The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has approved Endari (L-glutamine oral powder) for patients age five years and older with sickle-cell disease to reduce severe complications associated with the blood disorder. Endari is the first treatment approved for patients with sickle-cell disease in almost 20 years. Until now, only one other drug was approved for patients living with this serious, debilitating condition. Sickle-cell disease is an inherited blood disorder in which the red blood cells are abnormally shaped (in a crescent, or "sickle," shape). This restricts the flow in blood vessels and limits oxygen delivery to the body's tissues, leading to severe pain and organ damage. According to the National Institutes of Health, approximately 100,000 people in the United States have sickle cell disease. The disease occurs most often in African-Americans, Latinos and other minority groups. The average life expectancy for patients with sickle-cell disease in the United States is approximately 40 to 60 years.

The use of medications to treat attention-deficient hyperactivity disorder is linked to significantly lower risk for substance-use problems in adolescents and adults with ADHD, according to a new report in the American Journal of Psychiatry. The majority of the ADHD medicines used by people in the study were stimulants such as Adderall, an amphetamine, and Ritalin, or methylphenidate. A significantly smaller number used nonstimulant ADHD medication such as Strattera, or atomoxetine. The risk of substance use problems during periods of medication use was 35 percent lower in men and 31 percent lower in women in the study.

Pilot asked Christ what is truth (Jn 18:38)! It's written there are between 30,000-41,000 Christian denominations in the world which split from 5 major denominations (250 in Cullman) who claim to be teachers of truth. Very much speculation of truth, except for tithing (1Tim 6:10). Yet the Holy Master's house is never divided nor has the love for money. So Be It!

Saving You MONEY

SHOP TODAY'S LOW PRICE TAGS:
We have HUNDREDS of non-advertised items marked down throughout our entire store. More savings passed on to our customers. Just look for blue tags on the shelves.

NO LIMITS:
Our competitors also have advertised specials. The difference is, in most cases, they have a limit on how many of an item you can buy at the sale price—we don't have any limits to family shoppers.
