DIFFERENT KINDS OF BUCKS

We've been doing the deal since 1932!

By Douglas H. Domedion

Deer season, with the bow, starts the first of October; what kind of buck will you be looking for?

Whitetail deer bucks are basically divided

Certifie

These 2-year-old bucks are on the way to being trophy bucks.

into three classes. The kind of buck we all would like to get is in the first class, the trophy deer. Actually there are two types of animals in this class.

The first type is the 2  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 3  $\frac{1}{2}$  year old buck. He has survived a few hunting seasons and has wised up to the ways of the deer hunter. He probably has 8 or more points on his antlers and though not fully mature he is considered a trophy to many.

The second type in this class has reached an age of 4 ½ years and up. These bucks are truly mature animals and their antlers also carry 8 or more points but they are much thicker, have a wider spread between antlers and the points are generally longer. Their bodies have also reached their basic potential. They are the REAL trophy bucks!

These mature bucks did not survive to this age by being stupid. They have probably had a number of bad experiences with deer hunters in their earlier years and learned not to make those mistakes again. Their eyes, ears and noses are fine-tuned to the dangers of hunters and enable them to avoid trouble.

In the second class of bucks we find the yearlings. These young fellows are "teenagers" who have made it to their second fall. They are 1 1/2 years old and sport small antlers that have two spikes, four points or six points. In some cases, with good genes and food, they may have small 8-point racks.

This group of bucks are not too "bright" yet and make a lot of mistakes, which is why they may consist of 70 to 80 percent of the total buck kill each year. They also travel a great deal looking for a "territory" in the fall to establish as their own and thus make up a high percent of the road kills.

There's a third class of "bucks," but not really bucks. These little guys are actually the current year's fawns. They don't have spots anymore and they are slightly smaller than the other deer. When a hunter shoots one he calls it a "button buck" because he has two small knobs on his head where his antlers will grow from the next year when he is a yearling.

This little guy travels with his mother and maybe a sister and when the group runs into a hunter it is usually the "button buck" that gets shot because he is curious and hangs around too long. He is not full grown yet but sometimes appears to be. Good deer hunters try to avoid shooting these little guys but it takes restrain to do so because they are not easy to tell from a doe fawn. About the only way to do this is by close observation with optics when they are close and standing. If a good hunter can't be sure he doesn't shoot. It is too bad more hunters don't make the effort before shooting because these little guys are our future bucks and they may be the ones with the good genes for growing those trophy racks that we all would like to see or get. In recent years the NYS DEC has been pushing for hunters to let smaller bucks pass to enable them to grow bigger. In some states, such as Pennsylvania, hunters are required by law to only shoot bucks with three and in some cases four points on one side of the rack. I have mixed feelings about this being mandatory as it still allows a young buck, that has real potential to be come a trophy (a 1 1/2 year old that is an 8-point), to be taken. Also many hunters, especially beginners, would just like to get any kind of buck and this law prevents that.

If more hunters would refrain from shooting "button bucks" and yearlings we would probably see more of those trophy bucks. Think about it on future hunts.

FINAL PHASE OF CAPITAL PROJECT NEARS COMPLETION AT HOLLEY CENTRAL SCHOOL DISTRICT

Holley students are reaping the benefits as final touches are being made to the campus during the last phase of the Capital Project this fall. The elementary playground was redone and a new Pre-K playground added to the Elementary School (ES) campus. Students will enjoy using brand-new equipment on both playgrounds this fall. New tennis courts were installed at the Middle School/High School (MS/HS) while the existing courts were repurposed as tennis, pickleball and basketball courts. This transformation adds outdoor physical education stations for students. When school is not in session, all of these areas are available for community use.

A new bus loop was created in front of the ES, near the District Office entrance, to separate car traffic from school bus traffic. This helps keep students safe as they get on and off the bus at this entrance.

Structural changes have been made to both schools, too. Heating, ventilating and air conditioning (HVAC) units were replaced in both buildings. The ES also had windows and doors replaced. The new windows allow more light into classrooms. These upgrades allow the district to use their energy more efficiently and save money on utility costs.

By the end of this project, over $30 million of improvements will have been made to the district facilities, at zero impact to taxpayers. "The entire project has provided the district with one of the finest facilities in western New York," said District Superintendent Robert D'Angelo. "I'm pleased to be able to bring these benefits to our students and community. Our long-term goal for the campus is to maintain it as a state-of-the-art school facility and learning environment. We thank the community for their patience and continued support of this project as we've completed each phase."

FATAL COLLISION ON STATE ROUTE 31 IN RIDGEWAY

On Sept. 17, 2017, NYS Troopers investigated a two-car fatal collision on State Route 31 in the Town of Ridgeway. A 1996 Chevrolet Corsica was stopped waiting to turn left on Taylor Road on State Route 31. A 2007 Ford Taurus was traveling westbound on State Route 31, failed to stop and struck the rear end of the Chevy. The operator of the Chevy, Rebecca A. Harrier, 38, of Kent, N.Y., was pronounced deceased at the scene. The passenger of the Chevy, Randy L. Harrier Jr., 39, was flown by Mercy Flight to Strong Memorial Hospital, where he later succumbed to his injuries. The operator of the Ford, Matthew D. Stanton, 22, of Medina was transported to Strong Memorial Hospital with nonlife-threatening injuries. Alcohol/drugs are not a factor in this collision. Troop A, Bureau of Criminal Investigation and the Collision Reconstruction Unit also assisted in this investigation. This is still an ongoing investigation.

Tips on how to write CLASSIFIED ADS that sell!

USE A KEY WORD. This immediately tells the reader exactly what you have to sell.

- 2 Make your description CLEAR AND FACTUAL. State the year, make, model, color & size and tell what condition the item is in. Also, state the special features.
- 3 STATE THE PRICE. Successful classified advertisers have learned that the price in an ad helps increase the chances for results.
- IF THERE IS A GENUINE SENSE OF URGENCY, say so. The words "We're moving," or "Must sell fast," suggest that readers respond immediately.
- S INCLUDE YOUR PHONE NUMBER. Classifieds get results fast and often generate immediate sales. If you cannot be available to answer the phone at all times, be sure to specify special calling times such as "after 9pm" or "before 11am."

It was completed in 1965 after a 30 year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor. Professor Higbee painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto the map. It sold extremely well - until the printer declared bankruptcy and hauled Higbee's work to the landfill.

But reprints were impossible because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue. Higbee was even offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

Then, at the age of 91, Howard

Signs of a Stroke

Sometimes symptoms of a stroke are difficult to identify. The stroke victim may suffer severe brain damage when people nearby fail to recognize the symptoms of a stroke. Now doctors say a bystander can recognize a stroke by asking a few simple questions:

- 1) Ask the person to SMILE.
- 2) Ask the person to TALK AND SPEAK A SIMPLE SENTENCE. i.e. It is sunny out today.
- 3) Ask the person to RAISE BOTH ARMS.
- 4) Ask the person to STICK OUT HIS TONGUE. If the tongue goes to one side or the other, that is a sign of a stroke.

OTHER STROKE WARNING SIGNS

- Sudden numbness or weakness of the face, arm or leg, especially on one side of the body
- Sudden confusion, trouble speaking or understanding
- Sudden trouble seeing in one or both eyes
- Sudden trouble walking, dizziness, loss of balance or coordination

Sudden, severe headache with no known cause

If you or someone with you has one or more of these signs, don't delay! Call 9-1-1 immediately!

Do you have HEEL pain or ARCH pain?

HEEL SPUR SYNDROME/PLANTAR FASCITIS

is a common problem among people who are active. It starts as a dull intermittent pain in the heel which may progress to a sharp persistent pain. Classically, it is worse in the morning with the first few steps, after sitting, after standing, or after walking.

· Plantar fasciitis often begins with irritation and tearing of the fibrous band of tissue on the bottom of the foot, which may eventually result in the formation of a heel spur.

• Contributing factors: flat pronated feet, high arched feet, poor shoe support, increased age, sudden weight increase, increased activity level, family tendency.

• Approximately 2-3 times your body weight of force is exerted on each foot with walking. Flexible, non-custom molded arch support found at those advertised shoe stores cannot support these forces and usually do not provide long-lasting relief, do not come with a lifetime warranty, and are typically more expensive than custommolded ones made by our office.

Dear Friends of Barre,

I want to thank everyone who voted for me in recent Republican Primary in Barre.

While I congratulate Mr. Pogue on his victory, I want to remind all Barre residents that I will be on the ballot in November on the Conservative line and the United Tax Payer (Independent) line. This will give Barre voters of all political parties and those who are not affiliated with any party an opportunity to express their preference.

I will continue to present my ideas on how Barre Town government can be smaller, cheaper, and better. My business experience will find ways to identify and cut wasteful spending.

Once we do that, we can lower our taxes which are way too high. Follow my campaign on Facebook and my website.

I need you to join our committees and help me give you the TOWN you want TO LIVE IN.

You will be hearing from me soon.

Godspeed,

How to Get a Handle on Work-Related Stress

Work-related stress is an all too common problem in workplaces across the globe. According to the American Institute of Stress, 80 percent of workers report feeling stress on the job. Perhaps most troubling, nearly half of those people admit they need help in learning how to manage their stress.

The American Psychological Association notes that stressful work environments can contribute to a host of physical problems, including headache, sleep disturbances and short temper. Chronic stress can produce more serious consequences such as high blood pressure while also weakening sufferers' immune systems. Stress at the workplace also can make it difficult to concentrate, which in turn can compromise workers' abilities to perform at the peak of their abilities. That supports the notion that stress is a problem for both employees and employers. As a result, finding ways to reduce that stress should be a team effort.

Getting a handle on stress can be difficult. Since so many people trace their stress to the jobs they need to get by, they might think it's impossible to address that stress without derailing their careers. But there are a handful of ways for professionals to get a handle on their stress without negatively affecting their careers.

• Speak up about your stress. As noted, stress at the workplace can affect workers' performance, which employers are looking to optimize. Workers can speak to their employers if they feel their work environments are conducive to stress. Work in tandem with an employer to develop time-saving strategies that make it easier to get work done on time. Supervisors may encourage employees to delegate more often, freeing up time to get their work done. Employers may also direct employees to wellness resources that can help them more effectively combat stress. The outcomes of such discussions may never be known if workers never take the initiative and speak up about their stress.

• Take more time off. According to the "State of American Vacation 2016" report from Project: Time Off, American workers failed to use 658 million vacation days in 2015. Vacation is not just a time to get away, but a valuable, effective way for workers to recharge. The APA notes that avoiding the negative effects of chronic stress and burnout requires workers to take time away to replenish and return to their pre-stress level of functioning. Taking time off to disconnect from work and avoid thinking about work can be just what workers need to overcome their work-related stress. And plenty of workers have the time to take off; they just need to take it.

• Embrace relaxation methods. The APA recommends professionals coping with workplace stress embrace techniques that can effectively alleviate stress. Such techniques include meditation and deep-breathing exercises and can help workers develop their ability to focus purposefully on a single activity. That improved focus may help workers better navigate hectic working environments without succumbing to the stress such environments can produce.

Work-related stress is a significant issue for many professionals. But working in tandem with their employers can help professionals effectively cope with that stress.

Vocational Schooling Can Pave the Way to High-Paying Jobs

Many students believe that the next natural step after graduating from high school is to go off to college. Secondary education has become such a common transition that many parents begin saving for college tuition as soon as their children are born. Although college can be the next chapter in a student's education, many teenagers still choose to attend trade school.

Television personality Mike Rowe says the country is in the midst of a skilled labor shortage because workers lack the necessary training to fill the hundreds of thousands of available jobs. Lack of information may drive the notion that trade jobs are nothing more than a backup plan if college doesn't pan out. However, by realizing that trade jobs, along with short-term vocational training, is a smart investment - and eventually a lucrative career choice - attitudes about trade schools and labor-intensive jobs may shift.

A great number of college graduates enter the workforce with degrees that may not help them land jobs. And these students typically carry thousands of dollars in tuition debt. Many college grads are underemployed and working in jobs that aren't even in their fields of study. Career and technical schools help students develop specialized skills that make graduates immediately marketable in their chosen fields, and trade salaries can be very competitive.

The following are some of the fastest-growing and highestpaying trade careers to consider, based on data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics and Forbes magazine.

· Construction manager: Construction professionals with great organizational and communication skills can enjoy high earning potential as construction managers. Expected growth of this career over the next 10 years is 5 percent. The average income of a construction manager is $87,000. However, with a top-end hourly pay of around $75 per hour, it's easy for managers to earn into six figures.

· Elevator installer and repairer: This career is listed as a top-

The Rise of Adult Sports Leagues

Open

Sat. & Sun.

in October

Fitness comes in many forms, and for a growing number of people, sports is one of the most appealing ways to stay in shape.

Health and socialization are the driving forces behind the growing popularity of adult recreational sports leagues, particularly among millennials. According to Sports Marketing Surveys USA, a research company that provides data for the Sports and Fitness Industry Association, millennials are twice as likely as their Generation X counterparts to participate in team sports as adults. However, adult leagues attract people of all ages and from both genders.

Adults who played sports as children may be particularly drawn to adult sports leagues, which offer a way for them to maintain connections to sports they love. And Eric Willin, COO of EZFacility, a sports business software provider in Woodbury, N.Y., offers that adult leagues are the ideal fit for communities and especially appealing to millennials who grew up playing sports.

"Members of the millennial generation tend to have grown up with schedules packed with extracurricular sports," Willin says. "It's no surprise that this group is enthusiastic about competing in adult recreation leagues, and the supply is developing to meet the demand.'

In addition to leagues sponsored by local governments, the YMCA offers a number of adult programs across the country. The YMCA says that their sports leagues provide a perfect opportunity to be active and social and to reconnect or start fresh with a sport. Some of the organization's most popular adult sports leagues basketball, so include and even local businesses sponsor adult sports leagues, which help build a sense of community among residents and often connect players with local businesses and charitable or goodwill organizations.

Many community centers, churches

Although some recreational leagues are free to join, many are for-profit businesses. Costs for players can run anywhere from $50 to $90 per person for a season. These fees help cover the costs associated with setting up teams and the fees necessary to compensate referees and rent facilities where games will be played.

Adult recreational sports leagues provide great alternatives to the gym for people who want to be physically active.
