At The Corral Gate

I count it a privilege to have been an emcee for the first-ever Patriots Sporting Challenge held recently at the Links at Lands End near Lake Fork in Wood County.

The trilogy of sporting competitions brought in over forty four-man teams who took advantage of the great fishing, golfing and shooting facilities in the immediate area of Land's End. Between team entry fees, sponsor pledges and generous donations from individuals, a nice sum will be donated to Folds of Honor, a nationwide Veteran's organization which helps provide scholarships for education for spouses and children of fallen and disabled veterans. NE Texas now has a brand new chapter with this first-ever successful fundraising event under it's belt. Plans for the 2018 Patriot's Sporting Challenge are already in the works.

Of course, a fishing tournament has to offer fish for competitors to eat. For some reason or other, firefighters seem to be the best disposed humans at frying fish. I don't question this, I applaud it. I talked to members of the two fish-frying Volunteer Fire Departments and learned a lot.

The Land's End Volunteer Fire Station is just down CR 1970 from the main entrance of Links at Lands End Golf Course. The department is 12 years old with about fifteen members currently. I talked to Fire Chief Rick Nichols who's been with the department for six years. Along with a career with Southwestern Bell as a supervisor, he previously served with the VFD in Combine, Texas before his retirement move to the lake. Chief Nichols and members take pride in their well-equipped department. They have purchased eight fire trucks themselves with funds they raised, and most recently acquired a brand new truck by means of a partial grant.

There are twelve fire departments in Wood County, with three under private contract. Lands End VFD is one of the privately-contracted entities.

When it comes to fish, these firemen like setting up and cooking for people and their work is in fairly steady demand. The fry-cooks were Carey Endridge and Ken Stribling, both 12-year members, Quin Marston who joined the department a year and a half ago, and Robert Ukleja who came on as a greenhorn one month ago. The team acted as a well-oiled machine, turning out platters of delicious golden brown fish and hushpuppies for a great crowd of Patriot Sporting Challenge diners.

The Yantis Volunteer Fire Department cooking team is headed up by three brothers, Rodney, Wesley and Nathan Crist. They also have another brother, Rudy. Along with their mom Myra Crist, their wives, children and grandchildren, this family presents a formidable crowd of experienced fish-fry cooks. Their late father Wendell Crist was a founding member of the Yantis VFD which he helped form over fifty years ago in 1964. Wendell started the family cooking tradition and in doing so, he instilled a love of serving the community in his sons. The tradition has stayed strong, now with four generations of Crists who help out at most of the fish fries they are called upon to do. In fact, the family team took on two major outdoor cooking gigs in one day...the World Champion Hopkins County Stew Contest in the morning, and the Patriots Sporting Challenge that same evening.

Besides being a firefighter, Rodney Crist is a minister. During his Army service, he was a chaplain and became pastor of County Line Baptist Church at Yantis 13 years ago. He credits his dad Wendell with teaching his family to adopt Jesus' commandment to "feed my sheep" and take it personally. Besides cooking fish for fire department events, they cook for church youth groups and for the Holy Highway Girls Home fundraiser each spring. Rodney is following his father's example by teaching his family outdoor cooking skills. His wife Debbie Carden Crist provides support at the campsite along with his mother-in-law Shirley Whittiker Carden, his uncle Robert Carden, nephews and grandchildren with the youngest age 5 months.

Wesley Crist is Chief of the 12-member Yantis Fire Department. Mark Coker is Assistant Chief. Wesley joined the department when he was 15 years old and recently celebrated his 40th year of service. His mom Myra is the oldest living member of the department. His firefighting sons are John Wade Crist and Josh Crist.. His daughter Jennifer Crist is also a firefighter and his wife Debra is always on hand for anything the department does. Their daughters-in-law and grandchildren attend most every cooking function the department does.

Meeting people like this does my heart good. They really love doing something good for their neighbors and the entire community, and there's just not enough people like that anymore. Til next week, let's count our blessings and remember to thank people who do nice things in small and large ways. I'll watch for you at the corral gate.

FAMOUS TEXANS
Miranda Lambert
 Country Music Singer

Miranda Leigh Lambert (born November 10, 1983) is an American singer and songwriter. Outside her solo career, she is a member of the Pistol Annies alongside Ashley Monroe and Angaleena Presley. Lambert has been honored by the Grammy Awards, the Academy of Country Music Awards, and the Country Music Association Awards.

Lambert's debut album Kerosene (2005) was certified Platinum in the United States, and produced the singles "Me and Charlie Talking", "Bring Me Down", "Kerosene", and "New Strings". All four singles reached the top 40 on the Billboard Hot Country Songs. Her second album, Crazy Ex-Girlfriend, was released in early 2007. Three of its singles—"Famous in a Small Town", "Gunpowder & Lead", and "More Like Her"—peaked within the top 20 on the country songs chart, with "Gunpowder & Lead" becoming her first top 10 entry in July 2008. Her third album, Revolution, was released in September 2009. Two of its songs—"The House That Built Me" and "Heart Like Mine"—topped the Hot Country Songs chart.

2011's Four the Record, included the singles "Baggage Claim", "Over You", "Fastest Girl in Town", "Mama's Broken Heart", and "All Kinds of Kinds". Lambert released her fifth album, Platinum, in 2014. The record won the Grammy Award for Best Country Album, and the album's lead single "Automatic" reached top 5 on the Country charts. Her sixth studio album, The Weight of These Wings, was released on November 18, 2016.

Early life

Miranda Leigh Lambert was born November 10, 1983, in Longview, Texas, and was raised in Lindale, Texas. She was named after her great-grandmother, Lucy Miranda. Her father, Rick Lambert, was a police officer who played in a country-rock group called Contraband in the 1970s. He later became a private investigator in partnership with Miranda's mother, Beverly. She has English, Irish and Native American ancestry.

While still in high school, Lambert made her professional singing debut with "The Texas Pride Band". She also fronted the house band at the Reo Palm Isle in Longview, Texas, a long-running venue that had presented legends such as Elvis Presley and Willie Nelson, and the place where Brooks & Dunn started out as the house band.

Music career

In 2002, Dusty Meador hired Miranda to perform at Tye Phelps' country music restaurant and venue "Love And War in Texas". Miranda continued to perform around the Texas Music Scene opening for Cooder Graw, Kevin Fowler and Jack Ingram. In 2003 she auditioned for the talent competition Nashville Star, where she earned a third-place finish behind Buddy Jewell and John Arthur Martinez. During her 9-week stay on Nashville Star Miranda caught the attention of the show's judge and Sony Record executive, Tracy Gershon, who later convinced the label to sign her to their label.

2004–2008: Kerosene and Crazy Ex-Girlfriend

On September 15, 2003, she signed with Epic Records. Her debut single, "Me and Charlie Talking", co-written by her father and Heather Little, was released in summer of 2004 as the lead single to her debut album. Titled Kerosene, Lambert's first album comprised 12 songs, 11 of which she wrote or co-wrote. The album debuted at number one on the Billboard Top Country Albums charts, and eventually gained a Platinum certification by the RIAA for shipments of over one million copies, selling more than 930,000 copies up to July 2008. Overall, the album produced four Top 40 singles on the Billboard country charts, including the title track which was a Top 20 hit. Lambert also toured with Keith Urban and George Strait in early 2006. In 2007, she toured with Dierks Bentley and Toby Keith.

Lambert's second album, Crazy Ex-Girlfriend, was released on May 9, 2007. She wrote eight of the album's 11 tracks, including its four singles. Much of the track "Gunpowder & Lead," the album's third single and her highest-charting single, was written while she was taking a concealed handgun class in her home town. Fady Joudah of The New Yorker said the album proved "she has talent and charisma on a par with Dolly Parton, another blond beauty who was once underestimated."

In 2005, at the 40th Annual Academy of Country Music Awards in Las Vegas, Lambert won the Cover Girl "Fresh Face of Country Music Award". She was also nominated for the Country Music Association's Horizon Award in 2005; in 2007, Lambert also received a Grammy Award nomination for Best Female Country Vocal Performance for her single "Kerosene". She also won the Top New Female Vocalist award at the 2007 ACM (Academy of Country Music) Awards. At the 2008 ACM (Academy of Country Music) Awards, Crazy Ex-Girlfriend won Album of the Year.

Lambert released her third album, Revolution, on September 29, 2009. She co-wrote 11 of the album's 15 tracks; the album also includes co-writes from Dave Haywood and Charles Kelley of Lady Antebellum and Blake Shelton.

Revolution received significant critical praise on its release. At Metacritic, which assigns a normalized rating out of 100 to reviews from mainstream critics, the album received an average score of 85, based on 11 reviews, which indicates "universal acclaim". Rolling Stone magazine praised the album saying, "Lambert remains country's most refreshing act, and not just because she makes firearms seem like a matter-of-fact female accessory." Entertainment Weekly said, "She's found stylistic shades of songwriters twice her age..." and the album is "...a portrait of an artist in full possession of her powers, and the best mainstream-country album so far this year." Boston Globe commented that "Revolution" is the sound of Miranda Lambert coming into her own." Slant magazine praised the album saying, "Miranda Lambert expands on her fascinating, fully realized artistic persona ..."

Lambert debuted her new single, "Dead Flowers", at the 44th annual Academy of Country Music Awards on April 5, 2009. It was released on May 4, 2009, and was a minor Top 40 hit on the charts. The album's second single, "White Liar", was released on August 17, 2009, and debuted at No. 50 on the U.S. Billboard Hot Country Songs chart. In February 2010, "White Liar" became Lambert's first Top Five hit, reaching a peak of No. 2 on the U.S. Billboard Hot Country Songs chart. "The House That Built Me," the album's third single, was released on March 8, 2010 and became a No. 1 on the U.S. Billboard Hot Country Songs chart. It stayed there for four weeks, and received platinum certification from the RIAA on July 8, 2010. "Only Prettier" followed as the album's fourth single in July 2010 and its accompanying music video went viral. The music video for "Only Prettier" featured cameo appearances by fellow country artists Kellie Pickler, Laura Bell Bundy, and Hillary Scott of Lady Antebellum. In December 2010, "Only Prettier" reached a peak of number 12 on the U.S. Billboard Hot Country Songs chart, giving Lambert her seventh Top 20 hit. "Heart Like Mine" was released in January 2011 as the fifth and final single from Revolution. It became Lambert's second Number One hit on the country charts for the chart dated May 28, 2011.

On September 1, 2010, it was announced that Lambert had received a record-setting 9 CMA award nominations.

THE IDLE AMERICAN: Getting Out More Often...

Commentary by Dr. Don Newbury

The admonition--one made by generations--urges others to "get out more often." I've made such suggestions many times in a spirit of good humor.

The older one gets, however, the more important it is to seriously consider such suggestions. They likely "fit." As long as folks can "get out," predictable results include both invigoration and restoration!...

We recently attended a high school homecoming football game; it triggered reminders of yesteryear. We "drank in" the spirit of players, coaches and fans. It was "whisper quiet" as a student voiced a prayer over the loudspeaker. Reverence continued as the bands played school songs, and at midfield, the host cheerleaders presented "welcome gifts" to their visiting counterparts.

There was a spirit of gratefulness for our nation. There was no reluctance on the sidelines by players and coaches to stand at rapt attention when the National Anthem was played. As the final notes faded into the night, fans applauded generously as the game began.

Every pre-game aspect seemed to be a throwback to the 1950s. There was, however, one notable difference. Homecoming mums, steadily becoming larger over the years, were huge. If the absolute size limit isn't reached soon, each mum will be carried--not worn--by two--maybe three--co-eds. Ultimately, they may be on wheels....

I'm serious. Some of the mums we saw were strapped on, big enough to serve as flotation devices. Some wearers wobbled as they walked, barely able to hoist the giant corsages that were constructed on a frame outlining the State of Texas. They had blinking lights, for crying out loud.

Some seemed billboard size. State troopers could have hidden behind them, and if anyone needed to change clothes, some were plenty big enough to assure total preservation of modesty.

Mums aside, however, it was a good evening. And in this setting, we could be reasonably sure the playing field was level. Too often--particularly in recent times--football fields are tilted greatly in both the collegiate and professional ranks.

SWEET POTATO ROYALTY IN GILMER

Tumbleweed Smith

Tumbleweed Smith

We arrived in Gilmer the day before I was to keynote the all service club luncheon to kickoff the activities surrounding Yamboree, one of the largest festivals in Texas. It attracts upwards of 100,000 people. One of our hosts gave us tickets to the coronation of Queen Yam. I really didn't know what to expect, since Gilmer has a population of around 5,000.

As usually happens in small towns, the event exceeded my expectations by about a thousand percent. It was true pomp and circumstance on a par with a royal wedding or coronation in England. The queen and her court were presented along with a series of Duchesses, the Noble Order of the Garter and the Bearer of the Royal Scepter. Court dancers provided entertainment.

All princesses had a royal promenade around the packed auditorium and when it came time for Queen Madison Lee of the House of Dean to make her appearance, the crowd showed its appreciation with quiet respect. You could almost hear the smiles breaking across faces and heads nodding up and down. It was an elegant evening. The queen's train was at least twenty feet long. Four train guards managed the folds of material.

The coronation lasted more than two hours and the entire event was repeated the following night to accommodate the people who wanted to see it.

This is the 80th year for Yamboree. It was started in 1935, the same year Johnny Mathis was born in Gilmer. It was canceled for two years during WWII. The reason for the celebration is of course the sweet potato, a major crop in 1935 when the state encouraged communities to stage some sort of event for the state's centennial in 1936. A huge carnival takes place downtown and there are numerous contests involving yam pie and other delicacies made from the vegetable. Booths offer all kinds of merchandise and there is an antique auto show. The program listing all the events is a narrow booklet with 140 pages.

Modest stands offering sweet potatoes for sale line the streets leading downtown. Schools turn out the Thursday and Friday of Yamboree weekend because kids are showing their animals in the livestock barn.

When I was asked to speak at the all service club luncheon I had no idea it was the event where US presidents, Texas governors, heads of major industries and other prominent people have graced the podium. The crowd filled the high school gymnasium and the entire experience was a humbling one for me.

I did manage to interview some yam farmers, the president of the Yamboree Brandon Garmon and of course, Queen Yam Madison Lee Dean. Joyce Raabe is in charge of judging the yam pie contest. She told me no spices are allowed in the preparation of the pies. "It must be just sweet potato." Judges are from out of town.
