"Over the Counter"

by Bill Marcotte, Proprietor

Last week I had the pleasure, once again, of attending the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, NJ. I've attended this event, held in Boardwalk Hall, on the boardwalk, many times before. The one fact I didn't know about the building is that it houses the largest musical instrument on earth. A mighty pipe organ, installed between the years 1929 and 1932. It was used for many occasions back in that time, and was silenced during the 1940's and not used again until its refurbishment which was completed in 2015. This instrument, who's console is to the right of the stage, has 33,000 pipes, housed in 8 separate rooms around the hall. The sound that comes from it is incredible. It rumbles the cavernous hall, and sends music throughout! On Sunday night, September 10th, during a pre-show before the Miss America Pageant, Miss America 1977, Dorothy Benham sang the National Anthem, with this mighty organ as her accompaniment. The combination of her operatic voice, and the pipe organ would send chills down the spine of anyone that heard it. Two beautiful instruments in harmony. A truly memorable performance. The night went on and a new Miss America was chosen, but the sound of that performance still echoes in my head!

The Garden Bug
Hermits

In 18th-century England, Scotland and Ireland, wealthy landowners hired persons to grow their hair, not wash, and live as “hermits” on their estates. This symbolized elite awareness of melancholia and mortality amongst the nobility. Towards the end of the century, erecting statues of such figures replaced the actual hiring of persons to live the part on one’s property, and it is supposed that the placing of smaller statues commonly called “gnomes” in one’s garden evolved from this practice. - Brenda Weaver

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This is a good time for the usually outspoken Lamb to be a bit more discreet. You still can get your point across, but do it in a way less likely to turn off a potential supporter.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Good news: All that hard work you put in is beginning to pay off. But you need to watch that tendency to insist on doing things your way or no way. Be a bit more flexible.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You might want to delay making a decision on the future of a long-standing relationship until you check out some heretofore hidden details that are just now beginning to emerge.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Your reluctance to compromise on an important issue could backfire without more facts to support your position. Weigh your options carefully before making your next move.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) This is a good time for ambitious Leos or Leonas to shift from planning their next move to actually doing it. Your communication skills help persuade others to join you.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Relationships — personal or professional — present new challenges. Be careful not to let a sudden surge of stubbornness influence how you choose to deal with them.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You might need more facts before you can decide on a possible career change. But you should have no problem making a decision about an important personal matter.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You're respected by most people for your direct, no-nonsense approach to the issues. But be careful you don't replace honest skepticism with stinging sarcasm.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A newly emerging situation could require a good deal of attention and some difficult decision-making. However, close friends will help you see it through.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Family matters need attention. Check things out carefully. There still might be unresolved tensions that could hinder your efforts to repair damaged relationships.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Of course you deserve to indulge yourself in something special. But for now, tuck that bit of mad money away. You'll need it to help with a looming cash crunch.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A temporary setback in your financial situation is eased by changing some of your plans. You'll be able to ride it out quite well until the tide turns back in your favor.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a gift for understanding people's needs. You have a low tolerance for those who act without concern for others.

A Giant Year in the NFL

I don't know about you, but this summer seemed especially boring in the world of sports. Save for Aaron Judge's first half, Dale Earnhardt's retirement, Kyle Bush's trifecta, Mayweather-McGregor and Federer's win at Wimbledon, there was not a lot going on. Luckily, the NFL is back. I'm not going to give any fantasy predictions, but these are three things that I'd hang my hat on for the upcoming season:
Most Valuable Player: Eli Manning, QB, New York Giants
 New CBS color commentator Tony Romo (who booted Phil Simms from the gig) got it right when he hailed Manning in a preseason interview with New York Newsday.
 "He's a legend of the game, and he's still playing," Romo said. "The good ones play through [rebuilding years] and come out of it with a good team on the end. ... I think Eli is one of those."
 Manning is a fierce competitor, even though his demeanor seems to indicate otherwise. Nobody takes a sack as well as Manning ... it's almost at the level of martial arts. Whenever he's hit, he rolls with it and hits the ground on his terms. That's why he never missed a start in 14 seasons. Also, it's pretty easy to see whether or not the Giants will win any game. If Eli comes out firing and making completions, hitting that window, the Giants almost always win. They're one of the Super Bowl favorites this year, and he's a huge reason why.
Dud of the Year: Dak Prescott, QB, Dallas Cowboys

House To Share

CONIMICUT: Spacious house. Porch, private room & bath. $160/Week includes utilities. Background & deposit required. 218-8589.

The NFL history books are littered with tales of quarterbacks who had one great season (think Matt Leinart, Scott Mitchell or Ken O'Brien) and were never able to do it again. History shows that in order to be worth anything in this league, you have to do it at least twice.
 Prescott did it very well once, but now he has no running game with Ezekiel Elliott suspended for six games. Defenses can lay back and concentrate on stopping the pass. How Prescott reacts will determine whether or not the Cowboys made the right move in handing the franchise over to him. Personally, I think he is up to the task, but if I had to bet, he'd be the guy I'd be least surprised by having a bad year.
Super Bowl Pick: New York Giants defeat New England Patriots
 In addition to the potent Manning-Beckham Jr. attack, the Giants will have one of the best, if not the best, defenses in the league. I see them passing Green Bay in the playoffs in order to get New England, a juggernaut that defies description.
 Looking at their schedule, it's not a stretch to see the Giants, 11-5 last year, improving to 14-2, and if they don't, it would be a MAJOR let-down. Really, the only tough teams on their schedule are the Seattle Seahawks and the Oakland Raiders. The Giants will battle every NFC East team, and although a loss to the Cowboys, Redskins or Eagles away certainly could be in the cards, this team is playoff-bound if it gets its running game together.
 As far as New England goes? As long as Bill Belichick and Tom Brady are alive, there is no real compelling reason to choose any other team coming out of the AFC. I have them beating either the Chiefs or the rotten Raiders in the AFC championship. The rest is up to God and Tom Brady.

Prayer to St. Jude

Most holy Apostle, St. Jude, faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the church honors and invokes you universally, as the patron of hopeless cases, of things almost despaired of. Pray for me, I am so helpless and alone. Make use, I implore you, of that particular privilege given to you, to bring visible and speedy help where help is almost despaired of. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolation and help of heaven in all my necessities, tribulations, and sufferings, particularly (your request) and that I may praise God with you and all the elect forever. I promise, O blessed St. Jude, to be ever mindful of this great favor, to always honor you as my special and powerful patron, and to gratefully encourage devotion to you. Amen. Special thanks and gratitude in your honor for my favor.

A Giant Year in the NFL

I don't know about you, but this summer seemed especially boring in the world of sports. Save for Aaron Judge's first half, Dale Earnhardt's retirement, Kyle Bush's trifecta, Mayweather-McGregor and Federer's win at Wimbledon, there was not a lot going on. Luckily, the NFL is back. I'm not going to give any fantasy predictions, but these are three things that I'd hang my hat on for the upcoming season:

Most Valuable Player: Eli Manning, QB, New York Giants

New CBS color commentator Tony Romo (who booted Phil Simms from the gig) got it right when he hailed Manning in a preseason interview with New York Newsday.

"He's a legend of the game, and he's still playing," Romo said. "The good ones play through [rebuilding years] and come out of it with a good team on the end. ... I think Eli is one of those."

Manning is a fierce competitor, even though his demeanor seems to indicate otherwise. Nobody takes a sack as well as Manning ... it's almost at the level of martial arts. Whenever he's hit, he rolls with it and hits the ground on his terms. That's why he never missed a start in 14 seasons. Also, it's pretty easy to see whether or not the Giants will win any game. If Eli comes out firing and making completions, hitting that window, the Giants almost always win. They're one of the Super Bowl favorites this year, and he's a huge reason why.

The NFL history books are littered with tales of quarterbacks who had one great season (think Matt Leinart, Scott Mitchell or Ken O'Brien) and were never able to do it again. History shows that in order to be worth anything in this league, you have to do it at least twice.

Prescott did it very well once, but now he has no running game with Ezekiel Elliott suspended for six games. Defenses can lay back and concentrate on stopping the pass. How Prescott reacts will determine whether or not the Cowboys made the right move in handing the franchise over to him. Personally, I think he is up to the task, but if I had to bet, he'd be the guy I'd be least surprised by having a bad year.

Super Bowl Pick: New York Giants defeat New England Patriots

In addition to the potent Manning-Beckham Jr. attack, the Giants will have one of the best, if not the best, defenses in the league. I see them passing Green Bay in the playoffs in order to get New England, a juggernaut that defies description.

Looking at their schedule, it's not a stretch to see the Giants, 11-5 last year, improving to 14-2, and if they don't, it would be a MAJOR let-down. Really, the only tough teams on their schedule are the Seattle Seahawks and the Oakland Raiders. The Giants will battle every NFC East team, and although a loss to the Cowboys, Redskins or Eagles away certainly could be in the cards, this team is playoff-bound if it gets its running game together.

As far as New England goes? As long as Bill Belichick and Tom Brady are alive, there is no real compelling reason to choose any other team coming out of the AFC. I have them beating either the Chiefs or the rotten Raiders in the AFC championship. The rest is up to God and Tom Brady.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

 It is cruel, you know, that music should be so beautiful. It has the beauty of loneliness and of pain: of strength and freedom. The beauty of disappointment and never-satisfied love. The cruel beauty of nature, and everlasting beauty of monotony.

Blinking-Eye Clocks

Clocks were an important part of the Victorian home. Large grandfather clocks were kept in the front hall or living room to tell time, ring chimes on the hour and even tell the phases of the moon. The only public sources of time were the train station, city hall or church tower clocks. Smaller prices from $500 to about $1,000. John Bull is a character who was a popular symbol of England from 1712 to the 1940s. New England Auctions sold a 16-inch John Bull blinking eye clock for $416 in 2016.

Q. I have a coffee bin that was in my grandparents' general store in the late 1800s or early 1900s. It's marked "Dilworth's Prime Grade Coffee." The markings were made with a stencil. There is a shipping label on top, but I can't read the date. Does it have any value?

A. Dilworth's was in business in Pittsburgh during the late 1800s and early 1900s. John Dilworth was one of the founders of a wholesale grocery company, which operated under various names until 1881, when it became Dilworth Brothers Co. Collectors like early advertising items and if the lettering is in good condition, your bin has value. The shipping label is a plus. Large wooden coffee bins sell for $300 to $500.

clocks that told time were kept on the fireplace mantle and were made to be decorative with bronze figures as part of the case in formal homes, and plain or even comic cases in others. Almost all clocks had to be wound for up to eight days. Bradley & Hubbard, a Connecticut company that made many iron and other metal items, had an 1857 patent for a figural novelty clock that could blink its eyes. "Blinkers," also called "winkers," were made in many shapes.
