ground near brush cover. The doves always find it.

Just Peachy
Peaches are the perfect summer fruit. When they're ripe, they are the sweet taste of summer, whether eaten out of hand or in your favorite dessert.
There are two types of peaches:
Early peaches are clingstone (woody center pit adheres to flesh), and mid-summer peaches are freestone (woody pit falls out easily when fruit is cut in half). Clingstone peaches are firmer and better for canning, grilling or adding to savory cooked dishes. Freestone peaches are softer, juicier and more flavorful. Best of all, peaches are a good source of potassium, vitamin C, vitamin A,
niacin and soluble fiber.
Peaches also are considered a diuretic and a mild laxative.
Peaches spoil very easily, even when unripe.
Choose fragrant peaches that are unblemished and not too hard — they should yield slightly to the pressure of a thumb.
Avoid peaches with green coloring, as they were probably picked too early. They're not as sweet and won't ripen properly. Peaches don't get sweeter after they're harvested, though fruit will become softer and juicier as it matures.
Look for skins that show background color of yellow or cream — the amount of red or pink "blush" on the fruit depends on variety and is not a reliable indicator of ripeness.
Watch out for dark-colored, mushy, bruised peaches that are over-ripe and beginning to spoil. Tan circles or spots on the skin are early signs of decay.
Don't pack peaches too closely, or they'll spoil and cause nearby peaches to rot. Unripe peaches can be left to ripen at room temperature. This process can be hastened by placing them in a paper bag for a few days. Peaches taste best at room temperature and will keep for 3-4 days, slightly longer in the refrigerator. Wash the fruit just before eating.

Peaches peel more easily if blanched for 1 minute, then cooled immediately in ice-cold water to stop the effect of the heat ... do not soak. The flesh of the peach tends to brown on contact with air. To prevent this, eat or cook the peach immediately, or sprinkle it with lemon or orange juice, or an ascorbic-acid product.
Freezing: Select fully ripe fruit.
Peel, pit and slice. Treat to prevent darkening. Sugar pack: sprinkle fruit with desired amount of sugar; gently stir; allow fruit to stand until sugar dissolves; pack fruit into freezer container leaving 1/2 inch headspace.

Syrup pack: Prepare a light, medium or heavy syrup of your choice.
Add 1/2 cup syrup to freezer container; add sliced fruit and gently shake to pack fruit, leaving 1/2 inch headspace.
Dehydrating: Remove skin and pits.
Cut into 1/2 inch slices or circles.
Treat to prevent darkening. Dry at 130 F until pliable with no moisture.
Drying concentrates the nutrients; dried peaches are especially rich in potassium and iron.
My recipe for Grilled Peaches with Lemon Honey Cream is an easy way to showcase the deliciou*s flavor of summer peaches.

GRILLED PEACHES WITH TOPPING

4 large, fresh, ripe peaches, halved
1 1/2 tablespoons butter, melted
2 tablespoons sugar
Lemon Honey Cream Topping
(recipe follows)
8 gingersnaps or vanilla wafers, crushed

1. Heat grill or stovetop grill pan, and grease the grill or pan with a neutral-flavored oil. When grill is hot, place peaches, cut-side down, on it for 5 minutes or until peaches soften and have grill marks.
2. Turn peaches cut-side up; brush with melted butter and sprinkle each with sugar. Remove peaches from grill. Sprinkle half of crushed cookies on each peach. Top with Lemon Honey Cream Topping and sprinkle with remaining cookie mixture.
Serves 4.

LEMON HONEY CREAM

2 cups half-and-half
1/4 cup sugar, stevia or agave nectar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons honey
1/2 tablespoon lemon juice
1/8 teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks

Whisk together all ingredients in a heavy 3-quart saucepan. Bring to boil over medium heat, whisking constantly. Boil, whisking constantly, for 1 minute. Remove from heat. Serve warm or cold. Makes approximately 2 1/3 cups

Making Family Life More Fun

Planning The Perfect Family Reunion

(NAPS)—If you are like most people in America, you've probably been to a family reunion.

According to a recent survey by the global independent research company Ipsos, 63 percent of respondents have been to a family reunion, with 29 percent attending a reunion in the past two years.

How We Reunion

• The average length of a family reunion trip is five days and includes eight adults and four children.

• Families' most cherished reunion memories are simply made of "spending time together" (81 percent), followed by group meals (60 percent). In fact, more than half of respondents also said "cooking great food" is the best way to impress the family.

• The top ways to offend family members are "drinking too much" (28 percent), followed closely by "paying too much attention to your phone or tablet" (26 percent) and "being a cheapskate" (15 percent).

One-third of travelers selected a vacation rental as the ideal accommodation for a family reunion. Vacation rentals are generally twice the space at half the cost of a hotel room, and offer vital amenities for families to spend time, cook, eat, play and make lasting memories together all under the same roof.

How To Plan a Reunion

The survey reveals more than half of reunion-goers begin to plan for their family's event six to 12 months in advance. Therefore, Edith Wagner, editor of Reunions magazine and www.reunionsmag.com, says it's never too soon to start organizing your family reunion and offers these five tips to get started:

1. Don't do it alone. Survey the family's skills and talents, and ask for volunteers. Recruit good cooks to cater a picnic, ask teens to set up and maintain web and Facebook pages and ask a financial whiz to be your treasurer.

2. Set a date and stick to it. Check with others to Whether it's sharing a favorite family recipe, playing in the swimming pool or yard, or late night conversations in the living room, vacation rentals give families the space to spend quality time and make lasting memories together.

see if there are any calendar conflicts, such as weddings, graduations and trips. Send a save-the-date message as soon as it is set and do not change the date under any circumstances.

3. Location, location, location. Like all things in life, location can make or break a reunion. Any spot where families can go on vacation is also suitable for family reunions, as long as there is space to house the attendees. HomeAway.com offers a "sleeps" sort function where you can select the number of people to accommodate, which can help with trip planning.

4. Make it affordable. When it comes to family reunions, planners need to take into account the ages, abilities, resources and life stages of attendees. Make your choices with all income levels in mind so that the reunion is affordable for everyone.

5. Plan something for everyone...but don't over-plan. Know your reunion members and their interests to plan activities that will involve all ages and passions. For example, if golf is important—as it is to 20 percent of reunions—make sure it is on the agenda. That said, remember to include time to just sit, talk, reminisce and be together.

The Garden Bug Huckleberries

Although very similar in taste and appearance to the blueberry, the seeds within the huckleberry give it a crunchy texture when fresh, with a flavor a little more tart than the blueberries. They are found only in the wild, and harvested by hand throughout the summer months; be aware that you may be in a bear's favorite patch! They can be used interchangeably in most blueberry recipes.

Steps You Can Take To Protect Your Eyes And Still Enjoy Fun In The Sun

(NAPS)—Increasingly, consumers are being warned of the dangers posed by too much exposure to the sun. The good news is that there are steps they can take to protect themselves and their family and still enjoy their time outdoors.

The problem, say experts, is that exposure to excessive amounts of UV radiation over a short period of time can cause a condition much like sunburn of the eye, called photokeratitis.

Long-term exposure to UV radiation, however, can be more serious. Even small amounts of UV radiation over a period of many years can increase a person's chances of developing a cataract and may cause damage to the retina, a nerve-rich lining of the eye that is used for seeing.

In addition, the longer the eyes are exposed to solar radiation, the greater the risk of developing conditions such as cataracts or macular degeneration years later.

Gray polarized lenses are often the choice of consumers for everyday wear.

Polarized Lenses Can Help
The American Optometric Association (AOA) recommends wearing quality sunglasses that offer UV protection and wearing a hat or cap with a wide brim whenever you spend time outdoors. Also, certain contact lenses can provide additional UV protection.

"UV protection is greatly important at all ages; however, as the eyes age, UV rays can become even more harmful," said Al Gleek, lens consultant for Safilo, the Group of which Polaroid Sunglasses is a part.

"Without adequate UV protection, the over-40 adult can experience loss of some night vision, quicker onset of cataracts, light sensitivity, the dimming of brightness of overall vision, and possible macular degeneration, a condition of the retina that causes a loss of fine detail in vision. Bottom line: Good-quality sunglasses and regular prescription glasses with UVA, B and C protection are a must," Gleek added.

Wearing sunglasses with polarized lenses can help address both problems by eliminating glare and filtering out harmful ultraviolet rays. By reducing exposure to UV rays, polarized glasses help to reduce the likelihood of a number of eye problems later in life.

An Innovative Approach
One of the latest developments in polarized lens pro-

It's believed that the first braces were constructed in France by Pierre Fauchard in 1728. These braces consisted of a flat strip of metal connected to the teeth by pieces of thread.

duction is Polaroid's Thermo-fusion technology. This innovative production process was developed specifically for the company's UltraSight lenses. It makes it possible to form lenses in a way that fully protects the polarizer that is at the core of the lens.

Specifically, the company is able to create lenses that are thicker in the middle and tapered toward the edges. This helps to preserve sharp images so wearers can perfectly see sizes, shapes and distances perfectly clearly without any eye stress or headache.

Sunglass Shopping Tips

- Remember, darker lenses aren't necessarily better at filtering out UV rays.
- Inexpensive glasses may not be a bargain. Often, cheap imitations fail to provide the same level of protection as authentic polarized lenses.
- Try on several different pairs until you find the most comfortable fit and the pair that looks the best on you.

Many favor a polarized lens with a red or vermilion tint for golf.

- Think of matching different color lenses with different purposes. For example, gray for everyday wear, yellow for driving at dawn or dusk, brown for skiing and boating or vermilion for golf.

Hints For Homeowners

Push Pull Technology Opens The Door To Comfort

(NAPS)—Here's news of an innovation many Americans will want to get their hands on: better door knobs.

Since the U.S. patent for the door knob was awarded in 1878, Americans have rotated door handles trillions of times. Now, an advancement in door handle technology makes opening any door as easy as pushing or pulling a knob or lever.

No Turning Back Now

You can open the door even when your hands are full, using new Push Pull Rotate knobs and levers from Brinks Home Security. With an elbow, a hip or even a single finger, you can push or pull open doors without having to set down your groceries, your toddler or your mobile phone. On a patio door, it makes carrying food in and out a breeze. On an infant's room door, it can mean putting baby to bed without jostling him or her awake. Even if your hands aren't full, it's just an easier way to get through a door.

"There's no mechanical reason that a door knob has to turn open—it's just the way we have always done it. These new Push Pull Rotate handles allow you to open a door three ways, so if your hands are greasy from the garage or covered in barbecue sauce, you don't have to worry about getting the door open," said Julie Ernest of Hampton Products, creators of the product.

Even though pushing or pulling on a door is new, the classic architectural design of these interior and exterior handles can complement any modern or traditional home, with finishes available in satin nickel, polished brass and Tuscan bronze.

Changing It Up

Replacing door handles is one of the simple projects homeowners can undertake to add convenience and refresh the look of their homes. Whether it's installing privacy locks on a master bedroom or even replacing the exterior lock and dead bolt on a front door, all locks can be installed using only a Phillips screwdriver.

Security features found in Push Pull Rotate entry locks include pick, bump and drill resistance and anti-pry shields. These door handles are available at Lowe's and lowes.com, and can be easily rekeyed right in the store to match your existing house key.

Collecting by Larry Cox

Fishing Lures

Q. My dad was quite a fisherman. In fact, most of our family vacations centered around fishing sites and campgrounds. I have several tackle boxes full of lures, and I understand they have value. How can I find out if any that I have are worth keeping? — Bill, Lafayette, Colorado

A. There are several excellent references that should be helpful. A personal favorite is "Classic Fishing Lures: Identification & Price Guide," by Russell E. Lewis and published by Krause Books. This comprehensive guide features lures by such companies as Heddon, Paw Paw, Creek Chub, Pflueger, Shakespeare and South Bend. It features more than 1,500 photos in full color, current pricing, history and facts about lure makers, and even tips on collecting and dating lures.

Q. I picked up a Hummel figurine at a garage sale for $50. It is No. 4, "What's That?" When was it made, and how much is it worth? — Susan, St. Louis, Missouri

A. I found your figurine referenced in "The Official M.I. Hummel Price Guide" by Heidi Ann Von Ricklinghausen and published by Krause Books. According to this guide, your figurine was issued in 1997 as an exclusive preview edition for members of the M.I. Hummel club. It is valued by Voin Ricklinghausen in the $105-$115 range.

Q. This may seem like an unusual question, but several weeks ago I purchased a salt and pepper set at a flea market, and when I got home, I discovered that I could not unscrew the tops. I don't want to use too much pressure since I could break one or both. Do you have any suggestions? — Susan, Evergreen, Colorado

A. Try this. Place your saltshakers upside down in a small bowl of white vinegar. Let the set soak overnight. This should solve your problem.

Q. I have a doll made by Mattel and called "Shopping Sher-yl." I think I got it for my birthday in about 1970. — Elizabeth, Naperville, Illinois

A. Your doll was, indeed, manufactured in 1970 and is valued at $65. I found it in "200 Years of Dolls" by Dawn Herlocher and published by Krause Books.

A Rose by Any Other Game

After two consecutive years of rather nice "farewell tours" for Mariano Rivera and Derek Jeter, baseball fans have been treated this year to a different spectacle altogether with Alex Rodriguez and Pete Rose.

For Rodriguez, his is a series-by-series walk of shame. With every legendary name he passes in the record book — Roberto Clemente, Willie Mays, Frank Robinson — it becomes more and more apparent that what you are watching is not some great sporting feat, but rather an asterisk in action. His name will never be enshrined in Cooperstown, and although he is the greatest Yankee third baseman of all-time in terms of statistics, his face will never adorn a monument out in center field.

What you are seeing with A-Rod is how a fan base is willing to forgive a player of his past sins as long as he can still hit, and for everyone else he is still good enough to be a worthwhile foil. His career will be over soon, and he will fade into history quicker than most people would have you believe. There are enough highlights to fill the reels many times over in the baseball archives. His feats will not be missed.

The reason why people suspect we may be talking about Rodriguez is largely due to Pete Rose. Rose — Charlie Hustle — the guy who bowled over Ray Fosse in an All-Star Game in order to score a measly run in an exhibition; the guy who slid head first, and played any position you told him to play without complaint. Rose ... the last of the old-time baseball players, the link to the 1960s for the '80s generation, the last player-manager and the game's all-time hits leader. Rose ... the guy who is banned from baseball for betting on its games.

Rodriguez won't be banned from the game. He'll still come back to old-timer's games. So will Roger Clemens and Barry Bonds. Mark McGwire will still be a coach in the league. Rose, however, will always be the guy on the outside of the fence, desperate and longing for one brief glimpse of what lies on the other side. No other disgraced athlete has captured our imagination in much the same way as Rose, and there have been plenty of disgraceful athletes. No, it's Rose's lifelong campaign to end his lifelong ban that keeps him alive in our minds.

Rose will be allowed to participate in the All-Star Weekend this season, and as in every other year, there will be talk about lifting the ban so he can enter the Hall of Fame. Rose will point at A-Rod and the dopers of the game and say his crime wasn't any worse, and he will try again for reinstatement to the game he loves.

Don't bet on it, Pete. If it was any other game, you'd have that shot, but baseball keeps two sets of books, and you'll always be in the wrong one.

Mark Vasto is a veteran sportswriter who lives in Kansas City.

JAYCEES & DVDS4VETS

Q. I read in a previous column that there was going to be a "Top Gun" sequel. Do you know if Tom Cruise will be a part of the project? — Danny J., via email

Tom Cruise

A. All signs point to yes. "Top Gun 2" producer David Ellison revealed during a press junket for "Terminator Genisys" that "Justin Marks is writing the screenplay right now. He has a phenomenal take to really update that world for what [the idea of] fighter pilots in the Navy has turned into today. There is an amazing role for Maverick in the movie, and there is no "Top Gun" without Maverick, and it is going to be Maverick playing Maverick. We are very, very hopeful that we get to make the movie very soon. But like all things, it all comes down to the script."

He went on to reveal that drone technology will play a role in the sequel, stating: "When you look at the world of dogfighting, what's interesting about it is that it's not a world that exists to the same degree when the original movie came out. This world has not been explored."

Q. Oh no! I just heard that NBC canceled "Hannibal"! — Sara E., via Twitter

A. NBC has indeed canceled the prequel series to the feature film "Silence of the Lambs." NBC will show all of season three, with the last episode scheduled to air Aug. 27. However, don't despair just yet. "Hannibal" creator Bryan Fuller said he is shopping the series around to different outlets, most likely Amazon Prime. The show currently has a contract for seasons one through three with the online streaming service, so it would make sense for a possible season four to air there. Bryan also said that with the online-streaming method of releasing an entire season at once, it could present an opportunity to do something new with the show.

READERS: I am pleased to announce the winners of the autographed copies of "The Lee Bros. Charleston Kitchen" cookbooks by Matt and Ted Lee. I picked three winners at random, who told me their favorite Southern city for culture and cuisine.

Let's congratulate Bobby V. for choosing Lafayette, Louisiana, for its "multicultural-inspired food that you can't find anywhere else. The folks are real and the festivals are awesome"; Andrew B. for letting me know that "Birmingham, Alabama, always seems to surprise people. We have fabulous music venues, amazing people and a healthy food culture. There's plenty of high-end tastiness here"; and Pat M. for telling me that Charleston, South Carolina, is where she learned to love she-crab soup at Perdita's, which was "a speakeasy with no sign, and a knock on the door got you in." Enjoy your books, and cook me up something spicy as a thank you!

HOLY SPIRIT, You who solve all problems. You light all roads so that I can obtain my goals. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and that in all instances of my life, you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you even and in spite of all material illusions. I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Say for three days. After 3 days the favor requested will be granted even if it appears difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after favor is granted without mentioning favor. Thank you Holy Spirit.

Vegetables Become Star Of The Plate

(NAPS)—As interest in locally grown produce and fresh ingredients rises across the country, a new star is making its way to the center of the plate—vegetables. In recent years, chefs and home cooks alike have taken notice of the rich vegetables that are locally available and the versatility they bring to a meal as the main dish.

Farmers' markets make it easy to find fresh produce worthy of the starring role in any meal. As vegetables become the focus, chefs are finding new ways to prepare and serve up these gems. Edward Leonard, certified Master Chef and Le Cordon Bleu Executive Chef, offers insight on the trend of seasonal specialties.

"Diners have long been in the mind-set that vegetables belong on the side of the plate, next to a protein," said Chef Leonard. "That's shifting as people become more conscious of what they eat and where it comes from. Whether it's rediscovering cauliflower to tasting a wide variety of heirloom tomatoes, we're seeing delicious new dishes that showcase the versatility of vegetables."

According to the chef instructors of Le Cordon Bleu, farmers' markets offer the best options for local produce. Before heading out to the market, they suggest researching which vegetables are in season and potential recipes. Having this information ahead of time will help shoppers make better choices when perusing the produce.

When it comes time to prepare the veggies, consider cooking methods that go beyond steaming and sautéing. Try charring leeks, fresh peppers or aubergine eggplants on the grill. Charring vegetables gives them a boost in flavor, eliminates bitterness and brings out a sweeter flavor. While vegetables can be the feature of the meal, that doesn't mean the dish has to be completely vegetarian. Consider incorporating proteins or meats to elevate the taste and creativity of the dish. For example, stuff tomatoes with ground beef and rice or top a portobello mushroom with crabmeat.

"When it comes to seasonal dining, using vegetables as the main dish expands the range of possibilities and takes advantage of the beautiful produce we have available," said Chef Leonard. "At Le Cordon Bleu, we teach our students the importance of using fresh ingredients and encourage them to think creatively when it comes to developing new dishes."

Students at Le Cordon Bleu learn the foundational techniques necessary to use their skills and passion to create exceptional dishes. Exploring farmers' markets provides a great opportunity to learn about different kinds of produce and ways to feature them in seasonal meals, such as this one:

Eggplant Rolls With Ricotta And Parmesan Cheese

Ingredients:

- 1 pound eggplant
- 1½ cups ricotta cheese
- ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- ¼ cup shredded fresh basil leaves
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- ½ cup chopped spinach (fresh is best)
- 2 cups of tomato sauce
- Fresh basil leaves for garnish

Directions:

Cut the eggplant lengthwise into ¼-inch slices. Sprinkle the slices on both sides with salt and let them sit in a colander for 30 minutes to remove some of the bitterness. In medium bowl, combine the ricotta cheese, Parmesan cheese, chopped spinach, shredded basil and olive oil. Pat the eggplant dry, arrange on a baking pan and bake at 350 degrees for about 15 minutes until the eggplant is soft enough to roll. Set aside to cool.

Spread a heaping teaspoon of the cheese mixture lengthwise down the middle of each eggplant slice, leaving a 1-inch border at the wide end, and, beginning at the narrow end, roll up the eggplant jelly-roll fashion.

Pour a small amount of tomato sauce in the bottom of a shallow baking dish and arrange the rolls, seam sides down, in one layer. Pour the tomato sauce over the rolls and cook for another 20-30 minutes, until heated through.

Transfer the eggplant rolls with a spatula to serving plates and garnish with basil and additional Parmesan to taste. Serves 4.

"If you're looking for more tips or want to bring your cooking skills to the next level, check out the enthusiast cooking classes we offer at Le Cordon Bleu," said Chef Leonard. "Our 16 campuses around the country host a variety of hands-on classes where foodies can learn from our professional chef instructors."

HOLLYWOOD

by Tony Rizzo

Justin Bieber

...dler on the Roof" (1971), "The Color Purple" (1985) and "Dames at Sea" (1968) are headed for Broadway.

Now TV is getting into the act with revivals of old shows: "Full House," with the full cast except the Olson twins, now called "Fuller House" (Netflix); "X-Files," a six-episode event with David Duchovny and Gillian Anderson at Fox; and "Heroes," coming back as "Heroes Reborn," with Jack Coleman, Masi Oka, Sendhil Ramamurthy, Greg Grunberg and Christine Rose, at NBC. There's "Arrested Development," 17 episodes at Netflix; "The Muppets," at ABC; "Coach," with Craig T. Nelson, which picks up 20 years later and "Boy Meets World," now called "Girl Meets World," at Disney. Kyle MacLachlan will return to "Twir Peaks," and The History Channel is talking about reviving the 1977 classic "Roots," with Cicely Tyson.

Is originality dead? Are Broadway and TV executives afraid to produce untried scripts? What's next? Are they going to make copies of us so we can be rebooted?

HOLLYWOOD — Guess we can't ignore social media anymore! Justin Bieber was discovered singing on a YouTube video that led him to the platinum recording of "My World," and Taylor Swift invited 89 of her biggest fans, from social media, to her home last year to hear her new album first. Everything's changing. Years ago, backstage at a taping of "The Facts of Life," I overheard NBC executives discussing actors in teen magazines as potential guest stars because of the social-media fan base they could bring to the show.

Today the top people being followed on social media are: Katie Perry (71 million), Justin Bieber (65 million), President Barack Obama (61 million), Taylor Swift (59 million), Lady Gaga (48 million), Rihanna (47 million), Justin Timberlake (46.5 million) and (44.5 million). Once upon a time, actors went on interviews, read for parts, screen tested and were given a role. Today, they need to have a big social media following as well.

A new, imaginative, heart-warming teen comedy, "Mamaboy," has just been cast, and even though the three final actors were equally qualified, the one with the largest social-media following landed the lead role. We can't reveal his name yet, but I've read the script, and it's poignant in a "Footloose" meets "Junior" kind of way. Stay tuned.

***

Are we taking recycling too far? Broadway is mostly movies turned into musicals: "The Lion King" (1994), "Aladdin" (1992), "Phantom of the Opera" (1925, 1951, 2004), "An American in Paris" (1951), "Les Miserables" (1935, 1957, 1978 TV, 1998, 2014), "Kinky Boots" (2012), "Finding Neverland" (2015), "On the Town" (1949) and "Gigi" (1958), to name some. "Misery" (1990), "Sayonara" (1957) and revivals of "Fid-

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Starting something new is always exciting for the adventurous Aries. And here's the good news: This time you might be able to get some assistance in helping you finish what you've started.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Put your daydreaming penchant on hold for now, and face the facts as they are, not as you'd like them to be. Your customary hardheaded approach to "deals," etc., is called for.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Problems beyond your control might delay some of your plans. But things should start to get back to normal by midweek. The weekend could bring an unexpected (but welcome) visitor.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It's a good time to buckle down and tackle those unfinished tasks so you'll be ready to take on other projects. The week's end could bring an invitation from a most surprising source.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Mixed signals could create a few stressful moments for the Lion. But by midweek, explanations should help ease the tension. The weekend is party time! Share it with someone special.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) This is a good "catching up" week for finishing tasks, calling old friends and maybe reading that book you haven't opened yet or renting that movie you wanted to see again.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Money matters should be worked out, even if it takes time away from a more romantic situation. Better to settle things before feelings turn hard and angry on all sides.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A job-related problem could turn out to be less troublesome than it seemed at first. Just a few moments of talk 'twixt the parties resolves everything to everyone's satisfaction.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) The Sagittarian Archer takes aim at health and fitness issues this week. Watch your diet, and try to put more exercise time into your typically busy schedule.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) As you continue to focus on a career or job change, it's a good time to look over some of your rarely used skills and see where they can fit into your future workplace plans.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A loved one's health might be worrisome, but there's good news by midweek. Expect people who share your ideas and your goals to try to contact you by the week's end.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A colleague's request that makes the typically perceptive Pisces feel uncomfortable is a request you probably will want to turn down. The weekend favors family get-togethers.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a gift for making others feel warm and wanted. Even newcomers will feel like old friends.
