New Diet
"Darn!" the man said to his friend while weighing himself at the local drug store scale.

"I started on a new diet but the scale says I'm heavier than I was before."

Turning to his friend, he said, "Here, hold my jacket." The scale still indicated that he had not lost any weight.

"OK," he said to his friend. "Hold my Twinkies."

Puzzle Card

LAY OUT 18 STICKS, as shown in Fig. 1, giving you eight triangles. Challenge your friends to move two of the sticks to new positions, so that there will be six triangles. Fig. 2 shows you how.

A Man Is Lying In Bed In The Hospital Wearing An Oxygen Mask Over His Mouth And Nose

A young student nurse appears and gives him a partial sponge bath.

"Nurse," he mumbles from behind the mask, "are my testicles black?"

Embarrassed, the young nurse replies, "I don't know, Sir. I'm only here to wash your upper body and feet."

He struggles to ask again, "Nurse, please check for me. Are my testicles black?"

Concerned that he might elevate his blood pressure and heart rate from worrying about his testicles, she overcomes her embarrassment and pulls back the covers.

She raises his gown, looks very closely and says, "There's nothing wrong with them, Sir. They look fine."

The man slowly pulls off his oxygen mask, smiles at her, and says very slowly, "Thank you very much. That was wonderful. Now listen very, very closely:

Are - my - test - results - back?"

Relax, we'll do the housework.

YOU KNOW YOU HAVE A BIG DOG WHEN...

The sound of running water makes you jump up and yell, "OUTSIDE!"

You tell your dog to sit, and he backs up until he finds a chair.

It takes 3 people to get your dog on the scale at the vets.

You walk your dog and everyone knows him by name, but you have no idea who these people are.

You own a dog capable of pulling someone from a port-a-potty.

You carry a tape measure with you when shopping for a new vehicle.

You are hiking with a friend who later suggests that you ought to have an environmental impact statement done on your dog.

You have given up on water dishes and you just use the bathtub.

You have to move over when brushing your teeth because your dog wants a drink.

You show a picture of your dogs and kids together, and the first person you point out is your dog.

You've learned to force a smile when asked, "Do you have a saddle for that thing?"

Your veterinarian has been able to put in a swimming pool, build a large home, buy jet skis and a vacation home in Florida.

You're holding him straddled between your legs when the doorbell rings and you find yourself quickly transported straight to the front door.

If a Task is once begun, never leave it till its done. Be thy labor great or small. Do it well or not at all.

How blessed we are at Gatewood Baptist Church to have Pastor Adrian Moore as our Pastor, who stands on the TURE WORD OF GOD.

Also, Happy 5th Anniversary!

Turning 30

I was having trouble with the idea of turning 30 and was oversensitive to any signs of advancing age. When I found a prominent gray hair in my bangs, I pointed to my forehead. "Have you seen this?" I indignantly asked my husband.

"What?" he asked. "The wrinkles?"

KOVELS® Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Before Bobbleheads, There Were 'Nodders'

Two types of collectors bid for a porcelain figure of a well-dressed French couple that was sold at a Southern auction in 2016. A 14-inch-high Asian sorcerer and his companion wearing brightly decorated clothes were "nodders." The heads moved and looked as if they were nodding "yes" when the figures were moved. Nodders were first made in China in the late 1600s, often showing a smiling, agreeable Buddha. By Victorian times

A lucky bidder bought this 19th-century French "nodder" by Jacob Petit for $562. Each head has a long, heavy neck that rests on the shoulders of the figure. It is inserted into the figure's neck hole and swings back and forth, making the head "nod" when touched.

in England, toys were made with nodding heads, as well as decorative porcelain figures of all kinds that could nod "yes" or "no" or even have hands playing a piano.

Because of the nodders' entertainment as well as decorative value, they were collected in the 1900s. Many new and fake nodders appeared on the market. The second group of bidders probably collected porcelains by Jacob Petit's company, a French firm that made many decorative porcelains from the early 1800s to 1862. The successful bid for the nodder was $562.

Q. Two years ago, I bought an American Federal one-drawer stand that was made in about 1815. The description said the drawer has "rare Vaseline glass pulls that appear to be original." I had no idea what Vaseline glass was, so I looked up the information on the internet. I'm concerned that the glass color is due to radiation emission, and I wonder about its safety. One of the pulls has a crack. Does this increase radiation emission? I have grandchildren who visit frequently and have relegated this piece of furniture to a little-used room. I'm considering selling this stand.

A. You can test the knobs on your stand to see if they are Vaseline glass by holding one under a black light. Vaseline glass will glow a neon greenish-yellow color because it contains a small amount of uranium dioxide. You don't have to worry, though, because they are not exposing you or your grandchildren to harmful amounts of radiation. Even though the knobs may contain very small amounts of uranium, it is less than what you get from the atmosphere and things that occur naturally every day. It is safe to use your stand. Radiation won't leak out of a crack in the glass.

Tip: Wear cotton gloves when cleaning any type of metal. Oils in the skin will leave a mark.

The 50th Anniversary edition of "Kovels' Antiques & Collectibles Price Guide 2018" has just been published. Along with Terry Kovel's reflections on 50 years of collecting, the book features 20,000 listings and more than 2,500 full-color photographs, plus trends, special events and surprises. Check out KovelsOnlineStore.com for the new price guide and other resources.

* Use Lego people to hold your charging cables when not in use. Their hands are the perfect size to hold cords, and you can stick the figures to a small Lego base that's secured to whatever is convenient -- a table edge, your night stand or even the wall itself -- with some double-faced tape.

* "New shoes too tight? Wear a pair of thick socks, and slip your shoes on. Run a hair dryer over the areas where it's too tight, and the heat will help those spots expand. Test in an inconspicuous area first if you are unsure that the fabric can take the heat!" -- C.W. in Oregon

* Got your cellphone wet? Try the rice trick first. Power down if possible and remove the protective cover, then fill a zipper-top plastic baggie with plain uncooked rice. Insert your phone and seal the bag, making sure that all parts of the phone are surrounded by the rice. Let it sit for 12 hours so the rice can draw the moisture from your device. Then try to power up.

* "Want to seal your sugar bag (or any all-plastic bag)? Fold over the top at least an inch, and cover the fold with a strip of aluminum foil -- both sides. Lay the bag on its side. Iron the fold, which is trapped inside the foil. It melts the plastic inside. Let cool and remove the foil." -- R.Y. in Kentucky

* Need to get into a crevice for cleaning? Position a condiment cap (the ones that come with a squirt bottle) on the hose of a vacuum. Now you can get the crumbs in a keyboard or that little spot under the fridge, etc.

"Fasting Over A Diseased Heart"

The alarm clock went off way too early this morning, 3:30 to be exact. 20 minutes later I was out the door heading to a hospital an hour and 20 minutes away. A church member, a very dear friend, would be having very serious open-heart surgery.

Within seconds three things happened. One, a boy on a bicycle shouted at me, "Get out of the way, Boy!" Then people in traffic started honking and cursing at the woman and at us. Then another lady motioned for my wife to roll down the window and berated her for "being in the way." No one tried to help, everyone was clearly "looking out for number one." Diseased... our society's heart is deeply diseased.

So what are we to do? I am quite certain that the answer does not lie in everyone looking out for him or herself, or his or her side. I am just as certain that the answer lies at least partially in the kind of self-sacrifice that manifests itself in skipping meals and dedicating that time to praying one for another. In Matthew 17:21 when faced with a particularly powerful devil that the disciples could not seem to handle, Jesus said, "this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting."

What could things be like if people who were on opposite ends of issues fasted and prayed for each other rather than cursing and hating each other?

said, "let me tell you about your daughter..."

That statement could be a frightening one, don't you think? But in this case what I heard thrilled my soul. "I noticed she did not eat last night or this morning. I asked why. Turns out she is fasting for brother Buck."

I do not know how other parents may feel, but I would rather my children be anonymous and godly than rich and famous for leaked sex tapes. If I can raise three children that believe God and seek him with all their hearts, I can die a happy man one day.

The surgery, by the way, was a success. I praise God for using men and women of medical science who are, in the words of the great Johannes Kepler, "Thinking God's thoughts after Him."

But my heart right now is mostly drawn to the fact that my daughter was fasting over a diseased heart. And that, friends, is quite the idea in our world today. I do not think I have ever seen such a deeply diseased heart in our society in my lifetime. Hatred, violence, perversion, dishonesty, unkindness, the list could go on forever.

A few days ago my wife and I stopped to help a young lady broken down in traffic. Pastor Wagner can be contacted by email at 2knowhim@cbc-web.org

Late in the morning I spoke to my wife by telephone. While I was attending to surgery, she was sitting in on another one in another hospital. As we spoke, she

The Garden Bug Carving turnips

For centuries, Irish folklore told of a trickster named Jack who deceives the devil to avoid going to hell. But Jack is denied entry into heaven also, and is forced to roam the earth as a spirit, carrying a hollowed-out turnip lit with a single burning coal. Folks called him "Jack of the Lantern," and carved their own turnips, potatoes or beets into scary faces to ward off such wandering souls or evil creatures.

The custom came to America with the Irish, who soon found that pumpkins, a native fruit, made perfect jack-o'-lanterns.

Q. I can't believe "Pretty Little Liars" is over! Now what should I do? — Maggie F., via email

A. Just sit tight a little while longer, and you'll get your "Liars" fix ... in the form of the Freeform spinoff "Pretty Little Liars: The Perfectionists." I just got word that it has been greenlighted for a pilot, which will star "Liars" co-stars Sasha Pieterse and Janel Parrish as Ali and Mona, respectively.

"Pretty Little Liars: The Perfectionists" will be based on the book series "The Perfectionists," written by "Liars" scribe Sara Shepard. Here is a description of the show from Freeform: "Everything about the town of Beacon Heights seems perfect, from its top-tier college to its overachieving residents. But nothing in Beacon Heights is as it appears. The stress of needing to be perfect leads to the town's first murder. Behind every Perfectionist is a secret, a lie and a needed alibi."

Q. One of my favorite authors is Neil Gaiman, and I absolutely love "American Gods." Will he be involved in any more television projects soon? — Tim M., The Villages, Florida

A. Terry Pratchett and Neil Gaiman's 1990 horror/fantasy/humor novel "Good Omens: The Nice and Accurate Prophecies of Agnes Nutter, Witch" is being developed into a six-part series for Amazon Prime Video. "Good Omens" will launch in 2019 on Prime Video by Amazon Studios in the U.S., as well as in more than 200 countries and territories, including in the U.K., where it will air on BBC Two at a later date.

Amazon previously announced that Michael Sheen and David Tennant would be taking on starring roles in the series, playing angel Aziraphale and demon Crowley, respectively. And now we know that Jack Whitehall will be playing Newton Pulsifer, aka Newton, an unfulfilled clerk-turned-witch hunter; Michael McKean will take on the role of Sergeant Shadwell, the leader of the witch-finder army who sends him on his mission. Miranda Richardson will play Madame Tracy, the psychic medium and part-time courtesan who provides a helping hand to the pair as they try to save the world from Armageddon.

Q. Do you have any more scoops on "Stranger Things 2"? — Ned R., via email

A. As season two of the cult Netflix hit gets closer to its Oct. 27 premiere of nine new episodes, I can tell you that it has been renewed for a third season, with series creators/writers/directors/executive producers the Duffer Brothers stating that they'd like to conclude the series with its fourth season. And while Netflix has yet to renew the show for a fourth and final season, I have no doubt that it will happen. I also can tell you that series co-stars Joe Keery and Noah Schnapp — who play Steve and Will, respectively — have been upped to series regulars, so we'll be seeing a lot more of them.

Beyond Microchipping

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I'm fine with microchipping my pets. I have a 2-year-old collie mix, "Bard," and a 5-year-old cat, "Millie," and both are chipped. But I worry that if they get out of the house and get lost, I'll have to rely on strangers getting them to a veterinarian or shelter to have their chip scanned. I'd like to take finding my pets into my own hands. -- Carl G., Madison, Wisconsin

DEAR CARL: With the rise of the smartphone and an increase in small, wearable technology, you can take a more active role in finding your pets. A microchip is an important component because unlike a collar, it won't fall off, making it the best backup if your pet is lost. However, advanced pet technology is out there, and a huge number of pet owners are taking advantage of it. The Los Angeles Times reported that 43 percent of dog owners now own an electronic tracking device, based on an APPA survey.

Tracking collars like the LinkAPC sync with a smartphone app that reports your dog's location on demand. It includes a fitness tracker. That collar will run you almost $150, but there are budget trackers like the TrackR Bravo, a small device which costs just under $30 and attaches to your dog's collar.

Pet owner networking apps also are popular, allowing neighbors and friends to connect with each other through their pets. They can serve as places to ask for help in finding a lost pet, essentially sending out an APB to other owners and thereby reaching much farther than just posting "lost pet" fliers around the neighborhood.

Adding any of these products or apps can give you greater control over locating your pets should they get out.

Send your questions, comments and tips to ask@pawscorner.com.

DCC Honor Society Students Volunteer to "Shred Out Hunger"

Danville, Va., September 29, 2017 – Danville Community College's Alpha Beta Gamma (ABG) Honor Society members volunteered at God's Storehouse on Saturday, September 23, by joining forces with Commonwealth Document Management to "Shred Out Hunger."

This cooperative event provided community residents an opportunity to visit God's Storehouse and have their sensitive or confidential documents safely shredded and destroyed. Residents who took advantage of this event were encouraged to make donations of 30 cents per pound of documents or donations of canned goods and non-perishable food items.

The event generated over 2,400 pounds of shredded documents while raising over $1,000 in monetary and food donations for God's Storehouse.

ABG members would like to acknowledge and thank DCC personnel Cheryl Terry, Penny Purnell, and Jo Ann Moore for participating by having their documents shredded and contributing donations to the fundraiser.

For more information about Danville Community College's more than 100 programs of study and short-term career training options, visit www.danville.edu or call 434-797-8594.

BUT TRUE
By Samantha Weaver

* It was Irish author and editor Robert Lynd who made the following sage observation: "History may be read as the story of the magnificent rearguard action fought during several thousand years by dogma against curiosity."

* Historians say that the Halloween tradition of trick-or-treating dates back to the early European tradition of mumming, when costumed dancers would go door to door to perform choreographed routines, as well as songs and plays, in exchange for treats.

* You might be surprised to learn that on a per-capita basis, Finland has more heavy-metal bands than any other country on Earth.

* If you're fortunate enough to be planning a trip to Argentina, you'll almost certainly make a stop in Buenos Aires, the capital. While you're there, keep an eye out for a mobile work by Raul Lemesoff. The artist, known for his eccentricity, converted a 1979 Ford Falcon into a kind of a tank -- it even has a turret that swivels. Instead of soldiers and armaments, however, this tank carries books on shelves both inside and outside the vehicle. Lemesoff drives his "Weapon of Mass Instruction" through the city streets, delivering free books to all comers. His only requirement? Recipients must promise to read what he gives them.

* You've certainly heard of "Tarzan of the Apes."
Edgar Rice Burroughs' 1912 work has been adapted over and over again -- for radio, television, film and more. You probably weren't aware, though, that the novel was such an instant and ongoing success that Burroughs wrote 24 sequels.

* In a recent survey of pet owners, 43 percent of respondents said that they'd be eating healthier themselves if they ate the same thing they fed their pets.

Thought for the Day: "What can be asserted without proof can be dismissed without proof." -- Christopher Hitchens

VETERANS ★ POST ★
by Freddy Groves

Will Bad Employees Still Linger at VA?

The Department of Veterans Affairs' new authority to get rid of bad employees is getting a test in Memphis.
An employee at the Memphis VA Medical Center was arrested for aggravated assault with a deadly weapon and criminal impersonation of a police office. Specifically, she pulled a revolver on a grandmother and a toddler, waving the gun and saying she was the police.
According to the VA, the employee was being processed for removal and has been suspended. What, exactly, does that mean. Taking steps to terminate the employee? Barred from the facility? Told to stay home with pay?

Inquiring minds want to know: Will the Merit Systems Protection Board jump in on this one, too? Long ago the VA tried twice to remove an employee because the hospital kept running out of crucial surgical inventory. The Office of the Inspector General got involved and came up with yet one more reason to get rid of the guy: He'd been sending sensitive VA personnel information to his personal email account and his wife.
The guy was fired, but after the Board got involved, the VA had to rehire him. It took quite a while, but finally he is gone.

This is the same place where a veteran getting care had his vehicle stolen from the parking lot by a VA employee. The veteran had to turn over all his personal belongings when he was admitted ... including his car keys. Within hours, before his wife could retrieve the car, it was gone. Six months later, the veteran saw his car in the parking lot, called police, and they arrested a VA employee when he came out.

So now we watch and wait. Will pulling a handgun on a little girl and her grandmother be serious enough to get rid of the employee? Does the Accountability Act truly have enough teeth to get the job done?

FAMILY FEATURES

Autumn is the perfect time to fall in love with maple syrup. The caramelized flavor of syrup pairs well with other fall flavors, like apples, cinnamon and pumpkin. From spiced syrups to game-day dips, McCormick Executive Chef Kevan Vetter has tasty ideas for incorporating this fall flavor in dishes throughout the day:

- Maple syrup is a perfect complement to sweet banana pancakes. Mix mashed bananas into the pancake batter. Once cooked, top with sliced bananas, chopped walnuts and maple syrup.
- Add maple syrup to a melty grilled cheese sandwich. Layer cheddar cheese, bacon, sliced apples and maple syrup mixed with apple pie spice between two slices of buttered bread.
- For a twist on a traditional game-day appetizer, drizzle maple syrup over a cheddar bacon dip.
- For a sweet treat, mix vanilla extract and pumpkin pie spice into maple syrup then drizzle over a coconut pumpkin bread pudding.
