Muse iQ | Halo iQ | SoundLens iQ [Synergy]

In an increasingly connected world, today's patients find themselves communicating more frequently while also dealing with the demands of different listening environments. With a hearing loss, any situation can easily become overwhelming.

Our revolutionary new product lines - Muse™ iQ, Halo® iQ and SoundLens® Synergy® iQ - allow patients to be immersed in the world around them like never before. Built on our proven Synergy platform with Acuity™ OS 2, our new iQ lines help patients engage in life in a richer and more personal way.

We know hearing aids provide better hearing, but 8 out of 10 patients also report hearing aids improve their quality of life.¹ That's why we never stop striving to provide you with the best technology possible - so patients can be served better than anyone else and they can live better, healthier lives because of it.

100% of professionals* agree that hearing aids improve the quality of life for their patients with hearing loss.¹

patients said having hearing aids improve their quality of life.¹

3 out of 4

patients said having hearing aids makes them feel more confident in social situations.¹

Insights from WebMD

Adults with hearing loss experience a 30-40% faster decline in cognitive abilities than their peers with normal hearing.¹ Scientists believe extra effort exerted by the brain to listen and comprehend "steals" resources from the part of the brain used for memory and decision-making.

However, treating hearing loss reduces the risk of cognitive decline. A 25-year study, published in 2015, validated that hearing loss accelerated cognitive decline, but suggests that hearing aid use could slow that decline.² At Starkey, we believe when a patient makes the decision to wear hearing aids, they begin a journey to overall health that starts with auditory wellness and ends with a richer, more complete life.
