Wishing Well®

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Random Acts of Kindness...

This is a thank you to the total stranger in the Patriots jacket who shoveled out both ours and our neighbor's driveways on Sunday, February 15th after a recent snow storm. Although neither we or our neighbors knew you, it was such a nice thing you did. It made it a lot easier on Monday morning for us all to get ready to leave for work. God bless you...

Taxes, Taxes, Taxes...

Today's tax laws are complicated, even filing a simple return can be confusing. It is easy to overlook deductions/credits you may be entitled to. There is no substitute for the assistance of an experienced tax professional.

With the exception of the mid-summer classic that Major League Baseball puts on every season, I’m not the biggest fan of all-star games. Skill competitions? Yes ... big fan. And why the NFL still can’t figure out how to have some sort of quarterback shootout is beyond me. Who wouldn’t want to see Peyton Manning versus Tom Brady trying to hit, say, a pinata from 60 yards out?

This year’s NBA all-star game caught my interest a bit, though. The game was being held in New York, and you couldn’t get a hotel room in Manhattan. Besides the NBA, it was fashion week, or something along those lines, and you had the 40th anniversary of “Saturday Night Live.”

What I found interesting from an NBA sense was that Knicks star Carmello Anthony was planning on “shutting it down” after the game for the season. The Knicks are the worst team in basketball, he’s been playing hurt, and it was being reported that they were going to waive Amare Stoudemire after the game, too.

“Wow,” I thought. “I wonder who’s going to play for the Knicks the rest of this year ... Sarah Silverman?” Conjecture had Stoudemire heading to the Dallas Mavericks.

Then, it was reported that 21 people were beheaded in Libya.

If we still had record players, that would have been the moment where the needle scratched across the disc. Where did that come from? And why?

A second earlier, I was thinking to myself that Stoudemire would give the Mavericks an added dimension at the low post if he could stay healthy, and now I feel like a useless jerk for even thinking about him coming off the bench for Tyson Chandler.

This game is ruined. All games are ruined. Why watch any games?

I know I’m not alone in this. I want to give credit to one of favorite comics, Bill Burr.

“As a football fan, those ‘No more’ commercials are driving me up the wall,” Burr told Conan O’Brien during a recent talk-show appearance. “It’s like, I’m sitting down watching the game and all of a sudden I start getting reprimanded ... like I know a woman who’s getting beaten and I’m not saying anything. It’s driving me nuts because what I love about sports is that it’s a great way to tap out from the news and, you know, just watch a game and get away from it. Now all of these causes are getting attached to it.”

I felt guilty for feeling the same way during the World Series when everyone stood up against cancer. Again, Bill Burr:

“There’s a time and a place. I know somebody who has died of cancer. But I would never go to the movies with you and in the middle be like, ‘Oh, by the way ... I know this guy, he died of cancer. It was horrific. By the way, I got molested when I was 9. Enjoy the rest of the movie.’”

My feeling is that it’s OK to just want to escape the world for a while. Leave the causes and diseases at the turnstiles.

THIS IS A HAMMER

By Samantha Mazzotta

Clogged Sink? Try Clearing P-trap

Q. I read your article on slow-draining sinks and fixing or cleaning the pop-up stopper. My bathroom sink isn't draining fast at all. I checked the stopper but it's clear. What else can I do? — Jae C., via email

A. In your case there may be a clog further down the line, at or near the P-trap. This is the big bend in the pipe just below the sink. (It looks like a big J or a sideways P, hence the name).

Clogs made up of soapy gunk and hair often collect at the bottom of this bend. It happens so frequently that many P-traps today have a big plug at the bottom to access and clean the area.

To clear it, you'll need an adjustable/locking wrench or pipe wrench, a bucket, a plumbing snake (also known as a hand auger) and some rags. Place the bucket directly under the trap.

If you have a cleanout plug, wrap a rag around it and use the adjustable wrench to loosen it, then unscrew by hand. Water will gush out into the bucket, so be prepared. Clean the P-trap using a small bottle-brush or a modified wire hanger to reach in and grab the clog, or feed the pipe snake in a couple inches at a time and whirl it around to catch and pull out clogs further in.

If you don't have a cleanout plug, the trap itself can be removed by loosening the attachment nuts on either end of the curved pipe by hand. If they're really tight, wrap a rag around each nut before using a pipe wrench or locking wrench, so you don't scratch or strip the nuts. Loosen and then unscrew by hand, easing the trap downward until it comes off. (This video by HowTo with GEO shows how to do it: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3USfrj-DcLhY>)

Clean the trap itself, and inspect the tailpipe that leads upward to the sink for clogs, as well as the pipe feeding into the wall. Fish out any clogs you can see.

Now slide the trap back into place and hand-tighten the nuts. Don't over-tighten. To test the seal, run water down the drain and slowly tighten until any leakage stops. If it still leaks, replace the seals located at each nut.

home tip

If your sink and tub drains clog frequently with hair, buy some inexpensive mesh drain traps and clean them daily to minimize the problem.

Carpenter's Toolbox

Q. My grandpa was a carpenter, and I have inherited his toolbox filled with his original tools. Are they worth keeping? — Beth, West Palm Beach, Florida

A. Think of your toolbox as a treasure chest. The value of tools has increased dramatically during the past few years. For example, a Dove-tail plane, Stanley No. 44, which would have sold for about $300 a decade or so ago, now is worth about $1,700. One of the more uber-friendly references that you might find useful is "The Antique Trader Tools Price Guide" by Clarence Blanchard and published by Krause.

Q. As a kid growing up in Brooklyn during the 1940s, I ate Wheaties for breakfast because it sponsored "Jack Armstrong" on afternoon radio. I have a milk glass cereal bowl, a bicycle safety kit and a pedometer, all products that were Armstrong premiums. I have a sentimental attachment to these three items but also wonder about current values. — Don, Lexington, Kentucky

A. The Jack Armstrong radio program began during the summer of 1933 and continued until 1951. It was one of the most popular and longest-running radio adventure series ever. The broadcasts generated dozens of products, including two of my personal favorites: a coveted and rare signaling mirror and secret whistle, both used to send messages. After checking the Internet and several price guides, including "Hake's Price Guide to Character Toys" by Ted Hake and published by House of Collectibles, I have determined your cereal bowl is probably worth about $35 and the bicycle safety kit, if intact, in the $100 to $300 range. The pedometer's value is more difficult to determine, since several models were issued and I am uncertain which one you have.

Q. My parents were married during World War II. The silver flatware pattern they had was "Ballad." I can't find it in any of the sterling books I have and hope you can help me find out more about the pattern and the company that produced it. — Connie, Grand Junction, Colorado

A. "Ballad" was a pattern introduced by Hallmark Silversmiths of New York in 1942. I have never seen a piece of flatware from this company, which became Hunt-Hallmark & Company in 1954.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Change is still dominant for Rams and Ewes, both in the workplace and their private lives. This is also a good time to look at a possible relocation if that has been one of your goals.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Doing things for others is what you do well. But don't forget that Bovines thrive on the arts, so make some time for yourself to indulge your passion for music and artistic expressions.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) While the Romantic Twin considers where to go for his or her upcoming vacation, the Practical Twin will start making travel plans now to take advantage of some great bargains.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Your sensitive nature helps you deal with a difficult emotional situation. Be patient and continue to show your sincere support wherever (and for whom-ever) it is needed.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You're making progress as you move through some unfamiliar territory. And while there might be a misstep or two along the way, overall you're heading in the right direction. Good luck.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Some good news arrives — and just in time to remind you that you're making progress. Perhaps things aren't moving as quickly as you'd prefer, but they're moving nevertheless.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) This is a good week to step back and assess the facts that have recently emerged to see where they can be used to your advantage. Also, don't hesitate to make changes where necessary.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You should begin to experience some support from those who now agree with your point of view. This should help counter the remaining objections from die-hard skeptics.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Don't let your aim be deflected by trivial matters as you try to resolve a confusing situation. Take time to find and thoroughly assess the facts before making any decision.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) The possibility of moving to another location has come up. But before you dismiss it as unworkable, it's worth checking out until you does have some merit after all.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) New relationships — personal or work-related — show mixed signals. Best to assume nothing. Let things play themselves out until you have something substantive to work with.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Your ability to make needed changes without causing too much, if any, negative ripple effect comes in handy when dealing with a sensitive matter either on the job or in the family.

BORN THIS WEEK: Although you like things to go smoothly, you're not shy about making waves when you believe the situation calls for it.

HALL RENTAL: VFW Post 9404, 29 South Main Street, Coventry. Call 828-9705 for a quote or we will negotiate a price based on your needs.

FLASHBACK
POP ROCK & SOUL TRIVIA
 BY MICK HARPER

1. What was the original title of "I Saw Her Standing There"?
2. Who wrote "Alfie," and why?
3. Which group released "Straight from the Heart"?
4. What is "Big Yellow Taxi" about?
5. Name the song that contains this lyric: "Just tonight I stood before the tavern, Nothing seemed the way it used to be, In the glass I saw a strange reflection, Was that lonely woman really me?"

Answers

1. "Seventeen," as originally written by Paul McCartney in 1963. He was dating a 17-year-old girl at the time.
2. Composers Burt Bacharach and Hal David were asked to write a tie-in promotional song for the film by that name.
3. The Allman Brothers in 1981. The group later viewed the song as an embarrassing experiment.
4. Environmental concerns, with DDT, paved parking lots and a tree museum, as written by Joni Mitchell in 1970.
5. "Those Were the Days," by Welsh singer Mary Hopkin in 1968. It originally was a Russian romance song with English words later written by Gene Raskin. Early Russian versions go back as far as 1925. After Hopkin's successful version, the song ended up being recorded in 20 languages.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Though they seemingly have little in common, early 20th-century American politician William Jennings Bryan and 19th-century French author Honore de Balzac seemed to share a distrust of great wealth. Bryan observed, "No one can earn a million dollars honestly," and Balzac, echoing that sentiment, stated, "Behind every great fortune there is a crime."

• A single speck of blood contains around 5 million red blood cells.

• You might be surprised to learn that ebooks are not a recent phenomenon; back in 1971 a man named Michael S. Hart began to digitize printed works, typing them in by hand. His first project — The Declaration of Independence.

• Woodrow Wilson is the only U.S. president who held a Ph.D.

• With a height of 321 feet, the Memphis Pyramid, completed in 1991, is the largest pyramid in the Americas, and the sixth-largest in the world.

• The Dalai Lama likes to repair watches as a way to relax.

• Before modern medical techniques became common, it was not unusual for people to be inadvertently buried alive. In 1819, the Doctor Regent of the Faculty of Medicine in Paris estimated that one-third to one-half of people who died in bed were, in fact, still alive when they were interred. This led to the invention of the "security coffin," which was connected to a monitoring station by a long tube. If the presumed corpse did regain consciousness, food and drink could be transported through the tube while the coffin was exhumed.

• In ancient China, snail shells were used as currency.
