Lewiston Mayor Bob Macdonald serves pancakes at last year's breakfast. This year's event takes place on Sunday, June 7 at St. Dominic Academy in Auburn.

The Lewiston-Auburn Kiwanis Club will present its 57th annual Pancake Breakfast to raise money for youth programs in Androscoggin County on Sunday, June 7, from 6:30 to 11:30 a.m. at St. Dominic Academy in Auburn. All are welcome to attend this fun community event that will feature pancakes, Mailhot sausage, Starbucks coffee, kids' activities and a Pancake Eating Contest for local Kiwanis Key Club members.

Advance tickets are $5 each and can be purchased at Shaw's in Lewiston or Auburn, at L/A Harley-Davidson at 839 Main Street in Lewiston, or from a Kiwanis or Key Club member. Tickets will also be available at the door for $6 each.

St. Dominic Academy is located at 121 Gracelawn Road in Auburn. For more information, email club president Andie Hannon at ahan-non@bgcmaine.org.

Selco receives achievement Award

Selco was awarded the Economic Development Achievement Award for the city of Auburn. Selco was initially founded in 1990 among five partners doing business as Distributors Clearing House. The business was located at 730 Main Street in Lewiston. The initial concept was to sell plumbing and heating supplies to both wholesale and retail customers.

Jeff Allen started there as an employee and bought into the company in 1992 as the third partner, when a few of the original owners left.

Jeff Allen

Four years later, they moved to 1525 Lisbon Street, and changed their name to Selco Plumbing and Heating Supplies to more clearly define the business and attract additional customers.

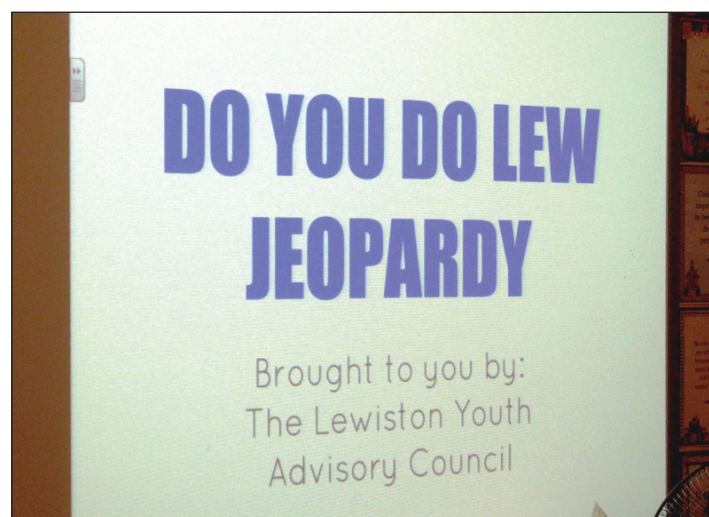

Selco initially occupied only one quarter of the Lisbon Street building, but as their product lines and customer base grew, so did their footprint. Local plumbers, property owners, and handymen became regulars. As the years passed, and Jeff's two partners retired, he became sole proprietor.

Jeff longed for the security and value of owning a building for his business.

LYAC asks Geiger students: "Do You Do Lew?"

Visiting Geiger Elementary School recently were LYAC members (l. to r., from front) Deni Federico, Khafiya Dualeh, Courtney Caouette, Zahida Sheikh, Aida Vassell, Marge Seguin, Nairus Abdullahi and Kal Issa. (See story and more photos on pages 14-15)

Fifth graders tested their knowledge in a Lewiston-based Jeopardy game.

"I was always on the lookout for a commercial property that would fit all our needs: sufficient space, high traffic, and an accessible loading dock," explains Jeff.

"Nothing ever seemed to cover it all, until I looked at the Pontbriand's facility. The City of Auburn has been excellent to deal with and very welcoming to me.

Being in New Auburn now expands my capabilities so that they are limited only by my imagination."

ELHS students bound for NYC poetry slam

Edward Little High School students set to compete in a poetry slam in New York City next month include (l. to r.) Mohammed Ibrahim, Anab Noor, Khadro Adow, Nadifo Nur and Ahmed Mohammed.

Maine Writes poetry students from Edward Little High School will participate in a live poetry slam competition on June 3 in New York City.

The students are part of a class which has received a full-year, 30-week poetry residency from L/A Arts. Arts educator Oren Stevens of L/A Arts and classroom teacher Jill Hyland have teamed up to teach the students poetry- and literacy-based skills and forms and basic poetry slam performance techniques. The students' learning has been expressed in original written pieces they will perform at the competition in New York. The poems are about topics from their lives and community that have importance to them.

"New York has no idea what's coming," says a thrilled Ahmed Mohammed, who, along with the rest of his classmates, has never been to the city.

The students have already performed their pieces at L/A Arts' annual Awards Dinner at the Franco Center in April and at a presentation at Auburn Public Library in early May. They will compete against other high school students from schools in Brooklyn and the Bronx. A morning first round competition will take place, from which three finalists will be chosen to perform in front of a packed audience of 500 people in the Lovinger Theater at Lehman College. Winning students will receive special commendations and awards.

This is the first trip of its kind that L/A Arts and the Auburn schools have partnered upon, which they hope to make a mainstay of their programming.

Governor’s Address: Now is the time for real tax reform

Reports that tax reform is dead have been greatly exaggerated. Republicans and I are determined that we will cut the income tax this year.

Dear Maine Taxpayer,

When it comes to the budget, career politicians in Augusta have one objective. They just want to create a budget that 186 legislators can agree on — whether it’s a good budget or not. Then they want to go home for the summer, giving you the impression they worked hard for the Maine people.

Now that the clock is ticking toward their vacation time, Democrats suddenly want to take tax reform off the table. They just want to submit a budget that maintains the status quo.

Democrats pretended to be interested in cutting the income tax, but they would actually raise taxes by $120 million. It was a poor deal for Mainers. These politicians really don’t want to reduce the high tax burden on hard-working Mainers. They prefer business as usual.

That’s not how I operate. I didn’t take this job to be a rubber stamp for bad policy coming out of the legislature. I became Governor because we need to bring real reform to state government, and we need to create prosperity for the Maine people.

Every day, Mainers tell me taxes are too high. They want to keep more of their hard-earned money. The Maine people don’t trust liberal politicians to spend their money responsibly. Neither do I. That’s why we are determined to reduce the income tax in this budget. Democrats are trying to kick the can down the road again, but we won’t let them.

Republicans are united in our mission to eliminate the income tax. Over the past few months, we have considered different approaches about how to accomplish it. But we all agree on one thing. This budget must take a major step toward eliminating the income tax once and for all. The time for reform is now.

The media keeps asking me if I am willing to compromise on the budget. My answer is still the same: I am always willing to compromise on good public policy that truly benefits the people of Maine. However, I am not interested in any compromise on bad public policy that does not move our state forward or create prosperity for Mainers.

Democrats are working on a budget for 186 legislators in Augusta to approve. They are making deals and working behind closed doors, just so they can vote on something and go home.

I am working on a budget to benefit 1.3 million Mainers. But I need your help. You must hold your legislators accountable.

Lobbyists and lawyers for special interests are talking to legislators every day in the halls of the State House. The taxpayers’ interests are not being represented.

If you want to eliminate the income tax, you must get engaged. Find out who your local legislators are. Call or email them and let them know how you feel.

Together, we can move our state forward and bring prosperity to all Mainers.

Thank You
Paul R. LePage
Governor

Letter to the Editor Thanks for Memorial Day celebration

To the Editor:

Lewiston-Auburn hosted its annual Memorial Day Parade on Saturday, and we want to congratulate Willie Danforth and his crew for an excellent parade. Seeing all the people enjoying it and the kids waving their flags was great.

The ceremony was truly unbelievable. It started with a fly-over by the Civil Air Patrol, followed by — you wouldn’t believe it unless you were there — an American Eagle fly-over (someone up there is thinking of us). What a sight for the over 250 people at Veterans Memorial Park!

The program started with Jerry Dewitt, chairman of L & A Veterans Council and master of ceremonies, then the “Just Us” singers and Nel Meservier at the keyboard for the National Anthem. They also sang several other songs during the program.

Invocation was by Father Amato of Prince of Peace Parish, then several speakers representing U.S. Senators Susan Collins and Angus King and U.S Rep. Bruce Poliquin gave remarks, as did Lewiston Mayor Robert Macdonald and Auburn Mayor Jonathan LaBonté.

The program also featured a special speaker, Capt. Deb Couture, who gave a history of the Navy Seabees.

“Seabees” was coined during World War II from the initials “CB”, which stands for Construction Battalions). The emblem of the Seabees, the U.S. Navy’s construction and combat-capable division, is now on the 27th memorial stone at the park.

Following the speakers was the placing of the wreath at the major monument “Price of Freedom,” three cannon shots by VFW Post 1603 of Auburn and “Taps” by Roger Renaud. Then all the chaplains from member posts came forward to name their members who passed away during the past year.

A representative from the Gold Star Mothers spoke, then came the unveiling of the 27th stone and the new bench honoring Jerry Der Boghosian of Lewiston, a longtime advocate for veterans.

The weather was good — except for the north wind, which made it cold. On behalf of the L & A Veterans Council and all its members, we wish to thank all who helped with this Memorial Day celebration and ceremony. It was one of the best.

Enough is Enough

Lisbon Street is becoming crowded and alive again

By Robert E. Macdonald
MAYOR OF LEWISTON

Back in the 1950s, there was a popular TV police show called “Highway Patrol,” starring Broderick Crawford, a full-figured police detective lieutenant who wore a rather large tie. But large ties were in fashion.

In the ’60s, there was “Dragnet.” Fashions had changed; ties now consisted of half the material. Today ties are optional for detectives.

Today in Lewiston we are seeing a change in the landscape of our downtown and several of our neighborhoods. Many older, lifelong residents of Lewiston still opine about the once-bustling retail of the 1940s, ’50s and ’60s on Lisbon Street. People worked, shopped and lived in and around this once-vibrant downtown.

In the late ’60s, things changed. Urban planners created malls containing retail stores, restaurants and other businesses — all conveniently located under one roof. Best of all, there was lots and lots of parking. Families gravitated from downtown apartment living to a nice house in the quiet suburbs. During this time, because of the loss of the mills, downtown Lewiston fell into disrepair.

Last week in Lewiston, a conference entitled “Build Maine” was held. It dealt with urban planning and how to best incorporate it into the cities and towns of Maine. The ideas presented were tailored towards the 20- and 30-something, young, professional crowd — the crowd that is the future of our city and state.

In order to retain them, move forward and prosper, we must listen to them and create a city that will attract and retain these young professionals.

I was elected to the Office of Mayor because, like Governor Paul R. LePage, I am not politically correct and I’m certainly not afraid to speak out. This trait serves to discourage people from away from using Lewiston as a testing place for their latest social adventures.

But, as mayor of Lewiston, I must also listen and weigh the desires of those that will be the future residents of our city. Many of these young, motivated, imaginative, young people, possess the will, the drive and the ideas that, once incorporated, will create a flourishing urban area. However, their ideas start on the first floor and lack a foundation.

My job as mayor is to build that foundation. In order to do this, we must overcome the wrath of various individuals and groups. When the rubber hits the road, you must have the courage to take the right course, not the politically expedient.

We are now coming full circle. The downtown of the 1940s, ’50s and ’60s is now being revived. How many of you have experienced the fine cuisine available in our downtown? How many of you have come down and experienced the creativity of local artists displayed in the windows of many Lisbon Street businesses?

On the last Friday of the month, Lisbon Street becomes crowded and alive.

If you’re not into art, it would still be in your interest to come downtown. It may serve as an opportunity to reconnect with old friends and meet new ones.

Restaurants, retail, condos and market-rate apartments are bringing our downtown back to life. This is the result of many entrepreneurs who believe in Lewiston and are investing their money, creative talents and sweat to once again make this a great city. By the way, bike lanes are here to stay.

Finally, last week Lewiston Police Chief Mike Bussiere announced that the police department is actively trying to recruit police officers from our Somali population. This is not a move of political correctness, but of necessity. This will serve to break down existing barriers and strengthen our community.

Connectivity Point to go Extra Mile in 2015

Connectivity Point Design & Installation of Auburn will support five area nonprofit organizations this year with their second annual “Going the Extra Mile” campaign.

The nonprofit organizations to receive funding are the Alzheimer’s Association of Maine, the Cancer Community Center, the Greater Androscoggin Humane Society, Safe Kids Maine and the Sisters Wish. The agencies were selected through a brief application process and employee suggestions.

Throughout the remainder of 2015, each truck in Connectivity Point’s fleet will display the logo of one of these organizations. For every mile the truck drives, Connectivity Point will donate a penny to that agency. The campaign will end at the end of the year, when a final donation is planned. It is estimated that, within this time-frame, the combined fleet will drive nearly half a million miles.

“Last year’s campaign was a hit, both with our employees and our beneficiaries,” said Connectivity Point president Doug Watt. “After looking at applications and listening to our employees, we’ve come up with another good mix of programs to drive for for this year.”

Founded in 2002, Connectivity Point specializes in infrastructure for voice, data, video and security, with a focus on the design and installation of network cabling, audio/visual equipment, security solutions, wireless networks and telephone systems. They serve customers in Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts with their own technicians and perform work nationally through their network of pre-qualified partners.

For more information about their Going the Extra Mile campaign, call (866) 782-0200 or see connectivitypoint.com/extramile.

Joanne Diaz (l.) and Mary Lou Achorn of Liberty Mutual Insurance recently celebrated the company's annual "Serve with Liberty" day by helping the Center for Wisdom's Women prepare its gardens for planting. They and a group from the center worked to haul and turn in four yards of compost donated by Labonte's Landscaping of Lewiston. Jeff Spellar of Lewiston and Julie Johnson of Windham were honored as TOPS Maine royalty for losing 152 and 108.5 pounds, respectively. TOPS royalty are men and women who, at the end of the year, have officially recorded the largest weight loss from their starting weight, regardless of the time taken to reach their goal. Speller and Johnson are just two of the organization's nearly 2,000 members across the state who lost more than 7,500 pounds combined last year. "Joining TOPS was one of the best decisions I've ever made," said Speller. "Giving up soda, sugary snacks and large portion meals was the easy part. Water replaced soda completely, and veggies replaced piles of pasta and bread. Week by week, and weigh-in by weigh-in, the pounds came off. But getting your mind

Weekly Arts & Entertainment

Art Walk L/A kicks off 2015 season

Works like "Stormy Skies" by Julie Breau will be on display and available for purchase

Art Walk L/A returns to downtown Lewiston for 2015 on Friday, May 29. Presented by L/A Arts, this popular summer event transforms downtown Lewiston into a vibrant arts district on the final Friday evening of each month through September.

This year's kick-off will feature works by 25 visual artists on display at multiple venues along Lisbon Street and adjacent areas, along with entertainment by three diverse musical acts: the Midcoast String Quartet (indoors at the Lamey-Wellehan Gallery, 110 Lisbon Street, from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.); Chicks with Sticks (outdoors, weather permitting, at Dufresne Plaza; indoors, in the event of rain, at Lewiston Public Library's Callahan Hall - from 6:30 to 8 p.m.); and Arborea (indoors at She Doesn't Like Guthries, 115 Middle Street, from 8 to 10 p.m.)

The Midcoast String Quartet is a group of musicians who play in the Midcoast Symphony Orchestra. Violinist Kate Huntington Gray is a professional violinist and violin teacher in the Brunswick area, Mary Hunter teaches music at Bowdoin College, Heather Cook is a professional violinist and runs the new strings program in the Durham schools, and Karen Jung is a professional cellist and Music Librarian at Bowdoin College.

An off-shoot of the popular Tinpanic Steel Band, Chicks with Sticks is four women-combo who play Calypso-style steel drum music for parties, festivals, receptions and any other event in Central Maine where people would like to enjoy island sounds similar to Jimmy Buffet and Bob Marley.

Maine-based wife-and-husband Avant Folk duo Shanti and Buck Curran have released five albums, curated two various artists compilations ("Leaves of Life" and "We Are All One, In the Sun: A Tribute to Robbie Basho") and performed throughout the U.S., U.K., and Europe, including sessions on the BBC, NPR, WNYC, and WXPB.

Again this year, L/A Arts would like to encourage Art Walk patrons to support local visual artists, not only by coming to see their works, but also by purchasing them. With zero commissions charged on the sales of works on display, Art Walk L/A provides a unique opportunity to purchase great art at reasonable prices with all proceeds going directly to the artists. To make purchasing decisions easier, Art Walk provides an online artist catalog highlighting the works on display at each month's event.

Access to all Art Walk L/A events and venues is free (there is no cover charge for the performance at She Doesn't Like Guthries). For more information about this month's Art Walk L/A or to browse the artist catalog, see www.artwalk-lewistonauburn.com.

Norlands launches barn rebuilding

The new barn will match the look and footprint of one originally constructed when the Washburn Family mansion was built in 1867.

Washburn-Norlands Living History Center will host a special event on Saturday, May 30 at 10 a.m. to celebrate the launch of the rebuilding of its two-story barn, seven years after the structure that housed the center's livestock and farming equipment was destroyed in a disastrous blaze.

Owners of Maine Mountain Timber Frames of Strong will answer questions and demonstrate aspects of how the barn's traditional timber frame will be constructed. The speakers at the event will be Earle G. Shettleworth, Jr., Director of the Maine Historic Preservation Commission, and Jeffrey L. Timberlake, the Maine State Legislator from Turner who, as a volunteer firemen, helped fight the blaze that destroyed the barn, along with the attached farmer's cottage and ice house. Other key supporters of the project will take part. Following the ceremony, refreshments will be served and a door prize drawing for a basket of Norlands' memorabilia will take place.

Through its "Raise the Barn: Rebuild the Magic" capital campaign, the center has been raising funds to replace the barn, which played a vital role in the c. 1870 rural Maine life that the museum strives to preserve and recreate.

"Without the barn, our farm programs have had to lack the truly hands-on approach to living history that Norlands has helped pioneer since 1973," said Kathy Beauregard of the center's barn raising advisory board.

While the rebuilt structure has been designed to retain the original look and functions of a nineteenth-century barn, it will be built to incorporate all of today's modern building codes and safety

Friday's activities will start with an opening jam from 7 to 8 p.m., followed by live performances until 11:00. Saturday will feature live music from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., with a baked bean supper from 5 to 6 p.m.

Members of the Lewiston Youth Advisory Council recently made presentations to third and fifth grade classes at Geiger Elementary school to encourage the students to join them as cheerleaders for Lewiston and to ask them - as the future citizens and leaders of the city - to think about what they value in their community.

Under the theme "Do You Do Lew?", LYAC members led the students in various Lewiston-based activities, including "Mad-libs," drawings and a Jeopardy game. Energy in both classrooms ran high as third graders shared their favorite things about the community and fifth graders tested their knowledge about the city.

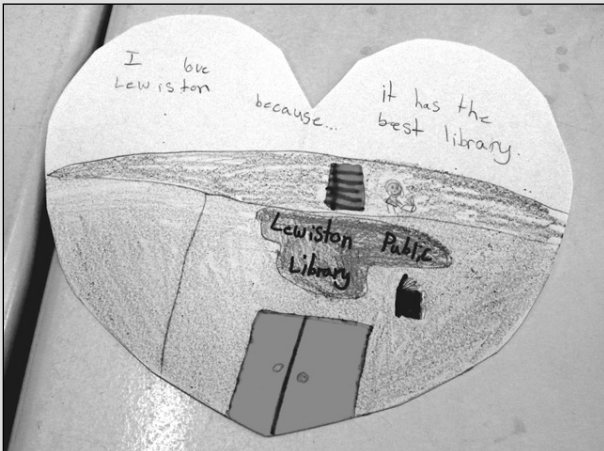

Courtney hands out a fun assignment.

At the close of the presentations, LYAC members handed out "I Love Lewiston" stickers in the classrooms and to other students as they left the building. The Lewiston Youth Advisory Council is funded by the Lewiston Firefighters Association. For more information, see www.lewistonmaine.gov/lyac.

June highlights at women's center

The Center for Wisdom's Women will celebrate the summer solstice with a Quiet Day led by Pat Gardiner on Saturday, June 12 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

This will be a time for silent reflection and rest; no talking, cell phones or electronic devices will be permitted. A light lunch will be provided for those who sign up in advance.

In addition, a Solstice

Celebration is planned for all day on Monday, June 22. Suggestions for summer games and activities (eating watermelon? blowing bubbles? filling water balloons? listening to the Beach Boys?) are invited.

There will be a "Planting Gardens" program on June 3, a "Dog Tales" program on June 4, and a "Hair Day" program on June 11. Paul Drowns of the Nutrition Center will lead the Peasant Pantry Prep group in preparing a simple one-dish meal on June 17. That meal will be served to the wider community on June 18 from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. While there will be no charge for the meal, reservations and donations are appreciated. Other cooking classes will take place on June 9 and 23.

A weekly Writing

Workshop will meet each Monday morning, a "Playing with Poetry" class will take place on June 20 and the Book Club will meet on June 30 to discuss the book "Seedfolks." Craft workshops this month will include mason jar decorating on June 2, collage on June 8, a wood craft on June 9, book making on June 17 and making coasters on June 23.

Support groups that meet regularly at the center include a new Women for Sobriety group, a Trauma Recovery and Empowerment group, an An Al-Anon group and a Bisexual, Lesbian and Transgendered group.

All women are welcome, all programs are offered free of charge and no appointments are needed.

The center is located at 97 Blake Street in Lewiston.

Throwing a Decked Out Deck Party

Whether you're hosting a backyard barbecue, graduation party or making the most of a summer holiday, the perfect preparations and attention to ambiance are key ingredients to a successful outdoor celebration.

Check out these tips for creating a party-perfect deck.

Set the stage for safety
Nothing spoils a deck party like a nasty splinter, a snag on a protruding nail or a trip over an uneven board. If your deck needs a "face lift," replace old, rotting or warping wood boards with wood-alternative decking that combines superior durability and low-maintenance with long-lasting appearance. High-performance composite decking like Trex Transcend, available in a variety of sought-after tropical colors, can withstand years of heavy foot traffic and severe weather, as well as outdoor entertaining mishaps like food and drink spills, or dropped grilling tools. And, because it's backed by a fade, stain and scratch warranty, you can be assured that it will stand up to roving pets, spilled drinks and the occasions when furniture is dragged out of the way to make room for dancing. Plus, it only requires an occasional soap and water cleaning to wipe away any signs of barbecue accidents or wine spills.

Create coverage
For maximum comfort, create a place where guests can get a reprieve from the sun's heat and rays while still enjoying the great outdoors. A pergola can act as an extension of your house, creating the effect of an outdoor room. The overhead framing contributes to the architectural details of your space while providing shade and protection from the sun. Consider adding a waterproof, retractable canopy into the structure so your party can carry on — rain or shine. Grow vines around it to create added privacy and an extension of your landscape. Or string lights across your pergola to create charming night-time ambiance.

Get more from your decor

When selecting furniture for your outdoor living space, think durability and versatility. Pieces made from composite materials will withstand use and environmental elements while maintaining their good looks. For maximum flexibility, choose neutral colored pieces that can be accessorized seasonally or even to fit a specific occasion. To keep your outdoor space looking festive and fresh each year, pick up brightly colored pillows or throws to make the whole space pop. Add extra punch and personality with flowers, flags, eye-catching tableware and seasonal plants.

Design for fun and function

When prepping for a party, designate separate areas for relaxing, grilling, beverage service and socializing. Be sure to include a conversation center by facing sofas and seating together around a fireplace, large coffee table or other central point to keep conversation flowing. Accompany large chairs with upholstered ottomans to create an inviting atmosphere and increase available seating.

Food and drink stations — arguably the most crucial element of a party — should be prominent and accessible to guests. But, because people always follow the food, you also may want to set up food or serving carts at the edge of your social space. Maximize your guests' mobility with a buffet of easily edible appetizers and finger foods so friends and family can move

How to Make the Ultimate Burger

Grilling season is here, and that means burgers — the No. 1 grilled item in America — are on the menu at backyard cookouts and weeknight dinners across the country.

This summer, upgrade from a simple patty slathered with ketchup and mustard. Create mouthwatering burgers by seasoning the meat, then building with unique toppers and condiments like grilled avocado, mango slaw or lime mayo.

"My favorite burger recipe we developed uses the Grill Mates Smoky Ranchero Marinade to flavor the patty and south-of-the-border condiments like Cotija cheese and grilled avocado as toppers," said Chef Kevan Vetter of the McCormick Kitchens. "When you press the bun down to smash it all together, the avocado, tangy mayo and cheese ooze out over juicy, flavorful meat."

For more burger recipes and other grilling tips from the annual McCormick Grill Mates Flavor Forecast 2015: GRILLING EDITION, visit www.flavorforecast.com and www.grillmates.com.

Southwestern Smoky Ranchero Burger with Grilled Avocado

Serves: 4
Lime Mayonnaise:
1/4 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lime juice
1 package McCormick Grill Mates Smoky Ranchero Marinade, divided

Stuffed Avocado:
2 ripe avocados
1/4 cup crumbled Cotija cheese
1/4 cup diced tomato
Burgers:
1 pound 80 percent lean ground beef
4 kaiser rolls
1 small red onion, thinly sliced

For lime mayonnaise, mix mayonnaise, lime juice and 1 teaspoon of the marinade mix in small bowl until well blended. Cover. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

For stuffed avocado, halve and seed avocados. Carefully remove peel, leaving each half intact. Lightly season with salt and pepper. Mix cheese and tomato. Set aside.

For burgers, mix ground beef and remaining marinade mix until well blended. Shape into 4 patties. Grill over medium heat 4-6 minutes per side or until burgers are cooked through (internal temperature of 160°F).

Grill avocado halves, cut-sides down, 30 seconds. Turn over avocados. Place 2 tablespoons of cheese mixture into each avocado half. Drizzle with hot sauce, if desired. Grill 4-5 minutes. Toast rolls on grill, open-side down, about 30 seconds.

Serve burgers on rolls topped with stuffed avocados and onion slices. Press roll gently to smash stuffed avocado. Serve with lime mayonnaise. (Family Features)

Tree Care is an important part of our efforts to deliver the reliable electricity delivery service you depend on. Because protecting the health of your trees is important, our contractors use techniques sanctioned by the Tree Care Industry Association.

If you would like to be consulted, please write to CMP, Vegetation Management Department, 83 Edison Drive, Augusta, ME 04336. Include your name, street address and your CMP account number. You will be placed on a permanent list and will be contacted whenever we are pruning adjacent to your property, except in emergency conditions.
