to avoid running afoul of the various laws that apply. One issue causing particular difficulty is the handling of accommodation requests, which require that employers focus upon the real job needs while having interactive discussions with the employee. She will also address the issue of when leave may be appropriate or required. Cronkhite and Letourneau will present some practical tools for assessing and responding to such issues and will provide examples of workplace accommodations and resources they have used. They will also share examples of their policies and work accommodations created for employees needing support for mental health and substance abuse issues. Finally, the program will cover how those attending can make use of JAN Network, a free resource for employers. Register at cmhra.shrm.org/events.

Membership to CMHRA is open to all for-profit, non-profit, public and private organizations. Meetings are attended by human resources managers, benefits administrators, health, wellness and safety managers, training and development professionals, supervisors, small business owners and others interested in human resource issues. For more information about CMHRA membership, contact Michael Letourneau of Androscoggin Bank at membershipchair@cmhra.org.

Social activist-entrepreneur to speak at Bates

The founder of Thistle Farms, a social enterprise for women who have survived prostitution, trafficking and addiction, will discuss her work on Thursday, November 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Muskie Archives at Bates College, 70 Campus Avenue in Lewiston.

An author, popular speaker and Episcopal priest, Becca Stevens will discuss "Burning Desire: Our Longing for Justice and Hope for Healing" as part of a series of events she's presenting in Maine. Her local appearance is a Civic Forum sponsored by the Harward Center, the Bates office that facilitates mutually beneficial relationships between the college and community.

The event is open to the public at no cost. Thistle Farms personal care products will be available for purchase. For more information, call 786-6202.

"I've known Becca for almost 30 years, and she continues to amaze me," says Darby Ray, director of the Harward Center. "She is a phenomenally brave and talented woman, both visionary and down-to-earth. She's also a fantastic speaker." Stevens will talk about her work with Thistle Farms, located in Nashville, and its growth into a movement for women's freedom. Two women who work at Thistle Farms will join Stevens in discussing the program. She will discuss economic empowerment as critical to healing and will challenge her audience to live in harmony with the deepest human desire to love one another well.

Stevens was featured in the 2015 PBS documentary "A Path Appears" and has been featured by the New York Times, ABC World News, National Public Radio and CNN. She was named by the White House as one of 15 Champions of Change for violence against women in 2011; and was named 2014 Humanitarian of the Year by the Small Business Council of America. She is the author of numerous books, including this year's "Letters from the Farm: A Simple Path for a Deeper Spiritual Life" (Morehouse Publishing), as well as a popular blog, at www.beccastevens.org/blog.

Started in 1997 by Stevens under the name Magdalene, Thistle Farms stands for the truth that, in the end, love is the most powerful force for change in the world. The program, which provides advocacy services for up to 700 women yearly and includes a two-year residential component, employs more than 50 survivors through social enterprises that include a natural body care company, Thistle Stop Cafe, a paper and sewing studio, and a global marketplace called Shared Trade.

What's Going On

WHA Gallery features Hunter, Huston

Works by painter Scott Hunter and photographer-painter Sandra Lee Huston are now on display at the Central Maine Medical Center Woman's Hospital Association Rotating Art Gallery through the end of November.

Hunter, a Turner resident, says he combines "styles from impressionism to realism, but for me, style and technique are afforded by the subject to be painted. I let the subject declare how to be portrayed in a painting." His work has been shown in juried exhibitions in Maine and Florida and he participates each winter in the copyist program at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston. He is a member of the Western Maine Chapter of Plein Air Painters of Maine.

Huston, of Lisbon Falls, describes herself as a "pastel portraitist and nature photographer." In 2006, she published her first book, "Loons of Tacoma Lakes," a pictorial study celebrating "the love of loons." Her work can be seen on-
