Prayer to the BLESSED VIRGIN
(Never known to fail). O Most Beautiful Flower of Mt. Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. O Star of the sea, help me and show me here in, you are my mother. O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. O Mary conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (3 times.) Holy Mary, I place this cause in your hands (3 times). Say this prayer for three consecutive days. You must publish it and it will be granted to you. Grateful Thanks.

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

New Furnace? Don't Shut Heat Registers

Q.In a recent column, you advised readers to shut heating registers in unused rooms to save energy. However, that may not be completely correct. I recently had a high-efficiency furnace installed. The technician told me not to shut off heating registers in unused rooms, as it could damage the furnace. So, shutting the registers doesn't always apply if you have a new furnace. — Sandy, via e-mail

A.Thanks for the update! I looked into guidelines for newer, high-efficiency forced-air furnaces and found that, indeed, HVAC experts recommend against arbitrarily shutting off registers in unused rooms.

There are a number of reasons for this. The newer furnaces are configured to heat your entire home's square footage in the most efficient way possible. Start shutting off registers and that setup no longer works, as the parameters of the system has been changed.

Shutting off several registers can affect the blower motor in particular, according to the Energy Vanguard (www.energyvanguard.com) blog post "Can You Save Money by Closing HVAC Vents in Unused Rooms." Newer systems feature both registers and air return ducts in each room. Shut off the register, and the air return is affected as well, increasing air pressure and forcing the blower to work harder to circulate warm air back into the house.

Air ducts in newer systems also are not normally sealed, the blog notes. So when the return air pressure goes up, air begins to escape from the duct system itself, forcing the blower to work harder to draw enough air to heat.

Low airflow over other components of a high-efficiency system can cause problems, too. The heating coils actually can get too hot, as can the heat exchanger, increasing the risk that it could crack — releasing exhaust gases, including carbon monoxide, into your home.

So, does that mean heating registers should never, ever be shut? The answer to this is to talk to your HVAC contractor. While Energy Vanguard notes that one or two temporarily closed registers shouldn't negatively affect the system, it's better to ask than to wonder.

home tip

Going on a trip this winter? Don't turn off the heating system: Set the thermostat to 55 degrees F, which will reduce the energy bill while preventing pipes from freezing.

What if you're not sure if you have a high-efficiency system? What if you have an older heating system, or a zoned system? Then it's time to schedule a checkup with a heating and air-conditioning professional, who can tell you the best way to manage your particular heating system.

Send your home tips and questions to ask@thisisahammer.com.

News For Older Americans

Prepare For Long-Term Care

(NAPS)—As Americans live longer, the prospect of becoming a caregiver or needing one is an undeniable reality. In fact, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services estimates that 70 percent of adults 65 or older will require some form of long-term care ("LTC"). Despite the clear need, the majority of Americans have not taken proactive steps to address care for themselves or their loved ones—but you don't have to be among them.

Findings from Northwestern Mutual's 2014 Long-Term Care Study revealed that even though three-quarters of individuals agreed that planning is important as longevity increases, just a fraction have spoken to family members about their wishes or discussed their own preferences. Of those who have considered LTC planning, the majority expect to rely on personal savings, which may be unrealistic, as a private room in a U.S. assisted living facility or nursing home can average $38,000 and $90,000 per year, respectively, according to data from Northwestern Mutual's Cost of Long-Term Care Study. Moreover, since AARP research indicates that 87 percent of Americans rely on unpaid or informal caregivers, it is not surprising that more than half of future caregivers in Northwestern Mutual's Long-Term Care Study believe that caregiving will affect their budgets and retirement savings.

According to Steve Sperka, vice president of long-term care at Northwestern Mutual, the significant financial and lifestyle implications of caregiving should elevate planning for LTC to a key priority. "Our new study confirms what we have heard firsthand from clients—that fulfilling caregiving obligations can take a serious economic and emotional toll on families," said Sperka. "Caregivers, particularly members of the Sandwich Generation simultaneously providing for young children and elderly relatives, are sacrificing family time and career opportunities while in their professional prime."

It's a good idea for a family to plan for long-term care.

The good news is that it is possible to take control of your potential long-term care needs and help ensure clarity for the future in the event of an unexpected illness or condition. To protect income and assets and mitigate the stress and uncertainty that accompany difficult long-term care events, Sperka suggests the following:

- Recognize that you have options. While it is optimal to get a jump start on long-term care planning, there are a range of considerations at various life stages that can be integrated into your financial security planning.

- Have a candid conversation. Long-term care is a challenging topic but understanding your family member's wishes and expectations for care as well as communicating your own is the key to building a sound retirement plan.

- Talk to a financial professional. Do not underestimate the value of expert guidance in navigating complex scenarios and tailoring a strategy that will align with your individual goals, needs and resources.

A Sporting View
 by Mark Vasto

an integral part of our celebrations ... whether providing warmth in the form of a bonfire or firing the grills upon which we are preparing the sumptuous feasts for the occasion. Dancing around a fire is one of our more primal forms of celebration. Seeing that it was 1 a.m., and with temperatures in the mid-teens, college students were smart enough to know that they needed a source of heat.

It would seem to us that college officials would be smart enough to recognize this and provide a safer alternative for students — perhaps bonfires staffed by actual firemen in streets cordoned off by officers of the peace who were there for the students' safety, instead of the way it was handled in Columbus, Ohio, after the big win. No, there they decided to just attack students with tear gas and threaten their arrest, fanning the flames of riot and civil disobedience. Brilliant!

Q. Just watched the video (of the "riots"). Cammo? Really? It would seem that in confronting a crowd, the goal would be to announce a police presence, not make them blend into the shrubbery. — Reader in Columbus

A. Maybe the Ohio officials were caught by surprise, what with Cleveland and Cincinnati's rich tradition of winning professional championships year-in and year-out. Maybe they figured fans wouldn't care and would just go to bed after the game. Maybe they thought that Ohio's pristine reputation for coddling students during campus protests — and not in any way, shape or form inspiring protest anthems from Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young — would be enough of a deterrent. Maybe the police were on a mission from the Knights Who Say "Ni"! Was this even a question?

Q. How is TCU ranked third to end the season when they weren't in the final four selected for the playoff? — Artie in Middletown

A. Human error.

Q. How is setting fires a form of celebration? Seems like college students should be smart enough to come up with something more appropriate. — Mary in Columbus

A. Actually, Mary, since the dawn of man, fires have been

Hairwork Jewelry ***
Q. I have inherited a brooch that contains human hair. My grandmother told me that the hair belongs to a distant relative and has been in the family since the 1850s. What can you tell me about this type of item? — Winlow, Missoula, Montana
A. Human hair was used to make jewelry and other items throughout the Victorian era. Especially popular were hair wreaths, often crafted of hair from deceased family members. In recent years, prices for many of these keepsakes have risen dramatically. For example, a brooch often can sell in the $500 to $750 range, and an ornate framed hair wreath from the 1880s recently sold for $1,500. For additional information, you might want to get a copy of "Collector's Encyclopedia of Hairwork Jewelry" by C. Jeanenne Bell and published by Collector Books.

Q. I have a copy of Newsweek, which was the commemorative issue published after the death of Lady Diana. It is still sealed and was never opened. How much is it worth? — Mary, De Land, Florida
A. I contacted several magazine collectors, and they seem to agree that your issue of Newsweek would sell in the $10 to $15 range. Keep in mind that millions of copies of that issue were printed, and it is not scarce.
Q. I have a bowl marked Dedham and wonder where it originated and if it is worth keeping. — Sam, Morgantown, Virginia
A. The company was founded in Chelsea, Massachusetts, as the Chelsea Ceramic Works. The name was changed to Dedham in 1895 after relocating to the town of Dedham, near Boston. Early pieces, especially ones signed by the artist, are especially desirable. Your bowl, depending on size, style and condition, could be worth several hundred dollars.

Q. In 1950, I received a Teddy Trucker toy made by Fisher-Price. I do not have the original box, but the toy is in almost pristine condition. I have been offered $75 for it. What do you think? — Steve, Palm Desert, California
A. According to my references, your toy, No. 711, was introduced and marketed in 1949. Values I've seen are in the $225 to $575 range. Do the math.

"Over the Counter"

by Bill Marcotte, Proprietor

Football pressure. Lets talk about it. Everyone else is, so let's join in! I'm talking about a different kind of pressure. I'm not the biggest football fan, but the pressure does get put on everyone. Do I watch the game at home? Or should I join friends. Suppose they are too noisy, and I don't enjoy it. Should we have chicken wings, and should they be hot, spicy or regular. Do we go with nachos, and if so, do we want hot melted cheese spread, or do we want guacamole? Oh the pressure. Then there is the big dilemma. Do I wear the one Patriots' hoodie that I have, or just go incognito, in something plain (that would be hard for me to do)? Maybe, I should call one of my friends on the west coast and have them send me an opposing team shirt? Just for kicks? The only kick I would get would be out! The pressure... Game day grows closer, and the pressure is on. Do I have time to read THE REMINDER, or should I drop off my drycleaning at CRYSTAL? No time for that. I've got banners to print, Patriot napkins to fold, and the biggest thing? Deciding whether it's the pointed ball or the round ball they are talking about...so much for pressure!! Enjoy the game.

Birding BITS BY Cindy Brook

Fresh Water
I know it's cold out there, but birds still need fresh water. Birdbaths don't have to be fancy. Just make sure they're easy to clean and shallow enough so small birds will use them. Many online and local sources carry de-icers and/or heated birdbaths. The birds will thank you.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You might want to check out the explanation you were given for a sudden shift in your duties. There's a possibility that you haven't been told all the facts that you deserve to know.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Having confidence in your abilities is important, especially when you could be facing a new challenge, whether it's in the workplace or in a personal relationship. Good luck.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A new work-related opportunity might not be all that it seems. Before making any decisions, you might want to check with others who have had some experience in that area.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A situation involving someone close could benefit from your timely intervention. Avoid being judgmental. There'll be plenty of time later for those "little talks" you like to have.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Travel could be a surprise element in that new project. Be prepared for other previously undisclosed aspects that also might come to light as you proceed with the work.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Try to balance your work-related responsibilities with the time you're spending on your recently revived social life. An old friend might be planning to return after a long absence.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your sensitivity makes you aware of the needs of others. Have you considered a career as a counselor?
