"Style is a way to say who you are without having to speak" ~ Rachel Zoe. On Mon., Nov. 13, 2017, at the age of 92, with her children at her side, Arlene Cardone, a lifelong Medina resident, born May 20, 1925, passed away at Orchard Manor Nursing home following a brief illness. Arlene was predeceased by Bert, her husband of 69 years who, throughout her lifetime, she referred to as "the love of her life." She was also predeceased by her parents, Bert G. and Myrna Miller and an infant brother, Bert Jr. To her many other deceased family members and friends, throughout the years, it was Arlene who was there to celebrate the good times, and a faithful visitor and caretaker when it was most needed. It took the special person who Arlene was to convert a first-floor room in her home to accommodate a formidable mother-in-law, who as her health declined, required a high level of care. As Arlene's final days were approaching, she reminisced with a smile and shared a favorite story with her niece Gabrielle: On Aug. 4, 1943, as her parents were perusing the evening paper, much to their shock, they read that their closely watched and much loved daughter had cleverly managed to elope that afternoon with a determined sailor, named Bert who was home on leave and on a mission. As Arlene chuckled and told the story, the prediction was the marriage would not last six months. How wrong they were! No one has ever disputed that Aug. 4, 1943, was the luckiest day of Bert Cardone's life. In 1947 Bert and Arlene opened the Medina Trading Post, and it was Arlene who managed the day-to-day business while Bert handled public relations by hunting, fishing, and frequenting a card game or two. In lockstep and confounding many, they went on to launch other successful small businesses. Arlene also opened her own businesses, Arlene's Crafts, and then at 71 decided a career change was in order when she became a certified nail technician, opened her own Shoppe, and delighted herself and a number of clients who became friends. Whether it was their summer cottage in Sturgeon Falls, Canada, or their home in Medina, Arlene had a talent for design and decorating. Making a house an inviting and comfortable home not only brought her joy, it also served to showcase her flair for hosting, throughout the years, memorable dinner parties and gatherings. To the delight of her burgeoning family and fan club, she made the most delectable homemade pies her signature, much anticipated grand finale. Arlene leaves an example of generosity, graciousness and a life well-lived to her children: Jack (Peggy) Cardone of Lockport, and Gilda (Thurman) Mallard of Medina; a sister, Barbara Miller of Henderson, Nev.; four granddaughters: Michelle (Doug) Cimino of Hatfield, Pa., Amber Conway of York, Jenna and Justine Cardone of Grand Island; and great-grandchildren, Madison Cimino, and Brady and Shaelyn Conway. Arlene is also survived by her friend and sister in law, Rose Cardone, and will be remembered by her many nieces and nephews as the aunt who spoke volumes through her actions and quiet resolve, who never wavered in her loyalty once given, and lit up a room with style and poise. Relatives and friends called Fri., Nov. 24, 2017, at the Cooper Funeral Home, 215 W. Center St., Medina, followed by a service officiated by the Rev. Daniel J. Fawls. The family received friends and shared reminisces following the service at the VFW, 216 E. Center St., Medina. Arlene so enjoyed flowers, and shortly before her passing, she ordered a large assortment of spring planting bulbs. In memory of Arlene Cardone her family respectfully requests that those who wish to remember her might do so by a gift of planting bulbs or flowers "for someone as special in their lives as she was in ours."

Surrounded by family and friends, Andrew Scott Carpenter, at the age of 36, passed peacefully away on Nov. 17, 2017, after a 20-month battle with leukemia. He lived in Hawaii for two years before returning home to attend SUNY Brockport, graduating with a degree in accounting. He settled in Fredericksburg, Va., to be near his brother and best friend, Travis. Andy was a financial analyst for the Missile Defense Agency. He was an avid Buffalo Bills fan and favored the music of Chris Stapleton, whom he saw in concert in July. He donated to St. Jude Children's Hospital because it hurt him that kids could be suffering the way he was. All who knew Andy benefitted from his good heart, quick wit, easy smile (smirk) and his generous heart. He will be missed. Andrew is survived by his loving and devoted parents, Skip and Cindy Carpenter; his brother, Travis (Melissa) Carpenter; and his sister, Jackie (Tony) Frankenberger. He will be forever remembered by his nieces, Katy, Emma, and Charlie; his nephew, Jax; as well as many loving aunts, uncles, cousins and friends. He was predeceased by his grandparents, David and Yvonne Simpson and Stanley and Eleanor Carpenter. ALBION INTERACT CLUB SPENDS DAY AT FOODLINK

Albion High School Rotary Interact members and middle school service-learning students are doing their part to help needy families in the area.

Interact Club students recently spent the day at Foodlink in Rochester learning the supply chain of getting ample resources into the hands of needy students and families.

The students learned that area retailers and producers, like Wegmans, provide thousands of pounds of food daily to food banks like Foodlink, one of over 200 food banks across the country.

From there, food is distributed to local providers like Community Action of Orleans and Genesee. Ultimately it is distributed to identified families. Students learned how vital Foodlink is to the supply line to local food pantries and soup kitchens throughout western New York.

"Each year during the holiday season we are reminded of just how blessed we are to have ample food, shelter, and clothing," ACS Interact advisor and service learning teacher Tim Archer said. "It doesn't take much motivation for our kids to want to give back."

To better understand the next process in the chain Albion Middle School service-learning classes will team up with Community Action of Orleans and Genesee and help pack "holiday baskets" that will be distributed locally prior to the Christmas holiday. In assembly line fashion, the pre-teens pack boxes containing, vegetables, potatoes, desserts, drinks, and more.

WILL POWER

Monetary matters aside, one of the most important reasons to have a will is to be able to nominate a guardian for your children in the event you were to die. Courts usually award custody to the surviving parent, but parents (especially single parents) should consider what might happen if their children were to be orphaned. One nationwide survey of 1,000 adults indicates that only 34% of parents have wills, and that percentage drops to just 11% among people between the ages of 18 and 34. Legally, in most states, the selection of guardian only serves as a suggestion to the court; however, it is imperative to make your preference known to the court.

Most of us think of a will as something we don't need to think about until we start approaching an advanced age. We don't tend to think of it as a contingency plan for the protection of our greatest assets: our children. The Law Office of MACK & PACE can work with you to draft a will that documents your choice of a guardian, in the event something happens to you. Call us to arrange a consultation.

534 Main St., Suite 6

HINT: In addition to naming a guardian for your child, you must also appoint an executor, a trusted person who will administer your estate according to the terms of your will.*

AWARD-WINNING AUTHOR RETURNS TO HOMETOWN TO TALK WRITING AND GIVE ADVICE

Multiple literary award winner and nominee, Julie Berry, recently stopped into the Medina Middle School and High School to give several workshops and talk about her craft.

Mrs. Berry, a native of Medina and a graduate from the school district, has written over 20 books and has received many accolades for her work in young-adult fiction and children's literature. In June of this year, she released her newest book, "The Emperor's Ostrich" which is geared toward children 8 to 12 years of age. She ended her day with a book signing at the Lee Whedon Library.

At the middle school, Mrs. Berry presented two types of workshops. "One was inspirational about her life growing up in Medina and how thankful she was for the opportunity to go to school here with so many wonderful teachers," said seventh-grade teacher Melinda Hill. "The second presentation was a writing workshop where Julie led the students through the type of decision-making she goes through when creating a story. She worked on a large board at the front of the room and students came up with their own ideas. They created a character, who wants something they can't have, enemies and friends of the character and then plotted out how the character can journey to achieve their goal. My students showed they thoroughly enjoyed the writing workshop by bringing wonderful ideas back to class that they were proud to share with me and others."

High School English teacher, Karen Jones, was a classmate of Mrs. Berry's and has been reading Mrs. Berry's "All the Truth That's In Me" with her classes for the past three years. Publisher's Weekly calls it, "Suspenseful and haunting." It has also been optioned to become a movie. "Thematically it is very similar to both "The Scarlet Letter" and "The Crucible." It is unusual since it is written in the second person. That is the reason that drew me to it. This was a writing challenge to herself. I love it for seniors because it leads into our understanding of a deeper symbolism like archetype theory and it offers so many parallels to classic literature. One of their challenges as a senior is that they have to choose a book from our classic literature canon. Some of that literature can be really intimidating, so this could be their window in to talk about themes like sacrifice, love, betrayal, societal norms, and repression. We can talk about this all sorts of stuff and this is our entry point. I think it builds their confidence with tackling much harder literature. The fact that Julie graduated from Medina shows them this is what an author looks like. This is what you can grow up to be. That is encouraging, even to someone like me, a teacher, who has hopes of being an author. I want them to think, maybe I can do that too, no matter what I do."

The seniors had many questions to ask her about her process, what inspires her stories and what advice she would give anyone who wanted to be an author. "She is just so energizing and encouraging," says Mrs. Jones. "She comes all the way from Los Angeles to talk to the students and it means so much to all of us." The dedication to her new book says it all, "To the thousands of children who brainstormed with me in creative writing workshops. To answer the question you frequently ask me; yes, this is really how I write a story. This one is for you."

WORST OPENING DAY EVER

By Douglas H. Domedion

I headed to my deer camp the day before deer season opened but my heart wasn't in it. There were some major issues with the landowner above me that were drastically changing the atmosphere and hunting I have enjoyed in that area for almost 50 years. I sat in my ground blind but the thrill and excitement wasn't there. There seemed to be something else in the air that made it an "off" day. Little did I know that at the end of the day I would learn from my son that his mother and my wife of 37 years had passed. It was the longest and hardest trip home that I ever experienced.

I had wrote a column for this week ahead of time but that is not important now. How life can change in a heart beat.

SENATOR GILLIBRAND INTRODUCES LEGISLATION TO PROMOTE CTE EDUCATION

Senator Kirsten Gillibrand and Senator Todd Young (R-IN) have made it their mission to help students get career and technical education skills. They introduced the "21st Century Strengthening On Programs that Cultivate Learning Approaches for Successful Students Act" and the bipartisan House version of the legislation was introduced by Representatives Tim Ryan (D-OH), Mark Takano (D-CA), and Susan Brooks (R-IN). The legislation would give federal funding for equipment for career and technical education programs and give teachers more training on how to use the equipment.

Statistics show that through 2025, an estimated two million manufacturing jobs could go unfilled because of a lack of skilled workers. In a statement, Senator Gillibrand said, "Technologies like 3D printers, laser cutters and computerized machine tools are transforming American manufacturing and increasing the need for specialized training for manufacturing jobs. To prepare our students with the skills needed for high-tech jobs, this legislation would amend the Perkins Career and Technical Education (CTE) Act to give greater priority to funding for maker education, makerspaces and training for teachers in the application of maker education."

"Many businesses and manufacturers are struggling to find qualified employees," she said while addressing staff, students and guests at Charles D'Amico High School in Albion recently. "This would give students the opportunity to learn the skills necessary to get good paying jobs in the high-tech manufacturing sector." She continued, "These jobs are very important and we rely on them every day, whether it's an engineering job, whether it's to help to repair after a hurricane or whether it's a high-tech manufacturing jobs here in western New York."

David Heminway graduated from the Orleans/Niagara BOCES' Machine Tool program in 1976 and was on hand for the press conference. He went to work for Kodak after graduation and then worked for the NY Canal Corporation for the past 23 years and is currently supervisor of the skilled trades for the canal. "I really hope this opens people's eyes up about what career and technical education can do for students. Today's workforce is very competitive and demanding and this will give students an advantage when they leave high school or go on to college."

The career and technical education programs at the Orleans/Niagara BOCES have grown ten percent in the past five years with students graduating with at a 98 percent rate says their Career and Technical Education Director, Joseph Steinmetz. "I am grateful to Senator Gillibrand for personally delivering this good news and I want to thank her for supporting career and technical education. I am very excited about the federal support for our programs, to expand CTE and to give us the opportunities to be competitive. For the jobs of the future we really need the support, because technology is always changing and technology is very expensive. If you look at students who are in the fifth and sixth grade, those jobs even invented yet. We have to make sure we have the technology to keep students up to date in the training and skills they need so they can get good paying jobs. The jobs of future are going to be skilled trades." He added that BOCES spends about $150,000 to $200,000 a year to provide students with the latest technology.

"Our students should be able to take many different paths in order to get a good job and earn a good salary," says Senator Gillibrand. "This bill would help equip more students with the skills they need to get on a path toward good-paying, high-tech jobs when they graduate high school."

Day of Thanks

I would like to thank God Almighty for my best friend, Kathleen L. Dunn Lindsley. She went to heaven July 22 and her belated birthday would have been Nov. 19.

We knew each other through high school, marriages, and raising children even though we lived miles away. She was a very loving person.

Thank you, Lord for those beautiful years.

Kathleen Martin

Tips on how to write CLASSIFIED ADS that sell!

- 1 USE A KEY WORD. This immediately tells the reader exactly what you have to sell.
- 2 Make your description CLEAR AND FACTUAL. State the year, make, model, color & size and tell what condition the item is in. Also, state the special features.
- 3 STATE THE PRICE. Successful classified advertisers have learned that the price in an ad helps increase the chances for results.
- 4 IF THERE IS A GENUINE SENSE OF URGENCY, say so. The words "We're moving," or "Must sell fast," suggest that readers respond immediately.
- 5 INCLUDE YOUR PHONE NUMBER. Classifieds get results fast and often generate immediate sales. If you cannot be available to answer the phone at all times, be sure to specify special calling times such as "after 9pm" or "before 11am."

Building Co-Ops

City dwellers looking to buy rather than rent an apartment may come across real estate listings categorized as “co-ops.” While co-ops can exist anywhere, Realtor.com notes that they are most common in big cities, comprising as much as 75 percent of the housing inventory in the borough of Manhattan in New York City. Co-op is short for “cooperative,” and people who buy into a co-op are not technically buying property but shares in an entity that owns the property where investors will ultimately live. The bigger the apartment in the building, the more shares the buyer will own. Residents of a co-op typically elect fellow residents to serve on the co-op board. That board is tasked with making a host of important decisions, including choosing who will and will not be allowed to join the cooperative. Co-op boards may require that applicants meet certain financial requirements. Unlike buying a single-family home, duplex, townhouse, or condominium, people interested in buying into a co-op may have put down no less than 20 percent the value of the apartment where they hope to live. Co-op dwellers will also be expected to pay monthly maintenance fees that go toward insurance, taxes and other building expenses. ■

BOCES STUDENTS UNDERGO OSHA TRAINING

Tom Glomb and Gordon Delay with teacher Bill Leggett and students.

Trainers from OSHA (Occupational Safety and Health Administration) recently paid a visit to the Orleans Career and Technical Education Center to talk to students in the Building Trades and Electricity/Electronics programs.

OSHA works with the public to promote safe, healthy and secure workplaces and enhance workers' voice on the job. Since 2003, the alliance has trained more than 8,000 students in the fundamentals of construction safety and health. Training covers the importance of workplace safety, recognition of the major hazards in construction work and building a safety culture within an organization. The instructional base of the safety and health training now includes building trades students and contractors.

Building Trades teacher, Matt Anastasi, took OSHA trainings with Tom Glomb, which allows him to train Orleans/Niagara BOCES employees and students. "He mentioned to me that he had formed an alliance with OSHA and his company, Lehigh Construction, and that they offered these trainings to many other BOCES programs. So I asked him to be a guest presenter because I knew he would offer a unique view of safety perspectives," says Mr. Anastasi. "Gordon Delays has incredible knowledge and training as an OSHA inspector so he is able to give insights as to what a tremendous resource OSHA can be for the workforce, employers and owners in construction."

Mr. Delay brought in many training pieces in fall protection since falls are the number one area of accidents and deaths on a worksite. Students had a chance to try on the protection harnesses. Mr. Glomb talked to the students about his company's approach to safety and how successful it has been. He told them that they noticed more productivity and lower insurance premiums due to a safer workplace.

Mr. Anastasi and Electricity/Electronics teacher, Bill Leggett, were glad to be able to offer their students a ten hour OSHA Construction Industry training. This type of training is mandatory to work on any commercial or industrial worksite. "The card that I will issue will allow our students that ability upon graduation," says Mr. Anastasi. Many employers are excited to see the students have already received this training as they know that they have made safety a priority."

What is a Business Plan?

Businesses large and small can benefit from drafting business plans before beginning operations. A business plan is a description of a business' projected future, and this document will spell out exactly what a business owner plans to do and how he or she will put that plan in motion.

Forbes says that entrepreneurs can benefit from business plans because the process of developing them will help business owners understand which type of business he or she would like to create and the type and amount of funding and other resources that will be needed to get the business functioning. Although business plans may be optional, one instance in which they are often required is when entrepreneurs are seeking funding. That's because lenders often require business plans to weigh the risks and benefits of investing in a potential business.

Entrepreneurs can use templates to draft business plans and then fill in specific details. Here are some components to include in the plan.

- Executive summary: This is a synopsis of the entire plan with all of the essentials briefly discussed. Include the reasons why the business will be successful.

- Business description: In this section, entrepreneurs can provide a profile of the company. Information can include location, size, planned operations, and the target market.

- Industry analysis: Here business owners discuss the market in which the business will be competing, including how large the market is and whether or not there are any trends affecting this type of endeavor.

- Marketing, products and sales: In this portion of the plan, owners mention the products or services being offered. Strategies for branding, marketing and how the product/services will be sold also are included.

- Operations: The operations portion of the plan will detail the processes the business needs to address on a daily basis to be successful.

- The team: In the business plan, entrepreneurs should also identify the personnel who will be helping to run the company, including why these people are qualified for the job.

Business plans are helpful for entrepreneurs. ■

How to Protect Your Confidential Information

Despite a move toward a more digital and mobile workplace, a recent survey by Shred-it shows paper is here to stay, with most businesses reporting hard copies of documents will either increase or remain the same. As a result, it is critical that businesses protect their information in all forms while ensuring they have the correct policies in place.

Three common practices routinely put businesses at risk of a security breach, so it's imperative to avoid these common pitfalls. An awareness of these bad habits can help businesses protect themselves and their sensitive information.

1. Recycling paper in blue bins: Although the documents are ultimately recycled and destroyed, they are exposed while in the blue bin. A fraudster can easily remove assets from the bin and use the information for their own purposes. To keep your information secure, use locked secure consoles. These will keep the information irretrievable and keep it secure until it is ready to be destroyed.

2. Leaving things on desks: Documents left on desks are not always secure, as anyone can easily come by and see confidential information. This exposes the information and puts you at risk of a security breach. It is wise to implement a clean desk policy that requires everyone to ensure that their desk is clear when they are away from it.

3. Only shredding documents that have clearly confidential information: This might be enough, but it is best to shred all documents if you want to guarantee that no information is compromised in any way. Shred-it suggests that you implement a Shred-it-All policy, which takes the guesswork out of what to shred and ensures your confidential information stays private. ■

Advice for a Successful Career Change

Individuals change jobs for many reasons, including greater professional satisfaction, money or a change of location. The financial experts at The Balance say that people change jobs more frequently than many people may think, noting today's average worker changes jobs 12 times during his or her career.

It is not uncommon for workers to change careers several times in a lifetime. The notion that the job a person starts out in directly after graduation is the one that he or she will have for the rest of his or her life - or at the very least, several years - is no longer the norm. Many younger workers migrate between jobs for greater compensation and fulfillment. Older workers, too, are faced with career stagnation. A survey from the University of Phoenix School of Business found 59 percent of working adults say they're interested in taking the leap of a midlife career change.

Once the idea for a career change has been planted in a person's mind, he or she may be anxious to jump right in. However, career coaches and other experts say that it is better to take the transition slowly and confirm that changing careers is truly the path to take. Finding the right time for the transition is equally important. These steps can help professionals as they decide if the time is right to change careers.

- Research the job market. Look into the industries for the field you are considering. Is it the right time for success in this field? Industries tend to ebb and flow. Do not leave a job only to find the next career has few, if any, openings. Job growth projections are available through resources like the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

- Assess your likes and dislikes. Another area of consideration is what you like to do. Leaving a job may be based around finding a career that caters to your interests. Make a list of the types of careers you find appealing. To get help, take a career assessment quiz online.

- Don't choose a career based on salary alone. Monster.com says that being financially strategic when choosing a new career is important, but shouldn't be the only factor. Your personal values, experience and other factors such as family should weigh heavily into your decision as well.

- Use your network. The notion that "it's not what you know, but who you know" has some truth to it. Successful job-seekers continually expand their professional contacts. This is achieved by going to informational interviews, attending trade association meetings and reviewing trade publications. Target people who work at the companies where you see yourself, so you can get the inside track about job openings.

- Get new skills. Learn which skills you have that are transferrable to a new career and which ones you may need to acquire. Take a course or two or sign up for training seminars. Don't immediately assume you need to return to school before investigating other, less costly avenues.

Changing jobs and careers takes effort, but the results can be worth it in the long run. ■

Potaotes Perfect for the Holiday Breakfast Table

Holiday dinners may get all the glory, but men and women who host friends and family each holiday season know that time spent with loved ones at the breakfast table can be just as enjoyable as breaking bread in the evening. A homecooked meal first thing in the morning is a great way to start the day, and hosts who want to serve up something familiar with a little extra flavor can try the following recipe for “Skillet-Roasted Potatoes with Mushrooms and Pancetta” from Betty Rosbottom’s “Sunday Brunch” (Chronicle Books).

Skillet-Roasted Potatoes with Mushrooms and Pancetta

Serves 4

4 ounces pancetta, cut into 1/4-inch cubes (see note)
3 tablespoons olive oil, plus more if necessary
1 pound Yukon gold potatoes, unpeeled, scrubbed and quartered
Kosher salt
Freshly ground black pepper
10 ounces cremini or brown mushrooms, quartered
6 garlic cloves, peeled and halved crosswise
2 teaspoons dried thyme
Several fresh thyme sprigs for garnish (optional)

1. Arrange a rack at center position and preheat the oven to 400 F.

2. In a large, heavy, ovenproof frying pan (preferably cast iron) set over medium heat, sauté the pancetta until golden and crisp, 5 to 7 minutes. Remove with a slotted spoon to drain on paper towels.

3. Remove all but 2 tablespoons of the drippings from the pan. (If you don’t have 2 tablespoons, add olive oil to make this amount.) When hot, add the potatoes and sauté, stirring, until they start to take on a little color, 5 to 7 minutes. Season with salt and pepper and place the frying pan in the oven. Roast for 15 minutes.

4. Remove the frying pan from the oven and add the mushrooms, garlic and the 3 tablespoons of olive oil. Add the dried thyme and season with more salt and pepper. Toss to coat well.

5. Return the pan to the oven and roast until the potatoes are golden brown and tender and the mushrooms are softened, about 15 minutes more. Remove the frying pan from the oven and stir in the reserved pancetta. If desired, garnish the center of the pan with fresh thyme sprigs. Serve warm.

Note: If buying pancetta from a deli, ask for it to be cut thickly into 1/4-inch slices. Prepackaged pancetta is often thinly sliced. ■

Do you have HEEL pain or ARCH pain?

HEEL SPUR SYNDROME/PLANTAR FASCITIS is a common problem among people who are active. It starts as a dull intermittent pain in the heel which may progress to a sharp persistent pain. Classically, it is worse in the morning with the first few steps, after sitting, after standing, or after walking.

- Plantar fasciitis often begins with irritation and tearing of the fibrous band of tissue on the bottom of the foot, which may eventually result in the formation of a heel spur.
- Contributing factors: flat pronated feet, high arched feet, poor shoe support, increased age, sudden weight increase, increased activity level, family tendency.
- Approximately 2-3 times your body weight of force is exerted on each foot with walking. Flexible, non-custom molded arch support found at those advertised shoe stores cannot support these forces and usually do not provide long-lasting relief, do not come with a lifetime warranty, and are typically more expensive than custom-molded ones made by our office.
- 95 percent of our patients symptoms are resolved with conservative treatment, avoiding surgical intervention.
- We also offer surgical procedures with the best post-op success rates using Endoscopic Plantar Fasciotomy techniques and EPF resulting in minimal incisions and scarring, immediate ambulation and often back in a shoe in one week.

If you can't remember when your feet didn't hurt, now is the time to give us a call!

Natural Remedies

As prevalent as prescription medications are, all-natural remedies for common illnesses and conditions are still a viable alternative to prescription medications for many people. But are these all-natural options safe?

Although conventional care is often an effective means to treating illnesses and other conditions, there are many doctors who agree that implementing natural remedies at times can be safe and effective. Furthermore, not all natural remedies are without merit, and some traditional medicines are actually derived from natural, plant-based ingredients themselves.

According to surgeon and author, Dr. Walter C. Thompson, "Herbal medicine is safe because it's natural. After researching the literature, one can truly say that, at the very least, herbal medicine is safer than conventional drugs." Those thinking about incorporating natural remedies into their health regimen can consider the following options.

- Nervousness and anxiety: Try lettuce, chamomile, valerian, and rose petals.
- Pain relief: Use omega-3 fatty acids, green tea, ginger root, and tumeric.
- Itchiness: Witch hazel, jewelweed and aloe vera are effective.
- Feminine issues: Parsley, basil and goldenseal can alleviate symptoms associated with menstruation.
- Antibiotics: Oregano and garlic are purported to have antibiotic qualities and can fend off harmful bacteria.
- Infections: Honey has long been used to heal and as an antibacterial and antifungal remedy.

Many natural foods are effective in preventing and fighting cancer as well.

Although natural remedies can be effective, it's important for pregnant women to avoid any herbs and plant supplements until discussing the risks/benefits with their doctors. Also, some natural remedies can interact with prescription drugs or increase their potency, so it's important to talk to a doctor about any plans.

Signs of a Stroke

Sometimes symptoms of a stroke are difficult to identify. The stroke victim may suffer severe brain damage when people nearby fail to recognize the symptoms of a stroke. Now doctors say a bystander can recognize a stroke by asking a few simple questions:

- 1) Ask the person to SMILE.
- 2) Ask the person to TALK AND SPEAK A SIMPLE SENTENCE. i.e. It is sunny out today.
- 3) Ask the person to RAISE BOTH ARMS.
- 4) Ask the person to STICK OUT HIS TONGUE. If the tongue goes to one side or the other, that is a sign of a stroke.

OTHER STROKE WARNING SIGNS

- Sudden numbness or weakness of the face, arm or leg, especially on one side of the body
- Sudden confusion, trouble speaking or understanding
- Sudden trouble seeing in one or both eyes
- Sudden trouble walking, dizziness, loss of balance or coordination
- Sudden, severe headache with no known cause

If you or someone with you has one or more of these signs, don't delay! Call 9-1-1 immediately!
