Biology Class Final Exam

Students in an advanced Biology class were taking their mid-term exam. The last question was, 'Name seven advantages of Mother's Milk,' worth 70 points or none at all. One student, in particular, was hard put to think of seven advantages. He wrote:

1. It is perfect formula for the child.
2. It provides immunity against several diseases.
3. It is always the right temperature.
4. It is inexpensive.
5. It bonds the child to mother, and vice versa.
6. It is always available as needed.

And then, the student was stuck. Finally, in desperation, just before the bell indicating the end of the test rang, he wrote...

7. It comes in 2 cute containers.

He got an A.

Baby Help

Nancy's nephew was 4 when she was pregnant with her first kid. She allowed him to place his hand on her belly and feel the baby kick.

His little face scrunched and said, "How does the baby get out of there?"

She wanted to keep it simple so she said, "The doctor will help."

His eyes widened in amazement as he exclaimed, "You've got a doctor in there, too?"

* "To make sure I'm drinking water throughout the day, I use a permanent marker to designate levels on my large reusable water cup. I labeled them 10 a.m., noon, 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. That's for a big one that sits on my desk at work. I have another for at home. This way I am not trying to play catch up later in the day." -- A.L. in Oklahoma

* Three ways to save money on water-heater bills: 1) Set your temperature gauge to a lower setting. 2) Install a timer so that it's not heating water when you aren't there to use it. 3) Add an insulating cover to keep heat from escaping.

* Game changer: "When dunking a sandwich cookie (e.g. Oreos), jab a fork into the filling. Then you can dunk the whole thing or part of it without getting your fingers all milky -- or your milk all 'fingery.'" -- A.J. in Florida

* When you microwave leftovers on a flat plate, be sure to spread them out for even heating. The classic ring of food is best -- leaving the center of the plate empty. Slice already-cooked potatoes, and cover with a moistened paper towel.

* Need to light a pillar candle inside a hurricane glass? Use a stick of spaghetti! The pasta stick lights easily, and it's long enough to give you the reach you need. It burns evenly, too.

* "If you like to save money by buying large packs of meat -- say, ground beef or chicken tenderloins -- here's a great tip for storing them: Fill quart-size freezer bags, making sure to get out as much air as possible. Then stack flat on top of a pizza box in the freezer." -- T.L. in Missouri

VETERANS POST

by Freddy Groves

Looking Out for No. 1

All across the country there are veterans who might be ill and not know it. The reason: They don't have the results of their medical tests.

If you have medical tests done at a veterans' facility, before you leave, ask when the results will be ready. You'll likely be told, "Someone will call you." Get a name and write it down. Later if you start getting anxious because you haven't gotten a call, give it one more day ... then go on the hunt.

Leave messages for your care manager, if you have one, and your doctor. Give it another day. If you don't hear back, try again. Call the medical facility and ask for the lab. They're not likely to give you the results, but ask when the results were ready, and get that person's name. That's part of your ammo ... knowing that results were ready and when. Then call the care manager or doctor back and state that the results were ready at a certain time.

See how this works? Be proactive. Through all these steps, your name gets out there as someone who's hunting for test results. The same is true if you have a My HealthVet account.

Once you get the results over the phone, ask that a copy be mailed to you (or print it from your online account), which you'll then put in your file at home. If you have a condition that is regularly monitored, there's a possibility that you can make pals with someone in the lab who will just read the results to you.

The bottom line is that you don't stop until you have the results. Stand up for yourself and guard your health. Don't assume that no news is good news. Be sure.

"So, my sister is a veterinary student. She said a little girl brought her hamster in because it hadn't moved for three days, and was just sitting at the side of the cage, wouldn't eat/drink/run, etc. My sister asked the little girl if anything had happened that may have caused the hamster to act this way. The little girl said that the only abnormal thing that had happened to him was that he had escaped for a while, but they found him under the fridge.

So they have a look at the hamster. They put him out on the vet's table, and he acts completely normal. Walks around, eats, drinks, just fine. They then noticed that there was something in his cheek pouch. When they looked inside, they found a fridge magnet. Turns out the only thing wrong with this hamster was that it had a magnet in his cheek and was stuck to his metal cage."

DCC Honor Society Wins Big at Regional Awards

Danville, Va., March 12, 2018 – Among the 13 awards and other commendations Danville Community College's (DCC) Upsilon Phi Chapter of International Honor Society Phi Theta Kappa (PTK) earned this year is the esteemed Most Distinguished Chapter award.

During the Virginia/West Virginia Regional awards in Hampton Roads on Saturday, March 3, DCC PTK members and advisors accepted first place for communications, third place for fundraising, first place in community service, first place in distinguished chapter officer for Sarah George, first place in distinguished member for Michael Jones, third place in distinguished chapter officer team for Sarah George, Kellie Wyatt, Hannah Elliott, Maggie May Turner, Tara Morris, Michael Jones, and Jesse Saunders, distinguished chapter advisor for Chris Pantazis, continuing excellence award for advisors for Sherry Gott, distinguished chapter advisor team for Vickie Taylor, Sherry Gott, and Chris Pantazis, Honors in Action Award for Theme Six, first place overall for Honors in Action Award, third place in College Project Award, and Most Distinguished Chapter.

DCC PTK also achieved Five-Star status again and were recognized for participating in the Regional Honors Project.

Phi Theta Kappa chapters have five levels of engagement that progress from local, campus involvement to regional involvement to international involvement. The Five Star Chapter Plan is the roadmap guiding the chapter through the levels. Chapters should use the plan as a guide for building strong, active chapters.

This plan, which reflects the scholarly ideals of Phi Theta Kappa, serves as a blueprint for developing a strong chapter and for earning local, regional, and international recognition. In this plan, chapters do not compete against one another.

Participation encourages excellence and recognizes progress in the attainment of goals set by the chapter.

Using the Five Star Chapter Plan as a guide to success, chapters can enhance their working relationship with the college administration by becoming active on the campus and in the community. On a personal level, involvement in the program will educate chapter members in the importance of deadlines and organizational skills.

The strength of Phi Theta Kappa is determined by the achievements of chapters on the local level. Recognition for these achievements provides reinforcement and encourages a recommitment to chapter goals.

Last summer, DCC students planted a campus vegetable garden as part of PTK's annual service learning Honors in Action project. The multidisciplinary project tied coursework to community needs and worked to address the issue of hunger in the campus community as well as helped students learn about biology, sustainable agriculture, statistics, and how social perceptions impact actions.

For more information about honor societies, clubs, and activities at Danville Community College, visit www.danville.edu.

Dr. Michael Valentine Named American College of Cardiology President

LYNCHBURG, Virginia. (March 12, 2018) – Michael Valentine, MD, FACC, is the new president of the American College of Cardiology. He officially assumed his role on March 12th during the Convocation Ceremony held during the ACC's 67th Annual Scientific Session in Orlando. Dr. Valentine will serve a one-year term.

Dr. Valentine is a cardiologist with the Centra Stroobants Heart Center and specializes in cardiac catheterization and intervention, device placement and arrhythmia therapy, clinical quality, leadership and practice development. He first became involved with the ACC in 1993 and has worked his way up through the leadership ranks, including previously serving on the Advocacy Committee, as Virginia Chapter governor, as Board of Governors chair, treasurer and on the Board of Trustees.

Valentine received his undergraduate degree from the University of Georgia and went on to earn his medical degree from the University of Virginia School of Medicine. Valentine completed his medical residency and fellowship in cardiovascular disease at Emory University in Atlanta. After fellowship, Valentine moved to Lynchburg in 1990 and joined a private cardiovascular practice. The group ultimately developed into an advanced system, participating in over 90 clinical trials and leading quality and advocacy efforts in the Commonwealth. It became one of the early integrated practice models in the U.S., joining Centra in 2005.

"Being ACC President is a tremendous honor and privilege, not only for me, but for our group practice and health system at Centra," he said. "This recognizes the importance and responsibility of community systems to lead with the highest quality care and clinical research. It also encourages grassroots members who work at the local chapter level to further advance the Mission of the College."

Dr. Valentine is married to the Honorable Shannon Valentine, Secretary of Transportation for the Commonwealth of Virginia and former member of the Virginia House of Delegates, with whom he has three adult children: Catherine, Jack and Brooke.

Safer spots for birdhouses

- Birds may reject a birdhouse placed near food or water, as these attract raccoons and rats that will eat birds and their eggs.
- Claw marks on the house's surface or nesting material pulled from the entrance will show you these predators are around and can easily reach the birdhouse.
- Try mounting the house away from food and on a metal pole, rather than on a tree trunk or hanging it on a branch. Smear the pole with a petroleum jelly/hot pepper mixture and spread sharp gravel around the base to discourage intruders.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

* It was French poet, journalist and novelist Anatole France who made the following sage observation: "The law, in its majestic equality, forbids the rich as well as the poor to sleep under bridges, to beg in the streets, and to steal bread."

* If you're planning a trip to North Carolina in June, try to make it to the small town of Spivey's Corner for the annual Hollerin' Contest. If you'd like to participate but are worried about straining your vocal cords, you can always enter the conch-blowing contest instead of one of the ones that involves actual yelling.

* You might be surprised to learn that famed British author Aldous Huxley, best-known for his dystopian novel "Brave New World," was a consultant on Disney's 1951 animated film version of "Alice in Wonderland."

* After the vows have been said in a traditional Korean wedding, the groom formally introduces his new wife to his parents. The bride's father-in-law then pelts the bride with red dates, which is supposed to ensure fertility.

* Jazz musician Glenn Miller was the recipient of the first gold record ever awarded, for the big-band hit "Chattanooga Choo-Choo."

* You might be surprised at some of the seemingly innocuous things that arouse passions in a group of people. Take the venerable 1960s television show "Mr. Ed," for example. Evidently an evangelist named Jim Brown took issue with the show's theme song, claiming that when played backward, the tune contains the message "the source is Satan" and "someone sang this song for Satan." His preaching on the subject was so persuasive that members of a church in Ironton, Ohio, made a bonfire of recordings of the song.

35 Years

Sunny days seem to hurt the most
I wear the pain like a heavy coat
I feel you everywhere I go
I see your smile, I see your face
I hear you laughing in the rain
I still can't believe you're gone
It ain't fair you died too young
Like a story that had just begun
But death tore the pages all away
God knows how I miss you
Sometimes I wonder who you'd be today
Would you see the world, would you chase your dreams
Settle down with a family
I wonder what would you name your babies
Some days the sky's so blue
I feel like I can talk to you
I know it might sound crazy
God knows...
The only thing that gives me hope
Is I know I'll see you again someday

"Don't Turn Off That Hearing Aid"

It is with the greatest of fondness that I quite often think back on my grandmother and grandfather. They have both been gone for some years now, and there are still days when I ache for their presence.

My Grandmother was the spark plug of the family. An old country, old school, laced up, million mile a minute dynamo who spoke multiple languages and always kept the family knit together. My grandfather was another story altogether. Giddo (grandfather, when one is of Lebanese descent) was first and foremost a certified genius. Chess champion, voracious reader, college professor, photographic memory, the man was amazing.

And also very easily bored.

It is that last trait, his easy boredom, that caused many hilarious moments in their home. You see, he was also a war veteran, and his tenure on the battlefield had resulted in him being rendered very nearly deaf. As such, my Giddo wore one of those old fashioned, huge, prone to squeal hearing aids.

Understandably, most people would regard being near deaf and having to use a hearing aid as a very negative thing. But for my Grandfather it became a source of blessed peace. I remember a great many times when the talk around the table, so riveting to spouse, children, and grandchildren, became utterly banal to a person of his mental acumen. We would go on at great length, chattering back and forth, and then someone would ask him what he thought, or to chime in on the conversation.

Giddo would merely continue to look ahead, nod, and add the occasional "uh huh... uh huh..." as if he was listening intently to all that was being said.

The table would grow completely silent. A second later we would hear it again, "uh huh... uh huh..."

My grandmother's face would get stiff, and a bit of anger would flash through her eyes.

"Turn your hearing aid back on!" She would shout at the top of her lungs.

My Giddo's eyes would snap wide, he would reach down to his controller and roll the volume back up, and he would sheepishly ask, "Yes, Mommy?"

The table would erupt in laughter over him being caught yet again tuning out whatever it was he did not want to hear.

It was funny, then. Nowadays, though, it is not nearly as funny, since it seems to be the bulk of society that is tuning out the things they do not want to hear. Rather than being old and reaching for the hearing aids, though, they are young and simply unaccustomed to having to bear being "triggered" by anyone or anything that disagrees with them.

Genesis 42:21-22 says, "And they said one to another, We are verily guilty concerning our brother, in that we saw the anguish of his soul, when he besought us, and we would not hear; therefore is this distress come upon us. And Reuben answered them, saying, Spake I not unto you, saying, Do not sin against the child; and ye would not hear? therefore, behold, also his blood is required."

Twice it is correctly asserted that they "would not hear." It is not that they could not hear Joseph's cries, it is that they had already made up their minds on the issue, and had tuned him out. Just like college students proclaiming a love of free speech yet ignoring the utter hypocrisy of banning or shouting down anyone with whom they disagree who is invited to address the student body. Just like pro-abortionists who do not want to hear that living babies in the womb have their own DNA, a heartbeat, and feel pain. Just like modern Socialists and Communists who refuse to study history and see how badly their untenable pet theories have consistently failed.

And, by the way, just like many church members who do not want any preacher, ever, to say anything negative from the pulpit. "Your best life now?" Bring it on, we are on the edge of our seats. "Repent of your sin?" Reaching for the dial, preacher, tuning you out...

With my Giddo, it was just funny. When a society reaches for the dial, it is actually dangerous. Jesus said "Let him who hath an ear, hear."

1. Who was the first singer to release "Just One Look" and when?
2. What group had a hit with "Don't You Care"?
3. Who had the 1967 hit with "Sweet Soul Music"?
4. Which Slade song got complaints after it was played on a children's TV show?
5. Name the song that contains this lyric: "It hurts to see the man that I've become, To know I'll never see the morning sunshine on the land."

Answers

1. Doris Troy, in 1963. She also was the song's co-writer. (If you haven't heard this original version, hunt it down online. It's how it was meant to sound.)
2. The Buckingham, in 1967. It spent 14 weeks on the charts.
3. Arthur Conley. Despite his U.S. success, Conley moved to the Netherlands. In 1980, he changed his name to Lee Roberts.
4. "Gypsy Roadhog," in 1977. The song was about a cocaine dealer.
5. "Indiana Wants Me," by R. Dean Taylor, in 1970. The song tells the story of a man on the run from the police, with police sirens playing in the background. For airplay, those sirens were taken out, as too many drivers thought it was real.

SALTED CARAMEL BUTTER CRUMB BARS

INGREDIENTS:

- 1 cup unsalted butter (2 sticks), softened
- 3/4 cup confectioners' sugar
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1 tablespoon vanilla extract
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- heaping 1/2 cup salted caramel sauce (homemade or storebought, or regular caramel sauce) + more for drizzling

DIRECTIONS:

Preheat oven to 325F. Line an 8-by-8-inch baking pan with aluminum foil, spray with cooking spray; set aside.

To the bowl of a stand mixer fitted with the paddle attachment (or large mixing bowl and electric mixer) combine the butter, sugars, and beat on medium-high speed until creamed, fluffy, and well combined, about 3 minutes.

Stop, scrape down the sides of the bowl and add the vanilla and beat on medium-high speed until well combined, about 1 minute.

Stop, scrape down the sides of the bowl and add the flour and beat on low speed until just combined, about 1 minute. Dough shouldn't be overly sticky. If yours is sticky (mine was because I baked on a humid day), add 1 to 2 tablespoons flour, or as needed, until dough comes together without feeling sticky, however don't over-do it or dough could become crumbly.

Turn out one-third of the mixture out into prepared pan (err on the side of going over one-third if you're eyeballing it and unsure), pressing and hard-packing it with your fingers to form a smooth, even crust layer. Bake for 20 minutes. While crust bakes, refrigerate remaining two-thirds of dough.

After 20 minutes, remove pan from oven, and evenly pour heaping half cup salted caramel over crust.

Evenly crumble reserved dough over the top (it looks like a lot but some sinks down into the caramel layer while baking).

Return pan to oven and bake for about 25 to 32 minutes, or until top is barely golden browned and there's subtle signs of caramel bubbling.

Remove pan from oven, lightly and evenly drizzle with salted caramel, and place pan on a wire rack to cool for at least two hours before slicing and serving. Bars will keep airtight at room temperature for up to 5 days, or in the freezer for up to 6 months.
