ROOFING

We Will Save You Money... Guaranteed!!

4 Things You Need to Know When Hiring a Roofer:

1. We recommend to NEVER give a roofing contractor a deposit of any kind prior to job completion. Everyone knows someone burned by a contractor.
2. We recommend NEVER to do business with a roofing contractor that has been in business less than 10-15 years. 80% of roofers go out of business within the first 5 years and then your warranty is worthless.
3. We recommend NEVER to have your roof replaced by XXX Home Improvements, XXX Construction or any other name that does not include "Roofing". Most of these companies do not have proper roofing insurance.
4. We recommend to ALWAYS check with the Rhode Island Contractors Board @ www.crb.gov/ to check out the company and their track record.

The Sporting Life

There comes a time in every RV owner's life when the really cool, child-like idea of having a "home on wheels" turns into a very grown-up realization that, holy [crap], they have a home on wheels. Every problem that a house can have can happen in that motor home, but further away from civilized society and a zillion times more expensive to fix. Also, there comes a time when the romantic beck and call of the open road mutates into harpie-like screams when you go to fill up the tanks — water, gas and propane.

And if that wasn't enough to alter your perspective, the first time you empty your RV's "black water" tank, you will have a renewed appreciation for the terms "indoor plumbing" and "municipal water and sewer." I'm not going to go too deep into this situation, but if you've ever felt weird about letting somebody use the bathroom in your house, you probably don't want to think about letting them use the bathroom in your RV where, if you're not hooked-up to a sewer pipe, you will in essence (no pun), have a souvenir of their visit to your bathroom stored in a tank underneath your bed for days, maybe weeks.

But I am not here to disparage the use or purchase of RV's in this space or make fun of RVers, for as Father Damian once said to the lepers of Molokai, I am now one of you. Many RVers know what they are doing and knew full well what they were getting into before they made their purchases. They did the research, maybe they rented an RV for a bit, or drew upon youthful memories of camping or military experience. Then there are those who buy an RV during a manic phase, midlife crisis or for an application that the RV owner soon will find out he cannot use the RV for without incurring the wrath of the insurance industry.

I pondered those things one morning, as I watched the sun rise over the wilderness pines, sipping my hose-water-flavored instant coffee, cursing the battery life on my iPad and handing out $100 bills to the mechanic underneath my RV who was securing my water tank to the under carriage, something that is essential for driving but not covered under my warranty, "extended warranty" or insurance. It could have been worse, of course — it can always be worse — this could have happened a day's hike out in a desolate location in the middle of bear country and not this one, which if I were to hike 75 yards straight through the line of trees in front of me, would take me to the backside of the Kissimmee Panda Express.

It was then and there that I decided to gather my thoughts and add them to the din of RV help sites that are scattered around the web. I'll start with the three things you definitely must have in order to have an all-around great experience RVing, be it full-time or vacation only.

No. 1: A sense of humor; No. 2: Money. Lots of money; No. 3: Anticipation.

I wasn't looking for a discount funeral. I was looking for an affordable one.

Most "discount funerals" mean less money, less service, less attention to detail, less of everything. An affordable funeral is a complete funeral based first on the needs of the family, then priced to fit within their budget.

Random Acts of Kindness...

Sometimes we meet people by chance and they become friends instantly. I want to recognize Roger Plante and Maurine Buffy. They came years ago to work at the Coventry Community Garden. The people of this town, have NO idea the hours or the work that these two people do for their town. But I do.

Roger plants all the seeds for the cold crops and the tomatoes for the Community Garden starting in early March. He and his wife Nancy keep them warm and baby them until they are planted into the garden at the middle of May. This is after cleaning and getting the beds ready for planting. Then he cares for them until they fruit and go to our food pantry for distribution. Maurine, helps to do the garden cleanup as well as planting with Roger and keeping things growing. Then in the afternoon, she cleans and beautifies the Historical Cemeteries in town.

If it wasn't for the help of these two very underpaid and overworked volunteers we could never have given the TONS of fresh produce to our food pantry here in Coventry.

Thank you both, for all your time and kindness.

Hints For Homeowners

Portable And Standby Generators: Deciding Which Is Right For You

(NAPS)—When it comes to safe, reliable backup power in the event of an outage, homeowners have several options to consider. That's important, because power outages are becoming more frequent due to severe weather, as well as an aging electrical grid. Many of these power outages can last for days—even weeks—at a time. This can lead to discomfort, spoiled food, lost productivity (especially if you work from home), increased security risks and the chance of flooding due to frozen pipes or a sump pump malfunction.

Power to the people: A standby generator connects to your home permanently and turns on automatically when power is lost.

“Homeowners have two main options when it comes to backup power: portable generators or standby generators,” said Ed Del Grande, a master contractor, TV host and home improvement author. “Both are built for different purposes, so it's important to analyze your individual needs prior to making a purchase.”

pumps, home security systems, office equipment and sensitive electronics, including TVs and computers.

Companies such as Kohler offer larger standby units that can power an entire home, as well as more compact-sized, affordable standby generators that are good for smaller homes, cabins or situations requiring less power. An 8-, 10- or 12-kilowatt standby generator will power a few key items during an outage, such as a refrigerator, lights and sump pump. Some of the newer models can even start a 5-ton central air conditioner while still powering other items.

Portable Generators
 As the name would indicate, portable generators are mobile and can be moved into place wherever needed. These generators—which are great for work sites, tailgates and camping—can power several items, such as a plug-in appliance or lamp using properly rated extension cords. They run on gasoline or diesel and are manually operated. Portable generators must be operated outdoors away from a home due to carbon monoxide issues.

“No matter the size, a standby generator provides great peace of mind and can protect everyone in your home—especially those who are most vulnerable, like children and the elderly,” Del Grande said.

If a standby generator is right for you, consider getting a unit that offers:

- A commercial-grade engine that powers up quickly, provides high-quality, consistent power and can handle heavy loads
- At least a five-year warranty
- A bold, clean look and corrosion-resistant housing, which is critically important if you live near salt water.

The Sporting Life

There comes a time in every RV owner's life when the really cool, child-like idea of having a "home on wheels" turns into a very grown-up realization that, holy [crap], they have a home on wheels. Every problem that a house can have can happen in that motor home, but further away from civilized society and a zillion times more expensive to fix. Also, there comes a time when the romantic beck and call of the open road mutates into harpie-like screams when you go to fill up the tanks — water, gas and propane.

And if that wasn't enough to alter your perspective, the first time you empty your RV's "black water" tank, you will have a renewed appreciation for the terms "indoor plumbing" and "municipal water and sewer." I'm not going to go too deep into this situation, but if you've ever felt weird about letting somebody use the bathroom in your house, you probably don't want to think about letting them use the bathroom in your RV where, if you're not hooked-up to a sewer pipe, you will in essence (no pun), have a souvenir of their visit to your bathroom stored in a tank underneath your bed for days, maybe weeks.

But I am not here to disparage the use or purchase of RV's in this space or make fun of RVers, for as Father Damian once said to the lepers of Molokai, I am now one of you. Many RVers know what they are doing and knew full well what they were getting into before they made their purchases. They did the research, maybe they rented an RV for a bit, or drew upon youthful memories of camping or military experience. Then there are those who buy an RV during a manic phase, midlife crisis or for an application that the RV owner soon will find out he cannot use the RV for without incurring the wrath of the insurance industry.

I pondered those things one morning, as I watched the sun rise over the wilderness pines, sipping my hose-water-flavored instant coffee, cursing the battery life on my iPad and handing out $100 bills to the mechanic underneath my RV who was securing my water tank to the under carriage, something that is essential for driving but not covered under my warranty, "extended warranty" or insurance. It could have been worse, of course — it can always be worse — this could have happened a day's hike out in a desolate location in the middle of bear country and not this one, which if I were to hike 75 yards straight through the line of trees in front of me, would take me to the backside of the Kissimmee Panda Express.

It was then and there that I decided to gather my thoughts and add them to the din of RV help sites that are scattered around the web. I'll start with the three things you definitely must have in order to have an all-around great experience RVing, be it full-time or vacation only.

No. 1: A sense of humor; No. 2: Money. Lots of money; No. 3: Anticipation.

Collecting by Larry Cox

Cutting Boards

Q. I have three cutting boards that have been in my family for a number of years. They are identified as being made in Yugoslavia. — Robin, Northumberland, Pennsylvania

A. The pictures you sent of your cutting boards indicate to me that they are probably from the 1950s or '60s. The design seems to be hand-crafted. I would suspect they would sell in a shop or at an antique mall for about $15 or $20 each. Kitchen items have become popular with collectors and prices have increased in recent years. For example, mixing bowls, cooking utensils and even pie birds have doubled in price during the past decade.

A good general reference is "300 Years of Kitchen Collectibles" by Linda Campbell Franklin (Krause Books, $29.95). This telephone directory-size guide has updated prices for such items as nutmeg graters, eggbeaters, muffin pans, sifters, tea kettles and woodenwares. It is comprehensive and accurately reflects the current marketplace.

Q. I have a bell made by Fenton and would like to find out more about it. — Judith, Southside, West Virginia

A. Since your bell was made by Fenton, I highly recommend "Warman's Fenton Glass" by Mark F. Moran and published by Krause Books. This reference book has a section about bells made by the company. A second source is the American Bell Association, one of the better groups for collectors. Annual dues are $35, and it includes a subscription to its excellent bi-monthly magazine, "The Bell Tower." For more information, contact the ABA at 26 Hunting Lodge Drive, Miami Springs, FL 33166.

Q. My dad was stationed in Japan during the 1960s, and when he returned to the United States he brought my mom a set of Nippon china. Although it is a beautiful set, I can't imagine ever using it. — Sarah, Grand Junction, Colorado

A. Perhaps it's time to contact the International Nippon Collectors' Club to see if there is any interest. Contact is www.nipponcollectorsclub.com, and 301-748-2427.

Q. I have inherited a Singer Sewing Machine with a serial number of G-0999067. When was it made? — Lynn, Mason City, Iowa

A. Your sewing machine was manufactured in 1924.

Hints For Homeowners

Heat Pump Or Furnace—Which Is Right For Your Home?

(NAPS)—When a new heating system is in your home's future, you'd be wise to consider the pros and cons of heat pumps and furnaces. Both distribute air through a home using heated air rather than heated water. A heat pump does this by extracting heat from outside air and circulating it through your home. A furnace uses electricity or gas to produce heat.

The following tips can help in selecting the system that's right for you:

- Consider the climate. For people who reside in areas where the temperature rarely dips below 30 degrees, a heat pump may be more affordable than a furnace, removing heat from outside air and transferring it to the home. As temperatures drop below 30 degrees, the heat pump must work harder to extract heat and its efficiency decreases as a result.
- Compare efficiencies. The efficiency of a heat pump is indicated by the unit's heating seasonal performance factor (HSPF), while the annual fuel utilization efficiency (AFUE) measures the efficiency of a gas furnace. The higher the HSPF or AFUE, the more efficient the unit and the less fuel it requires to heat your home.
- Evaluate fuel costs. Electric furnaces are often considered 100 percent efficient. However, these units may be more expensive to operate, depending on the cost of electricity. That's why it's always important to consider the cost of available fuels, including electricity, natural gas and oil, and how they will affect operating costs of the unit you select.

- Consider controls. Electronic ones may offer tighter temperature control and the ability to program periods of temperature setback, improving system efficiency and occupant comfort.
- Choose a quality brand. Look for a brand of equipment with a reputation for quality and reliability.
- Look for multi-stage units. Some furnaces, such as the Luxaire Acclimate series from Johnson Controls, offer multi-stage and variable-speed capabilities that improve efficiency, maintain constant temperatures and reduce sound levels.

HINTS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Heating and Air-Conditioning Tips From The Pros

(NAPS)—Next to your home itself, a home comfort system is one of the largest investments you will make. That's why the decision to purchase a heat pump, gas furnace or central air conditioner is a significant one—a decision that requires careful thought and research.

To help you make an intelligent decision about heating, ventilation and air-conditioning (HVAC) equipment, here are 10 common questions—and answers—from the experts at the Coleman brand of Johnson Controls.

1. Is installing a central HVAC system really necessary?

In new homes or remodels, a central home comfort system provides the highest level of overall comfort, indoor air quality and humidity control.

2. Should I repair or replace my existing system?

As a rule of thumb, replace your existing home comfort system when repairs cost 30 percent of a new purchase—or when utility bills have increased 50 percent as a result of older, less-efficient systems that use more, higher-priced electricity.

3. How much can I save with new equipment?

Air-conditioning and heating equipment consume about 44 percent of a home's energy bill. Today's ENERGY STAR-qualified systems are as much as 60 percent more efficient than 10-year-old equipment.

4. How do I select the right heating/cooling system?

Get solid advice from an expert. The right contractor can perform a load calculation or an energy analysis to determine your operating costs. After getting to know your needs, he or she can customize a system just for you.

5. How can I be sure I'm selecting the right contractor?

Seek out a contractor who is associated with a recognized brand. If the contractor is backed by the product and training resources of a major manufacturer, you will feel confident that you're getting the home comfort system that best meets your needs.

6. If I have an existing system, can any of these components be reused?

Every system is different. After a thorough inspection of your electrical system, ductwork and other components, your contractor will provide a rundown of what you need to replace and what you can keep.

7. What is the best thermostat to use with my system?

Look for a programmable thermostat for accurate, reliable, energy-saving performance. For added savings and convenience, the Coleman Echelon Residential Communicating Control with Wi-Fi support works with mobile devices to easily program your system, wherever you are.

8. What does the air handler do for my system?

An air handler circulates conditioned air throughout your home. You can combine it with accessories to filter, humidify or dehumidify the air stream as needed.

9. What can I do to improve indoor air quality?

Indoor air can be from five to 100 times more polluted than outdoor air. Adding humidifiers, dehumidifiers, ventilation systems, ultraviolet lights and air filter technologies can dramatically improve your indoor air quality.

10. How complicated is a new system installation?

That depends on the house and the system. While air conditioners and gas furnaces require different components, the common denominator is ductwork, which must be properly sized and zoned for proper system performance. Your contractor can evaluate your existing setup and tell you how simple your installation will be.

The Garden Bug Algae blooms BY BRENDA WEAVER

Lake Erie, October 2011

Soils have a great capacity to filter pollutants. But when nutrients, particularly nitrogen and phosphorus, are applied to soil, the excess can pollute local bodies of water, causing extensive algal growth that leads to oxygen depletion. In 2011, record torrential spring rains washed fertilizer into Lake Erie, promoting the worst algae bloom in decades.

Q. I really liked a show on the Cooking Channel called "Unique Eats," especially brothers Matt and Ted Lee. Can you tell me what else they have coming up? — Ginger F., via email

Ted Lee

A. Matt and Ted have a new show airing on Ovation TV called "Southern Uncovered with the Lee Brothers," which premieres Sunday, June 14, at 8 p.m. ET. In each of six episodes, Matt and Ted explore a different city in the South, seeking to expose the unique and unexpected sides of Southern cuisine and culture. I spoke with Ted about their new series, and he told me: "This is the show I feel like we were meant to do all along. The food culture now is so exciting. There are so many Southern cities that we can explore."

months without seeing an outsider.

And they're learning new stuff right along with their viewers. Ted explained: "There is man in Charleston, our hometown, who is aging wine underwater. He has a winery in Napa Valley that makes delicious Napa Valley-style cabernets, and as an experiment in innovation, he's trucking them from Napa to Charleston, putting them in cages, burying them in Charleston Harbor for 18 months, taking them out, and seeing if they taste good."

READERS: Here's the list of CBS shows that have been renewed or canceled. Renewed are: "2 Broke Girls," "48 Hours," "60 Minutes," "The Amazing Race," "Big Brother," "The Big Bang Theory," "Blue Bloods," "CSI: Cyber," "Criminal Minds," "Elementary," "The Good Wife," "Hawaii Five-0," "Madam Secretary," "Mike & Molly," "Mom," "NCIS," "NCIS: Los Angeles," "NCIS: New Orleans," "The Odd Couple," "Person of Interest," "Scorpion," "Survivor" and "Undercover Boss."

Would you like to win one of three autographed copies of the Lee Brothers' newest cookbook, "The Lee Bros' Charleston Kitchen"? Email letters@cindyelavsky.com or write to Cindy Elavsky, KFWS, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32785-6475, telling me your favorite Southern city for culture and cuisine, and I'll put you in the running for the cookbook. Entries must be received or postmarked by June 30.

Shows that have either ended their run or have been canceled include: "Battle Creek," "The McCarthys," "The Mentalist," "The Millers," "Reckless," "Stalker" and "Two and a Half Men." "CSI" has been canceled, however it will wrap up on Sept. 27 with a two-hour movie, which will mark the return of original series star William Petersen. "Unforgettable" also was canceled by CBS, but has been picked up by A&E.

Q. Will "Alaskan Bush People" be back on Discovery Channel? — Marilyn B., via email

A. New episodes began airing Friday, May 29, at 9/8c, where we follow the unique Brown family, who, after being pushed off their land, travel deep into the Alaskan bush to build a small shack where all nine of them will sleep. The Browns have lived their whole lives in the wild, and often go six

Cutting Boards

Q. I have three cutting boards that have been in my family for a number of years. They are identified as being made in Yugoslavia. — Robin, Northumberland, Pennsylvania

A. The pictures you sent of your cutting boards indicate to me that they are probably from the 1950s or '60s. The design seems to be hand-crafted. I would suspect they would sell in a shop or at an antique mall for about $15 or $20 each. Kitchen items have become popular with collectors and prices have increased in recent years. For example, mixing bowls, cooking utensils and even pie birds have doubled in price during the past decade.

A good general reference is "300 Years of Kitchen Collectibles" by Linda Campbell Franklin (Krause Books, $29.95). This telephone directory-size guide has updated prices for such items as nutmeg graters, eggbeaters, muffin pans, sifters, tea kettles and wooden-ware. It is comprehensive and accurately reflects the current marketplace.

Q. I have inherited a Singer Sewing Machine with a serial number of G-0999067. When was it made? — Lynn, Mason City, Iowa

A. Your sewing machine was manufactured in 1924.

Write to Larry Cox in care of KFWS, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475, or send e-mail to questions-forcox@aol.com. Due to the large volume of mail he receives, Mr. Cox cannot personally answer all reader questions, nor does he do appraisals. Do not send any materials requiring return mail.

© 2015 King Features Synd., Inc.

Q. I have a bell made by Fenton and would like to find out more about it. — Judith, Southside, West Virginia

A. Since your bell was made by Fenton, I highly recommend "Warman's Fenton Glass" by Mark F. Moran and published by Krause Books. This reference book has a section about bells made by the company. A second source is the American Bell Association, one of the better groups for collectors. Annual dues are $35, and it includes a subscription to its excellent bi-monthly magazine, "The Bell Tower." For more information, contact the ABA at 26 Hunting Lodge Drive, Miami Springs, FL 33166.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Still operating under a full head of self-esteem makes you want to tackle a matter you had shied away from. OK. But be sure to arm yourself with facts before you make a move.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) That smart move you recently made caught the attention of a lot of people, including some with financial deals to offer. Use your Taurean wariness to check them out thoroughly.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Shyness might keep you from asking for more information on a potentially important matter. But your curiosity grows stronger by midweek and gives you the impetus for data-gathering.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Taking on too many tasks may not be the wise thing to do at this time. You might overspend both your physical and emotional energy reserves, and have to miss out on some upcoming events.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Try to keep your spending at an affordable level. Splurging now — especially on credit — could create a problem if your finances are too low for you to take advantage of a possible opportunity.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You might not approve of a colleague's behavior during much of the week. But don't play the judgmental Virgo card here. As always, check the facts before you assume the worst.

COVENTRY ROTC FOOD COLLECTION FOR OPERATION STAND DOWN

The Coventry ROTC will be collecting nonperishable food items & toiletries for Operation Stand Down on June 6 from 9AM-1PM at Richard's Oil, 275 South Main Street, Coventry. Operation Stand Down is an organization that helps assist RI Veterans. This is not a hand out, it is a hand up to help our Veterans in need.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Coping with an old issue that has suddenly re-emerged could take a big toll on your emotional energies. Decide whether you really want to pursue the possibilities here.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) For all your skill in keeping your secrets safe, you could be unwittingly letting one slip out by the way you're behaving in that new relationship. Are congratulations soon to be in order?

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Good old-fashioned horse sense could help you get around those who unknowingly or deliberately put obstacles in your way. Ignore the confusion and follow your own lead.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A puzzling attitude change in a colleague from friendly to chilly might stem from a long-hidden resentment suddenly bubbling up. An open and honest talk should resolve the problem.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) This week, many ever-generous Aquarians might find themselves feeling an acquisitive urge. If so, indulge it. You've earned the right to treat yourself to wonderful things.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Expect to get a lot of advice on how to go about implementing your plans. But once you've sorted it all out, you'll probably find that, once again, your way will be the best way.

BORN THIS WEEK: You enjoy the quiet times of your life, but when you're in the mood, you can throw a party everyone will want to go to.

What you don't know about your current auto & homeowner insurance coverage... CAN ADVERSELY AFFECT YOUR FINANCIAL WELL BEING!

The Following is devoid of MASCOTS & CLEVER CHARACTERS...
It is information to help YOU!

- Did you know an insured home whose replacement cost is $250,000, MAY have a separate hurricane deductible; separate from a deductible for any other loss?
- a 2% hurricane deductible equals $5,000 BEFORE a company is obligated in settling a HURRICANE LOSS!
- There are Insurers in the State of Rhode Island that do not mandate a statewide, separate hurricane deductible.

IMAGINE an auto insurer that pays up to $225 for lodging (when "your covered auto" is involved in a covered collision loss) if you are 50 or more miles from your principal residence! Imagine no more!

IMAGINE a homeowner insurance that covers the WATER SUPPLY LINE serving your home. Yes, the one which you receive offers in the mail! Imagine no more!

Normal underwriting requirements do apply

PRICE? These company's rates are HIGHLY COMPETITIVE! Shop for features as well as competitive pricing.
