ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This week could offer more opportunities for ambitious Lambs eager to get ahead. But don't rush into making decisions until you've checked for possible hidden problems.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Some light begins to shine on professional and/or personal situations that have long eluded explanation. Best advice: Don't rush things. All will be made clear in time.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Although you might want to protest what seems to be an unfair situation, it's best to keep your tongue and temper in check for now. The full story hasn't yet come out.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Work prospects are back on track. But watch what you say. A thoughtless comment to the wrong person -- even if it's said in jest -- could delay or even derail your progress.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A colleague might try to goad you into saying or doing the wrong thing. It's best to ignore the troublemaker, even if he or she riles your royal self. Your supporters stand with you.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Be careful not to let your on-the-job zealousness create resentment with co-workers who might feel you shut them out. Prove them wrong by including them in your project.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Although it's not quite what you hoped for, use your good business sense to make the most of what you're being offered at this time. Things will improve down the line.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A more positive picture of what lies ahead is beginning to take shape. But there are still too many gaps that need to be filled in before you make definitive plans.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Continue to keep a tight hold on the reins so that you don't charge willy-nilly into a situation that might appear attractive on the surface but lack substance.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You still need to demand those answers to your questions. Remember, your wise counseling earns you respect, but it's your search for truth that gives you wisdom.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You'll find that people are happy to help you deal with some difficult situations. And, of course, knowing you, you'll be happy to return those favors anytime. Won't you?

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Give that special someone in your personal life a large, loving dollop of reassurance. That will go a long way toward restoring the well-being of your ailing relationship.

Modern Day Problems In This Electronic World

Oooops!!

THE ORIGINAL TEXT

Hi Bob,

This is Alan next door. I'm sorry buddy, but I have a confession to make to you. I've been riddled with guilt these past few months and have been trying to pluck up the courage to tell you to your face, but I am at least now telling in text as I can't live with myself a moment longer without you knowing. The truth is, I have been sharing your wife, day and night when you're not around. In fact, probably more than you, particularly in the mornings after you've left for work. I haven't been getting it at home recently, but that's no excuse I know. The temptation was just too much....l can no longer live with the guilt and I hope you will accept my sincerest apologies and forgive me. I promise that it won't happen again. Regards, Alan.

THE REACTION

Bob, feeling enraged and betrayed, immediately went into his bedroom, grabbed his gun, and without a word, shot his wife twice, killing her instantly. He returned to the lounge where he poured himself a stiff drink and sat down on the sofa to contemplate his next move. He took out his phone to respond to make the call to the police and saw he had another message:-

THE SECOND TEXT

Hi Bob, This is Alan next door again. Sorry about the slight typo on my last text, I expect you worked it out anyway, but as I'm sure you noticed, my predictive text changed "WiFi" To "Wife". Technology hey?!? Hope you saw the funny side of that. Regards, Alan.

Blonde Wants To Swap Scarce Ammo with Old Gun Nut

This morning I lucked out and was able to buy two boxes of ammo.

I placed the boxes on the front seat and headed back home, but stopped at a gas station where a drop-dead gorgeous blonde in a short skirt was filling up her car at the next pump.

She glanced at the two boxes of ammo, bent over and leaned in my passenger window, and said in a sexy voice, "I'm a big believer in barter, old fella. Would you be interested in trading sex for ammo?"

I thought for a few seconds and asked,

"What kind of ammo 'ya

Cold Shoulder

After weeks of getting the cold shoulder from his wife, the unhappy husband finally confronted her: "Admit it, Linda. The only reason you married me is because my grandfather left me $10 million."

"Don't be ridiculous," she replied. "I don't care who left it to you."

Companion Animals and Fair Housing

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I read your column with the question from Christine B. in Atlanta about her struggle to find pet-friendly housing. I am a director at a nonprofit housing provider, and previously worked as a fair-housing specialist in Nevada. I do not know Christine B.'s specific situation with her cats regarding whether or not she has a disability. However, I feel compelled to offer the following comments and tips regarding Reasonable Accommodations in rental housing under U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, which applies to all rental properties of more than four units where the owner does not reside on-site.

In April 2013, HUD's office of Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity released guidance stating that any comfort, therapy or companion animal is considered a service animal. This is much broader than the more familiar ADA requirement defining a service animal as either a dog or a miniature horse trained to assist a disabled person with a certain task. Many people who suffer from depression and anxiety as well as those with physical ailments who benefit from their companion animals (cats too!) can request a Reasonable Accommodation from a landlord. Because they are considered service animals per HUD's guidance, landlords may NOT collect pet deposits, pet fees or pet rent from residents requesting this accommodation. I firmly believe that all tenants should be aware of their rights. -- Joscylyn H., Albuquerque, New Mexico

DEAR JOSCYLYN: This is fantastic to hear, and I hope it helps Christine and others in her situation. Readers, if you have companion animals and want to learn more about your rights as a tenant, visit hud.gov for more resources.

Hull Pottery

Q: I have inherited a piece of Hull pottery in the Coronet pattern. It is a 9-inch vase. What can you tell me about it? -- Susan, Pueblo West, Colorado

A: The Coronet line of Hull pottery was made to be sold in chain stores. Most of the ones I have seen are marked "Coronet," not Hull. I found your vase referenced in "Warman's Hull Pottery" by David Doyle. Doyle lists your vase in the $15 to $25 range.

Q: I love to pick up odd kitchen utensils. Since I live in lowa, I attend as many farm auctions as I can, and this is where I have found some of the truly unique items in my collection. As you can imagine, I sometimes discover an older piece that I can't identify. I am enclosing a picture of just such an item. What is it? -- Mark, Iowa

A: I found your item in 300 Years of Kitchen Collectibles by Linda Campbell Franklin (Krause, $29.95). It is a candy-curling machine, which was used for making candies known as "opera curls." According to this guide, it is worth about $150. Incidentally, you should purchase a copy of this book. It will make your hobby even more fun and will quickly become one of your favorite references.

Q: I have an old lawn mower that has been owned by my family since the 1930s. Is it valuable, or should I toss it? -- Steve, New Mexico

A: I'll cut to the chase. Most older lawn mowers manufactured in the United States have very little value. In my 40 years of writing this column, I have yet to find a club for collectors. I suggest you post it on eBay, and if a feeding frenzy develops, you'll have your answer.

Q: I have an album of "The Best of the Statler Brothers" that has never been opened. I would like to find out it's value. -- Betty, Minnesota

A: I found your 1975 album listed in the Goldmine Standard Catalogue of American Records 1950-1975 edited by Tim Neely (Krause, $34.99). It is worth $12.

Happy Anniversary & Late Birthday in Heaven to my Mother, Sally Frances Ayers 8-4-30 - 8-17-11

Mom, no words I write can ever say how much me & Corey miss you everyday. As time goes by, the loneliness grows. How much we miss you, nobody knows. We think of you in silence, we often speak your name. But all we have are memories, and a photo in a frame. No one knows our sorrow, no one sees us weep. But the love we have for you is in our hearts to keep. We've never stopped loving you, we know we never will. Deep inside our heart, you are with us still. Heartaches in this world are many, but ours is worse than any. Our hearts still ache as we whisper low "We love and miss you so." The things we feel so deeply, are often the hardest to say, but we just can't keep quiet anymore, so we'll tell you anyway. There is a place in our heart that no one else can fill. We love you so much, Mother and Grandmother, and we will always will. You celebrate with Dad, Robert, Carroll Wayne, tell them we miss them too, and love them. Be our guardian angel til we meet on the other side of the beautiful shore. Sadly hurting and missing you.

We love you. Carolyn-daughter, Corey-grandson, & Nosey

"Poison Ivy And Poisoned Hearts"

If there is such a thing as the botanical spawn of Satan, poison ivy must surely be it. In Genesis 3:17-18, after the fall of man, God cursed the ground, and spoke of the malevolent change to plant life that would result from it. I cannot help but wonder if part of that curse was God turning to Satan and saying, "Invent a plant and make it as evil as you like." That seems to be the only logical reason for the existence of a plant with all the pleasant sweetness of a constipated porcupine.

As you may suspect, I write this column having just experienced the ravages of said noxious weed. Please try not to get an itchy feeling as you hold this paper; I am fairly certain that it cannot be transmitted via email, which is how I send my columns in.

I am currently on the down side of the attack. It was a full week that I suffered, after spending a long hot Saturday clearing brush from a steep bank at the church. It only took 24 hours for the damage to begin making itself known; and soon I was scratching and questioning my will to live and scratching and praying and scratching and repenting of my sin and your sin and scratching.

This episode was bad enough that I am going to have some scars on my arms. But my dear and wise wife reminded me of something that I share with you now. Scars are a sign that you have survived and still live to tell about it.

Poison ivy and poison hearts; both produce scars.

Charlottesville. Chelsea Handler calling for a military coup against the President.

Madonna speaking of wanting to blow up the White House.

Many during the time of the Obama administration using vile racial slurs against him and his family. The KKK.

Antifa. Some people in the BLM movement calling for the death of police. Dylan Roof.

The New Black Panther Party.

Poison.

In the midst of my scratching and clawing, a lovely and soothing voice of wisdom (my wife, once again) reminded me of an amazing substance called calamine lotion. When applied to the infected area, it works to dry out the oily poison. It does not happen immediately, but with regular and repeated applications the effect is wonderful.

In the bottle sitting right by my side as I write this, I see that there are fourteen ingredients that make up calamine lotion. One thing by itself does not do the job, but the right combination of ingredients does.

Here is my proposed recipe for societal calamine lotion, something that may help to dry up the oily poison of racial hatred. One: remember that we all came from one common ancestor, Adam. We are therefore all family. Two: remember that God himself created the DNA

We are therefore all family. Two: remember that God himself created the DNA that gave our species the vast array of races we have, the tapestry of humanity. Three: look to the cross, and realize that Christ died for all. Four: remember that there is no white gospel or brown gospel or black gospel, there is just THE gospel. Five: learn to bypass cameras and social media and speak cordially, one on one, with people you oppose. Preferably over a cup of coffee or a glass of iced tea. Six: put the people you dislike the most at the very top of your prayer list. It is funny how that turns "dislike into "actually care about." Seven: call out people of your own race for their bigotry and hatred just as firmly as you want people of other races to call out those of their race for bigotry and hatred. If all sides and races will consistently do this, people will develop credibility with each other. Eight: remember that Blue is not a race, it is a color that people of all races wear, and they always sacrifice greatly to do so. Nine: every time the devil stirs up racial hatred, use that as an excuse to do something nice for people of other races. Kill hatred with kindness. Ten: memorize the words of Revelation 7:9-10, which show what worship is going to be like in heaven, and quote those words everywhere you

"After this I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands; And cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb."

Our society has some scars. Let's make sure they become a sign that we have survived and still live to tell about it.

Healthy Diet Possible While Avoiding Oxalate

DEAR DR. ROACH: I have had several kidney stones and was advised to avoid oxalate. I was told that green, leafy vegetables and grains are high in oxalate. How can my diet be healthy if I avoid these healthy foods? -- D.F.

ANSWER: Calcium oxalate is the most common type of kidney stone, so limiting dietary oxalate makes sense. However, increasing water intake, dietary calcium and potassium can help prevent kidney stones. It is paradoxical, but dietary calcium reduces kidney stone risk while calcium supplements increase kidney stone risk. Also, vitamin C increases kidney stone risk, so it's not recommended to take supplemental vitamin C.

There are many places to find the oxalate content of food, starting with your dietician, but websites like www.lowoxalate.info and www.ohf.org have nice lists. There you can find many fruits and vegetables that have little or no oxalate, including broccoli, lettuce and cucumber. You do need to avoid spinach, beets and similar vegetables. As far as grains go, corn, rice and wild rice are good choices.

DEAR DR. ROACH: For a young couple wanting a baby, is there any help available for a man with a low sperm count? -- N.N.

ANSWER: Identifying the cause of a couple's infertility is often difficult. In one large study, 20 percent of cases were attributed to male factors, and 38 percent to female. In 27 percent, there were reasons for infertility in both partners, and in 15 percent of cases no cause could be found. Clearly, both partners need to be evaluated.

Low sperm count isn't a diagnosis; many separate systems can be affected, all leading to reduced sperm count. Abnormalities in hormonal function, mechanical obstruction and testicular disease all are possibilities. Although many causes of low sperm count are untreatable, not all are. For example, elevated prolactin levels from a tumor or medication can be treated, leading to improved fertility. Low sex-hormone levels can be replaced. Many men are advised to wear boxer shorts, as high temperatures affect fertility, but it's not clear this is effective. Assistive procedures, such as intrauterine insemination, in-vitro fertilization and intracytoplasmic spern injection (a single spermatozoa injected into an egg) can be effective, but these procedures are always expensive, rarely covered by insurance, not 100 percent effective and have a small increased risk of birth defects.

DEAR DR. ROACH: Is secondhand vapor (from the electronic cigarettes) harmful? -- B.S.B.

ANSWER: While the evidence that secondhand smoke from regular cigarettes is harmful to people around smokers, causing increased risks of lung cancer and heart disease, the data just aren't clear about the vapor from electronic cigarettes. It is known that the vapor contains nicotine and potentially cancercausing chemicals, but the amounts are much lower than with regular cigarettes. These chemicals can be inhaled by nonsmokers if close enough and possibly absorbed through the skin.

Electronic cigarettes, also called vaporizers, may help people quit smoking. That's the only use for them that I would recommend, after which they should be eliminated.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu. (DANVILLE, VA) - The Community Foundation of the Dan River Region is currently accepting grant applications from 501(c) 3 charitable organizations serving Halifax County. Applications must be submitted online through the Foundationis web site HYPERLINK "http://www.dpccf.org" www.cfdrr.org. The deadline for all applications is September 29, 2017. One or two grants are typically awarded of $1,000 or less per cycle.

The Halifax County Advisory Committee will review the applications and recommend which organizations will be awarded later this year.

The Fund for Halifax County is a unique opportunity for citizens, organizations and businesses to help build an endowment to improve and enrich lives in Halifax County. Major General Carroll Thackston presented the Foundation with the first gift for The Fund for Halifax County in 2010. Thackston served on the Community Foundation Board of Directors for six years. Other Halifax County representatives have also served on the Foundationis Board. Logan Young retired after six years on the Foundationis Board and Finance Committee and William Kelehar is currently serving on the Board.

Several other funds with The Community Foundation also benefit Halifax County.

The South Boston Medical Fund was created with The Community Foundation in 2011 to support indigent care in Halifax County and general Halifax County charitable causes.

Benjamin M. Sugg established a fund in 2000 to provide annual grants to the Clover Cemetery.

The Gideon Miller Cancer Fund was endowed in 2014 and recently awarded first grants to organizations that assist cancer patients and their families in Danville, Pittsylvania County and Halifax County.

The Community Foundation continues to encourage donations of all sizes and types to help build The Fund for Halifax County or any of these other funds. Checks should be made to The Community Foundation, with the fund specified, and mailed to 541 Loyal Street, Danville, VA 24541. Online gifts can be made at HYPERLINK "http://www.cfdrr.org" www. cfdrr.org. Gifts of stock, life insurance, and personal property can be accepted, as well as will bequests.

The Community Foundation has made over $1,000,000 in grants to Halifax County organizations since its formation in 1996. In 2003, the Chastain Home for Gentlewomen gave a gift of $1,030,000 to The Community Foundation to provide three years of grantmaking to charitable organizations assisting elderly women in Halifax County.

The Community Foundation is a public charity established in September 1996 by a steering committee of civic leaders to meet a variety of social, educational, cultural and other charitable needs in the Danville, Pittsylvania County and Caswell County area, as well as Halifax County and Northern North Carolina.

The Community Foundation is a fully tax-exempt organization. Individuals, businesses or organizations may establish their own fund or may contribute any amount to existing funds. • I thought I saw months ago • that "Major Crimes" would be returning in July. I haven't seen anything further about the show. Will it be back on TNT anytime soon? -Ken H., via email

• Indeed it will, Ken. Season six of A the hit procedural crime drama will return to TNT on Tuesday, Oct. 31, at 9/8c with 16 new episodes. This season, as Cmdr. Sharon Raydor (played by two-time Oscar nominee Mary McDonnell) grows accustomed to her new boss, Assistant Chief Leo Mason (Leonard Roberts), the detectives find themselves questioning their faith in the rapidly changing priorities of the justice system and their ability to reason through difficult changes in their personal relationships. They must learn to accept the necessity of risk, in all its different guises, as they prepare to face the inexplicable but increasingly undeniable return of Phillip Stroh (guest star Billy Burke). The cast also includes G.W. Bailey, Tony Denison, Michael Paul Chan, Raymond Cruz, Phillip P. Keene, Kearran Giovanni, Jonathan Del Arco, Graham Patrick Martin, Jessica Meraz and Daniel di Tomasso.

. What is this talk I'm hearing · about a "Karate Kid" series with Ralph Macchio? — Samantha F., Asheville, North Carolina

. It's not just talk; it's definitely happening. More than 30 years after Ralph won the Under-18 All-Valley Karate Tournament, he'll be back in the dojo as Daniel LaRusso in 2018 for YouTube Red's "Cobra Kai." Daniel's archenemy, Johnny Lawrence (with William Zabka reprising his role), has reopened Cobra Kai dojo in his quest for redemption. The 30-minute comedy received a straight-to-series order for 10 episodes from the online streaming network, placing it in the big leagues with other streaming services such as

Netflix, Hulu and Amazon Prime. Executive producers Josh Heald ("Hot Tub Time Machine"), Jon Hurwitz and Hayden Schlossberg (both of "Harold and Kumar" fame) also will write the script. In a joint statement, they said: "'Cobra Kai' will be a true continuation of the original films packed with comedy, heart and thrilling fight scenes. We can't wait to reignite the LaRusso-Lawrence rivalry. Susanne Daniels, YouTube's Global Head of Original Content, added: "If 'The Karate Kid' was Daniel's story, 'Cobra Kai' is equal parts Daniel and Johnny's story."

• Can you tell me what Jonathan Groff is up to? I loved him on "Glee" and miss seeing him on my TV set." — Linda T., via email

. This fall, you can catch the A talented actor/singer/dancer/ Broadway phenom starring in the Netflix original series "Mindhunter." Jonathan plays an agent in the FBI's Elite Serial Crime Unit who tracks down serial killers and rapists in the 1970s. In fact, he's responsible for coining the term "serial killer." The project is being produced and directed by David Fincher ("Zodiac" and "Seven"), so you know it's gonna be crazy-good and suspenseful and scary. Look for the series to drop Oct. 13 with 10 episodes.

HOLLYWOOD — Anne Hathaway, Oscar winner for "Les Miserables" (2012), who impressed with "Ella Enchanted" (2004), "Brokeback Mountain" and "The Dark Knight" (2012), is taking on the role of her career — she will be playing "Barbie." Yes, that Barbie, who's been kicked out of Barbieland for not being perfect enough. Hathaway's girl power continues to rule with the female reboot of "Ocean's Eleven," called "Ocean's Eight," with Sandra Bullock, Cate Blanchett and Rihanna, opening June 8, 2018, followed by "Nasty Women," with Rebel Wilson. It's the female reboot of the 1988 Michael Caine/Steve Martin comedy, "Dirty Rotten Scoundrels."

First came Chris Hemsworth (age 33) as Thor, and Liam Hemsworth (27) in "The Hunger Games," and now the third brother, 36-year-old Luke Hemsworth (currently playing Ashley Stubbs, in HBO's "Westworld") had his first starring film. "Hickok" (as in Wild Bill Hickok), with Kris Kristofferson, Bruce Dern and Trace Adkins, hit big screens in July. The Hollywood Reporter observed in its review, "The innate superiority of the Hemsworth family gene pool is demonstrated by the low-budget oater." The film will be available Aug. 17 on DVD. Luke's next film, the sci-fi thriller "Encounter," with Tom Atkins (of the 1980 classic "The Fog"), will arrive Nov. 1.

Chris Hemsworth has three Thor films in his future: "Ragnarok" (in theaters Nov. 3), "Avengers: Infinity War" (out May 4) and an untitled "Avengers" film (due May 3, 2019). He's also starring for Jerry Bruckheimer in his war drama "Horse Soldiers," in which he, Michael Shannon and Michael Pena are CIA agents in Afghanistan fighting the Taliban. Youngest Hemsworth, Liam, engaged to Miley Cyrus, currently is filming "Isn't It Romantic," with Rebel Wilson, Adam DeVine and Priyanka Chopra, for a Valentine's Day opening.

Dame Helen Mirren, who won an Oscar for "The Queen" (2006) and appeared most recently in "The Fate of the Furious," stars in "Ella & John," with Donald Sutherland, opening Jan. 19, about a senior couple taking a road trip from Boston to Florida in a vintage Winnebago. Next up is 'Winchester" (out Feb. 23) as Sarah Winchester, whose husband, William Winchester, treasurer of The Winchester Repeating Arms Co., and daughter died suddenly, three weeks apart, in 1881. She believed she was cursed, and that if she stopped building their house in San Jose, California, she would die. For nearly 40 years, she built rooms and staircases that led nowhere, until she became ill and the work stopped, at which time she died. In addition, she's co-starring with Keira Knightly and Morgan Freeman in Disney's live-action film, "The Nutcracker and the Four Realms," due Nov. 2, 2018.

It's a hot week when we can write about Barbie, girl power, three hunks and a dame. Oh well, three out of four isn't bad!

THE GREAT ECLIPSE BY LISA IANNUCCI Visible in the U.S. for the first time in almost 40 years, the moon will Look up on Aug. 21, because one of the coolest celestial events will be taking place in the sky. It's the next total solar eclipse, an event when the completely cover the moon completely covers the sun. sun on Aug. 21, 2017. This isn't a rare phenomenon. As a matter of fact, according to Space.com, approximately once every 18 months (on average) a total solar eclipse is visible from some place on the Earth's surface. What makes this one a big Here's what you need to know to make sure you deal is that it's the first one that is visible in the contiguous 48 United experience this epic event. States since Feb. 26, 1979.

Here's what will happen: The moon's shadow will create a 70-mile-wide path diagonally across more than a dozen states, starting in Oregon and ending in South Carolina — otherwise known as the path of totality. The total eclipse will begin in Oregon at 9:05 a.m. Pacific time on Aug. 21 and then it will cross through Oregon and head into Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia and North Carolina. Then, it will start in its final destination, South Carolina, at 2:48 Eastern

Not everybody will be able to see the total eclipse though, which the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) says only lasts a few minutes. Unless you are directly on this path, you're out of luck to see it, but don't put your chairs away just yet. There is good news for those who aren't residing or vacationing on this track. You will still be able to see a partial solar eclipse in any other area — this is when the moon covers only part of the sun.

Eclipse Road Trip

If you want to travel to one of the cities on the trajectory to see the eclipse, you'll have to act quickly because hotel rooms are booking up fast. In Madras, Oregon, you can see the event from Round Butte Overlook Park or participate in many of the eclipse festivals that are occurring around the country in the cities on the pathway. There is the Wyoming Eclipse Festival in Casper; the Capital Eclipse Celebration in Jefferson City, Missouri; and the Music City Solar Eclipse in Nashville, Tennessee. There will be a countywide celebration in Rabun County, Georgia, while Columbia, South Carolina, has an entire weekend celebration planned.

So Bright, Wear Shades

If you are making plans to see the event, make sure you protect your eyes before the festivities begin, because looking directly at the sun can severely damage them. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration explains that as the moon moves in front of the sun, several bright points of light shine

How a Solar Eclipse Works

A total eclipse happens when the moon completely blocks the light coming from the sun. Areas in the small, direct shadow will see a total eclipse, which lasts a few minutes.

around the moon's edges that are called Baily's Beads. These beads diminish over time until only one is left, but only when that spot completely disappears can you safely look at the sun with a naked eye. When the sun moves again and the lights reappear around the moon's edges, you need to once again put shades back on.

Watching the eclipse with regular sunglasses won't cut it though. Instead, you need to purchase special ISO 12312-2 compliant eclipse glasses in order to protect your eyes. These eclipse glasses can be found through local museums or astronomy clubs. You also can look through a special filter, such as a No. 14 welder's glass, which has a thin layer of aluminum, chromium or silver on its surface that reduces ultraviolet, visible and infrared energy.

It's a big buildup to a short event, but it's a once-in-a-lifetime experience to see a total solar eclipse. Have the children join you and make it a family event (see the tips on watching the eclipse with children). It's the perfect time to marvel at what the universe can do.

VETERANS * POST *

by Freddy Groves

New GI Bill Boosts Benefits

A new GI Bill has been in the works, and now it's here. Dubbed the Forever GI Bill, it corrects many of the problems and inadequacies of previous veteran education-benefits legislation. In an amazing show of cooperation, both the House and Senate pushed through the final bill in only a few weeks. There was snarling along the way, but they got it done.

The biggest change? There will no longer be a 15-year limit on using educational benefits. Veterans who have been out for years and realize they need more education to progress in their careers will now be able to do it.

Here are some other changes:

- * The Yellow Ribbon Program, which provides benefits to surviving spouses and dependents of service members who died in the line of duty, are expanded.
- * Veterans who were partway through their education when their school abruptly closed will be able to have benefits restored for any credits that don't transfer.
- * Reservists and Purple Heart recipients will now get their benefits.
- * Veterans who seek degrees in STEM (science, technology, engineering, math) will get more benefits, either a lump sum or nine extra months of benefits.
- * Schools will be required to train those who help enroll veterans, and to provide more campus vocation and educational counseling.

One potential glitch: To pay for all this, living stipends will be decreased so they're equal to active-duty service members' housing allowances.

None of this happens today. Some changes will be effective Jan. 1, 2018, and some next August. Some might not happen for a few years. But it's there; it's in writing.

If you hear the legislation title The Harry W. Colmery Veterans Educational Assistance Act of 2017 and wonder who Colmery is, he was the commander of the American Legion who originally wrote (by hand) the Gl Bill ... back in 1944. You have him to thank.

* "If you are going on vacation, leave a plastic baggie filled with ice cubes in your freezer. When you return, if the baggie is filled with a single chunk of ice, you'll know your power was interrupted long enough to spoil your food while you were away." -- G.L. in Missouri

* Here's another moving tip: Bundle clothing on hangers with a rubber band. Slip the whole lot into a trash bag. The items will be ready to hang in the new closet with hardly any fuss.

* Ants in your pet's food bowl? Set cat or dog food bowls in a pie plate or other shallow dish filled with water. Ants and bugs can't cross the water to get to the food, so it's safe from pests.

* "If you have a magnetic closure on a kitchen cabinet that is too strong (you have to really pull the door to get it open), try this simple fix: Put a small piece of clear tape over the magnet. It reduces the magnet's pull just enough that it doesn't take as much effort. We did this at my grandma's house when she got new kitchen cabinets, and she's much happier now!" -- Y.L.S. in Alabama

* Have a terrific-smelling candle that's burned down to bits? Scrape them out, and place in a small mason jar. Poke holes in the lid, and cap the jar. Then keep the jar in your car's cup holder. When the car warms in the sun, it'll smell wonderful, and there's no need for a flame

Create a Plan for Crisis

isasters can happen anywhere and at any time, and the emergency situations that follow can typically involve lifealtering decisions, actions and consequences. No matter what region you and your family live in and regardless of which large-scale threat your area could be subject to, being prepared is crucial to handling these frightening situations in a proper manner. Following these tips can help you be ready for emergency scenarios.

Understand potential threats. The starting point for building a preparedness plan is knowing what to prepare for depending on your geographical region, time of year and many other factors. For example, some families may need to be ready for an earthquake while people thousands of miles away need to think about the possibility of tornadoes.

Communication is key. Put into place a family communication plan that everyone frequently reviews for understanding. Knowing where to be, where your family members are and what everyone needs to do can be the difference between thinking clearly and making poor decisions. This also includes making certain that all family members have important phone numbers written down, saved or memorized.

Create a kit. What belongs in your emergency kit depends largely on the scenario you're preparing for, but regardless of the situation, having the necessary supplies in one place can come in handy. Material items like flashlights, batteries, cellphone chargers, extra cash, maps, blankets and medical supplies are nearly universal in their usefulness for emergencies. Adding a similar emergency kit to your car could be useful, as well.

Prepare nutrition. Keep a ready supply of non-perishable snacks and drinks. If you were to lose power, you'll want to avoid opening the refrigerator, which releases trapped cold air and reduces the amount of time food will store safely without spoiling. After most perishables are exposed to temperatures over 40 F for two hours, you'll need to discard them, though a full, sealed freezer can hold its temperature for up to 48 hours.

Learn safety practices. All members of the family can learn how to administer first-aid or CPR in case of a health emergency or a situation that requires quick medical attention. Emergencies can easily go from bad to worse without proper training.

Store important documents. Keeping important paperwork and documents in a secure, accessible location is vital in case of an emergency that would cause evacuation. Birth certificates, insurance policies, deeds and titles, plus any other financial documents could make an evacuation, short-term or long-term, that much easier to handle. Ideally, they should be stored in a fire-proof safe in an easily accessible area of the home.

Stay informed. When it appears that an emergency could be looming, such as a severe weather situation, make sure to turn on a TV for news updates or a weather radio to stay in tune with your surroundings. Finding information online with a laptop or cellphone can be helpful as well, but make sure to keep devices charged in case of a power outage.

While disasters and the emergencies that accompany them can be difficult to think about, planning for them is one of the best ways to keep your family safe. Find more emergency preparedness tips at eLivingToday.com.

Severe Storm Prep

torm season may bring welcome rain, but some storms are strong enough to pack a dangerous punch. Planning ahead for this year's wicked weather can help ensure you're ready to weather whatever Mother Nature throws at you.

Make sure your family is ready for bad weather and potential power loss with these tips:

1. Ensure there is a working flashlight in every room, so you can safely navigate no matter what time of day the power fails or where you are. Check the battery terminals for any signs of damage or corrosion, and replace old batteries to give you the fullest charge possible. Also invest in a quality lantern or two, so if you have to hunker down for a while, you can do so with the comfort of some far-reaching light. After all, reading or playing board games is no fun by flashlight.

2. If you have advance warning of a coming storm, unplug devices that are especially susceptible to power-related damage, such as TVs and computers. In the event of storms that crop up suddenly or while you're away from home, it's best to keep major electronics like TVs, computers and printers plugged into a surge protector to prevent damage from flickering power or a surge when the power is restored.

3. Add a backup power source. Portable generators can provide essential power during a sustained power outage. An option like the Briggs & Stratton Q6500 QuietPower Series inverter generator delivers plenty of power to keep essential appliances and electronics running for up to 14 hours on a single tank of gas. The quiet, lightweight generator has four GFCI 120V-20A outlets, one 120V-240V locking outlet and two USB outlets for flexibility to power whatever you need most. Learn more at briggsandstratton.com and visit TakeYourGeneratorOutside.com to learn more about safely operating a portable generator.

4. During a storm, keep the family together in one safe location. That way you can quickly communicate if you need to make an abrupt change, such as taking more protective cover. It also minimizes the possibility of injury from making your way through the home in the dark trying to locate family members.

Severe seasonal storms are the norm across many parts of the country. Planning ahead for potential problems, like power outages, can help ensure you weather the storm safely.
