June 25, 1979 ~ September 7, 2005

We've asked an angel in heaven in a special Christmas prayer to protect you as you're sleeping and tend you with great care.

For we felt such pain and heartache when you left us far behind and throughout the celebrations you'll be very much in mind.

And although our tears are falling, peace and solace will be found when we find a pure white feather that has drifted to the ground

Because then we'll know for certain by this sign from up above that an angel's wings surround you with everlasting love.

Merry Christmas In Heaven

The American College of Physicians (ACP) recommends in an evidence-based clinical practice guideline published in Annals of Internal Medicine that physicians treat women with osteoporosis with bisphosphonates (alendronate, risedronate, or zoledronic acid) or denosumab, a biologic agent. The American Academy of Family Physicians has endorsed ACP's guideline. Osteoporosis is a systemic skeletal disease characterized by decreasing bone mass and deterioration of bone tissue that leads to an increased risk for bone fragility and fracture, especially in the hip, spine, and wrist. An estimated 54 million men and women in the United States have low bone density or osteoporosis. About 50 percent of Americans older than 50 are at risk for osteoporotic fracture. ACP's guideline focuses on the comparative benefits and risks of short- and long-term drug treatments for low bone density or osteoporosis, including prescriptions, calcium, vitamin D, and estrogen. The evidence suggests that physicians should treat women with osteoporosis with drug therapy for five years. Continuing treatment after the initial five years may be beneficial for some patients and may be appropriate after reassessing the risks and benefits of continuing therapy.

A new study presented at the Heart rhythm Society's 38th Annual Scientific Sessions has found that dementia rates increase when anticoagulation treatment is delayed for patients with atrial fibrillation, the most common heart arrhythmia in the world that affects more than 2.7 million American adults. Anticoagulants, or blood thinners, like antiplatelets and warfarin are powerful stroke-prevention interventions and are now being prescribed to millions worldwide. However, there's often a delay in starting anticoagulants after an initial diagnosis of atrial fibrillation for a variety of reasons, including low risk of stroke, exploration of other treatment options like aspirin, older age, multiple comorbidities, and more.

Many so-called preachers teach Christians are under grace, not Elohim's law, and deny Christ's Biblical commandments (Jn 14:24), then hold Bible studies and contort unbinding passages of scripture as proof. He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer shall be abomination (Proverbs 28:9). So Be It!

A CHANGING WORLD

Often changes are for the better, and we would not want to go back to the days of no electricity, no indoor plumbing, no air-conditioning, etc. But some things cannot be changed, and for man to attempt to do is both presumptuous and futile. Man's need of salvation will continue to exist, because all have sinned (Rom.3:23) and consequently are in bondage to sin (John 8:34). Regardless of the changes that occur in the world, man's spiritual needs remain the same. Therefore, God's provision for meeting those needs likewise remains unchangeable.
