ANOTHER ADVENTURE

By Douglas H. Domedion

I travel this road quite often as it puts me near a marsh and the possibility of getting some wildlife shots. The ground was covered with snow and I noticed a lot of mink tracks along the edge of the marsh and even crossing the road, way more than one normally would see in one location.

In my younger years I did a lot of trapping from high school and even after I came home from the service. Muskrat and raccoon were my main goals, but I got into fox trapping pretty heavy for fur and even for predator control. Some mink were of course trapped, but there were never many around and they were more of a "luck" deal.

I was pretty young at the time my first mink was caught. Way behind my parent's house there was an old swale and a lot of time was spent exploring it. One fall a floating log was found with muskrat droppings on it and I knew this would be a great place to catch my some "rats" as we called them. All that had to be done was set some traps on the log and then cover them lightly with some grass that the 'rats like. I didn't have many traps yet and I wanted to set as many as possible on that log cause it looked to me like every 'rat in the swale was going up on that log. I borrowed some and set that whole log up. Boy, I was going to get rich!

The next morning was a Sunday and I couldn't wait to check the traps. Most of the traps were gone off the log and I began pulling them out of the water. A 'rat and then another and then a mink! Wow! I rushed home with my catch, charged up to my parents' bedroom (they were still in bed) and popped that mink in their faces! "Look what I caught, a mink!" I don't think they were excited as I was!

Mink do a lot of traveling and never really hold still very long which makes them hard to pin down with a trap or even a camera. They are always looking for frogs, small fish, crabs and even 'rats. Thus, from past experience with mink I knew all these tracks I was seeing meant one thing: it was mating season and there was a female holing up nearby and attracting male mink. I thought, "If I sit here long enough one may offer me a shot with the camera." I didn't hang around that day as there were other things to do, but the next morning I was back there looking for pictures of some ducks.

As I sat there waiting for some ducks to move closer a large mink ran right under my nose next to the vehicle. He disappeared, but soon another mink appeared up ahead and ran across the road and the back. Then shortly afterward the first mink ran up to the edge of the road and then back to the marsh edge. It all happened so fast that it was not possible to get any pictures. This played out a few more times over the next 15 minutes so I moved up to where the action was. As I mentioned before a mink never stops moving so it is difficult to get a picture of them. Suddenly the small one (the female) ran up the bank along the road and disappeared in the snow. Then the male came along and tracked her to the den she apparently had there. She kept him out and he finally left, but a few shots were gotten. This routine continued off and on for another 20 minutes; her coming out and then him chasing her around the cattails to eventually go down that hole again. I got some great shots for my patience and knowing what was going on and not getting out of my vehicle paid off.

The price of mink fur in recent years has been anything but good ($6-10) even though the numbers of mink seemed to have skyrocketed, few trappers intentionally try to trap them.

The mink is a promiscuous animal that does not form pair bonds. The mating process is violent, with the male typically biting the female on the nape of the neck. Females are receptive for seven- to ten-day intervals during the three-week breeding season, and can mate with multiple males. Mink have a short delay before implantation which allows pregnant mink to keep track of environmental conditions and select an ideal time. The kits are born from April through June and are weaned after five weeks, but remain with the mother until fall when the family breaks up.

So that was a great camera adventure that started out with other wildlife in mind. That's what I like about the great outdoors. You never know what to expect! My contact information is 585-798-4022 or woodduck2020@yahoo.com.

This male mink is trailing a female because it is mating season.

How Your Vehicle Benefits from a Clean Air Filter

Cars and trucks can benefit greatly from clean air filters. Many drivers are aware of the need to change the oil in their vehicles according to the intervals designated in their owners' manuals, but few may be aware of the many benefits of changing air filters. One such benefit pertains to fuel efficiency. The automotive website CarsDirect.com notes that studies have shown that changing clogged air filters can improve fuel efficiency by as much as 10 percent and save drivers as much as 15 cents per gallon of fuel. Clean air filters also can benefit the environment. When vehicle air filters are clogged, air flow to the engine is reduced, adversely affecting vehicle emissions. Clean filters increase air flow to the engine, reducing vehicle emissions as a result. Clean air filters also can help drivers get more out of their vehicle investments. Designed to trap dirt and debris, clean air filters prolong engine life by preventing such particles from damaging engine components. Drivers can check their owners' manuals for air filter replacement guidelines, but manufacturers generally advise drivers change their air filters every 12,000 to 15,000 miles. Such a repair is inexpensive but can go a long way toward ensuring vehicles operate as efficiently as possible. ■

How to Avoid and Repair Flat Tires

Nothing can delay road trips more suddenly than flat tires. Unfortunately, because tires are the only part of the vehicle constantly in contact with the road, wear and tear is to be expected.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration says that flat tires and blowouts are a leading cause of highway traffic accidents. Even though flats cannot be prevented, there are ways to make tires less vulnerable and make vehicles safer along the way.

Flat tire avoidance

Routine inspection and tire maintenance is essential to their performance. In addition, paying attention to road hazards and avoiding them when possible can prolong the life of tires.

- Tire pressure: Tires should be maintained at the correct air pressure indicated on the sidewall or as advised by the manufacturer. Tires with too much air can be damaged by bumpy roads and potholes. Tires that are not inflated enough may increase friction on the roadway, resulting in a blowout. Check tire pressure routinely, and do so when the tires have rested for three hours. Many vehicles now monitor tire pressure automatically and alert drivers through a signal on the dashboard

- Tire wear: The advisors at Select Auto Imports say that inspecting tires for uneven wear should be a routine part of maintenance. If tires show uneven wear, they may be more susceptible to flats or blowouts. Tire rotations can help alleviate uneven wear. The NHTSA recommends tires be rotated every 5,000 miles.

- Tire treads: The Allstate Insurance company says to look for worn tire treads. Check for wear bar indicator marks located between the tread pattern of the tires. If the wear bar is level with the treads, it's time for new tires. Otherwise, place a quarter between the grooves of the tire. If the tread doesn't extend beyond the top of Washington's head, it's a good idea to replace the tires.

- Construction sites: Drivers should try to avoid areas under construction. Rocks, nails, metal shards, glass, and divots in the roads can cause punctures and eventually flats.

Flat tire repair

When flats occur, having the right tools and understanding the procedure for fixing the flat is key.

Drivers will need an inflated spare tire, a jack, a lug wrench, bracing material (to keep the vehicle from rolling, such as a brick or piece of wood), and the vehicle's owner's manual. Goodyear says it is essential to fix the flat in a safe area away from traffic and on a flat surface.

- Use the owner's manual to find the correct position to place the jack to lift the car.

- Remove hubcaps or center covers to access the lug nuts. With the lug wrench, loosen lug nuts in a counterclockwise direction.

- Take off the tire and put on the spare. Replace and tighten the lug nuts. Replace hubcaps or covers.

- Slowly lower the vehicle and drive cautiously to ensure the spare is in working order.

- Purchase a new tire or have a hole plugged or repaired at a tire center. ■

Factors that Impact Auto Insurance Premiums

Auto insurance rates vary from person to person, even though it may seem like the offerings are the same. But no two drivers are the same, and certain factors may be affecting drivers' auto insurance premiums without the motorists even realizing it.

Automotive insurance provider State Farm says most insurance companies consider several factors when calculating the cost of car insurance. Recognizing which situations can increase or lower costs can help drivers get the best rates and coverage needed. Although it can be tempting to reduce the price of insurance by choosing lower amounts of coverage, there are other ways to make insurance more affordable.

- Move. Insurers typically look at where a person lives when calculating rates. Those people who live in highly populated, urban areas likely will have higher premiums than others who live in more rural towns. That's because greater population density often translates into more people on the road — and a greater chance for insurance claims due to fender benders or theft. By moving, a person may be able to cut rates.

- Gender and age are factors. One can't step into a time machine, but it's helpful to know that growing a little older can lower insurance premiums. The financial advice source Money Crashers say that young men usually incur higher rates than young women because statistically men get into more accidents. However, as a person moves into his or her senior years, the roles reverse. Older women may see higher rates than men the same age.

- Keep make and model in mind. The type of vehicle driven can affect insurance premiums. Certain insurance carriers will increase premiums on vehicles that are more susceptible to damage. Flashy sports cars or those that do not score as highly on vehicle safety ratings calculated by industry experts may result in high premiums. Vehicles that are desirable to car thieves also may cost more to insure. Researching vehicles prior to purchase and checking the rates for those cars or trucks with insurance companies can help keep costs low.

- Commuters may pay more. Individuals who use a car for business or frequent commuting may pay more than people who drive less because statistically there is a greater risk for an accident, says State Farm. Reducing commute times can lower premiums.

- Tie the knot. Insure.com says married couples have been found to be less of a risk to insurance providers statistically than those who are single. A study by the National Institutes of Health found that single drivers were twice as likely to be in an auto accident as married drivers. Combining policies also can help married people save.

- Follow the rules of the road. Drivers who have moving violations, drink and drive or engage in otherwise risky behavior behind the wheel may see their rates soar.

Insurance companies weigh factors such as driving record, age, locality, and more when assessing premium costs. Drivers have some room to get lower rates by knowing the factors that determine their premiums. ■

Insurance rates are impacted by different factors, some of which vary among insurers.

Stay Safe on Wet Roadways All Year Long

Weather plays a role in driver safety regardless of what time of year it may be. From wind and rain to snow and ice, travelers routinely navigate roads when conditions are far from ideal.

Wet roadways are a common occurrence. The automotive resource AAA advises that wet pavement contributes to nearly 1.2 million traffic accidents each year. Many crashes occur when drivers do not recognize the need to change their driving habits in wet conditions. Mastering driving techniques on slick, water-logged roads can help motorists avoid accidents and injuries.

See and be seen

Before they even get behind the wheel, drivers should inspect all headlights and taillights to ensure they are in working order. Replace any bulbs that have burned out, and clean cloudy lens covers.

Drivers need to see roadways clearly, so they should make sure their windshields are free of streaks, debris and water. Periodically replacing windshield wiper blades can ensure they're working optimally when drivers need them most.

Slow down and give other motorists space

Slowing down and stopping can take extra time when roads are wet. AAA notes that, with as little as 1/12-inch of water on the road, tires have to displace a gallon of water a second to keep the rubber in contact with the street. Driving slowly can make it much easier for vehicles to stop. Plus, driving slowly enables drivers to see obstacles or pedestrians more easily, especially in heavy rains.

Exercise caution with puddles and running water

It may be difficult to gauge the depth and ferocity of water flowing in a roadway. Quickly moving water can cause a vehicle to hydroplane or even move a large vehicle. A deep puddle also can affect drivers' ability to steer or cause vehicles to stall. Take another route rather than risk driving through large puddles or areas where water is flowing on roadways.

Skidding

Do not slam on the brakes if a car begins to skid or hydroplane, advise experts. Instead, ease up slowly from the accelerator and then steer the vehicle into the skid or straight. Then accelerate smoothly once more. Sudden, jerky movements when a car begins to skid can exacerbate the situation.

Maintain tires

Tire treads should be checked at the start of a new season to ensure the rubber will be able to grip the road. Rotate tires according to the manufacturer's requirements, or every 5,000 miles. Properly inflated tires will improve traction as well.

Wet weather can make driving challenging. Driving slowly and modifying other habits when roads are wet can make for safe road trips. ■

Signs of a HEART ATTACK

Some heart attacks are sudden and intense, but most heart attacks start slowly, with mild pain. Often people affected aren't sure what's wrong and wait too long before getting help. Symptoms include:

CHEST DISCOMFORT. Most heart attacks involve discomfort in the center of the chest that lasts more than a few minutes, or that goes away and comes back. It can feel like uncomfortable pressure, squeezing, fullness or pain.

DISCOMFORT IN OTHER AREAS OF THE UPPER BODY. Symptoms can include pain or discomfort in one or both arms, the back, neck, jaw or stomach.

SHORTNESS OF BREATH with or without chest discomfort.

OTHER SIGNS may include breaking out in a cold sweat, nausea or lightheadedness

Women are somewhat more likely than men to experience other common symptoms, particularly SHORTNESS OF BREATH, NAUSEA/VOMITING, AND BACK/JAW PAIN.

If you or someone with you has one or more of these signs, don't delay!

Call 9-1-1 immediately!

SIGNS OF A STROKE

Sometimes symptoms of a stroke are difficult to identify. The stroke victim may suffer severe brain damage when people nearby fail to recognize the symptoms of a stroke. Now doctors say a bystander can recognize a stroke by asking a few simple questions:

- 1 Ask the person to SMILE.
- 2 Ask the person to TALK AND SPEAK A SIMPLE SENTENCE. i.e. It is sunny out today.
- 3 Ask the person to RAISE BOTH ARMS.
- 4 Ask the person to STICK OUT HIS TONGUE. If the tongue goes to one side or the other, that is a sign of a stroke.

OTHER STROKE WARNING SIGNS

- Sudden numbness or weakness of the face, arm or leg, especially on one side of the body
- Sudden confusion, trouble speaking or understanding
- Sudden trouble seeing in one or both eyes
- Sudden trouble walking, dizziness, loss of balance or coordination
- Sudden, severe headache with no known cause

If you or someone with you has one or more of these signs, don't delay!

CALL 9-1-1 IMMEDIATELY!

Do you have HEEL pain or ARCH pain?

HEEL SPUR SYNDROME/PLANTAR FASCITIS

is a common problem among people who are active. It starts as a dull intermittent pain in the heel which may progress to a sharp persistent pain. Classically, it is worse in the morning with the first few steps, after sitting, after standing, or after walking.

- Plantar fasciitis often begins with irritation and tearing of the fibrous band of tissue on the bottom of the foot, which may eventually result in the formation of a heel spur.

- Contributing factors: flat pronated feet, high arched feet, poor shoe support, increased age, sudden weight increase, increased activity level, family tendency.

- Approximately 2-3 times your body weight of force is exerted on each foot with walking. Flexible, non-custom molded arch support found at those advertised shoe stores cannot support these forces and usually do not provide long-lasting relief, do not come with a lifetime warranty, and are typically more expensive than custom-molded ones made by our office.

- 95 percent of our patients symptoms are resolved with conservative treatment, avoiding surgical intervention.

- We also offer surgical procedures with the best post-op success rates using Endoscopic Plantar Fasciotomy techniques and EPF resulting in minimal incisions and scarring, immediate ambulation and often back in a shoe in one week.

If you can't remember when your feet didn't hurt, now is the time to give us a call!

Tips on how to write CLASSIFIED ADS that sell!

- 1 USE A KEY WORD.This immediately tells the reader exactly what you have to sell.
- 2 Make your description CLEAR AND FACTUAL. State the year, make, model, color & size and tell what condition the item is in. Also, state the special features.
- 3 STATE THE PRICE. Successful classified advertisers have learned that the price in an ad helps increase the chances for results.
- 4 IF THERE IS A GENUINE SENSE OF URGENCY, say so. The words “We’re moving,” or “Must sell fast,” suggest that readers respond immediately.
- 5 INCLUDE YOUR PHONE NUMBER. Classifieds get results fast and often generate immediate sales. If you cannot be available to answer the phone at all times, be sure to specify special calling times such as “after 9pm” or “before 11am.”

the CAREER path

Jobs for Students Proficient in Math

Math is an important subject and school and proficiency in arithmetic serves people well when it comes time to leave the classroom and enter the workforce. As demand for workers proficient in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics continues to grow, students can benefit by working as hard as possible when studying such subjects.

People with strong math skills who thrive on data and crunching numbers may find a diverse array of jobs available to them when they are ready to enter the workforce. The following are just some of the positions that require math skills, courtesy of the Occupational Information Network, U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics and CareerCast.

- Economist: Economists study and analyze the effects of resources on costs and their relation to industry and government.

- Accountant: Accountants are responsible for keeping accounting records and preparing financial statements for businesses or individuals.

- Game designer: Mathematics is involved in game theory, and programmers regularly utilize trigonometry, physics and calculus. The same can be said for movie or television animators.

- Stockbroker: Stockbrokers purchase and sell stocks, bonds and other securities. Exchanging large sums of money involves a strong command of math.

- Chemist: Chemists conduct analyses and experiments in laboratories that require qualitative and quantitative computation.

- Engineer: Mechanical engineering, aerospace engineering and civil engineer go hand-in-hand with math. Engineers in various fields perform a host of tasks, including designing equipment and evaluating the adaptability of materials.

- Pilot: Navigating, calculating wind speeds and fuel ration and much more are involved in piloting an aircraft. Math skills can be life-saving when pilots have to make adjustments and calculations thousands of feet in the air.

- Sports broadcaster: Math is involved in many aspects of sports. Sports broadcasters often must add up statistics on the fly and proficiency in math makes that easier.

- Astronomer: Observing, researching and interpreting astronomical phenomena requires a strong understanding of mathematics.

- Insurance underwriter: Underwriters rely on math to assess risk as they make recommendations to insurance companies before such companies will issue policies.

- Financial planner: Financial planners help businesses and individuals map out the ways to grow their money so they can secure their financial futures.

- Actuary: Actuaries measure risk and uncertainty as they evaluate the likelihood of future events occurring as they apply to certain areas, including insurance and pension programs.

Strong math skills can provide an entryway into a lucrative and stable career. ■

YOU

BY NATHAN D. PACE
ATTORNEY AT LAW

JUST DON'T DO IT

It has become increasingly clear in recent years that impaired drivers are responsible for hundreds of thousands of crash-related injuries and thousands of deaths annually in the United States. When it comes to driving under the influence of alcohol, every state has currently set .08% blood alcohol concentration (BAC) as the legal limit for driving under the influence (DUI) or driving while impaired (DWI). For commercial drivers, the limit is even more restrictive, as a BAC of .04% can result in a DUI or DWI conviction anywhere in the nation. Drinking among drivers under age 21 is not tolerated at all, as even the smallest amount of BAC is cause for arrest. Anyone facing DUI/DWI arrest should call an attorney.

If you are arrested for DUI, you may need the assistance of a criminal defense lawyer with experience handling DUI cases. Unlike civil law cases in which money or property may be at stake, people charged with DUI may face jail time and revocation of their driver's license if arrested or convicted. If you have a legal concern, please call the Law Office of MACK & PACE today at to set up an appointment.

534 Main St., Suite 6
Medina, NY 14103

HINT: Refusing a breathalyzer test does not necessarily help a drunk driver circumvent the law and avoid guilt, because "implied consent" means that once a driver gets in the car, he or she accepts an implied contract to take an alcohol test if deemed necessary.

Pork or Lamb Vindaloo

Serves 3 to 4

- 1 1/2 tablespoons grainy mustard
- 1 1/2 teaspoons ground cumin
- 1 1/2 teaspoons grounder turmeric
- 1/2 to 1 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon red wine vinegar
- 3 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 small onion (about 4 ounces), peeled and cut into fine half rings
- 6 large cloves garlic, peeled and crushed to a pulp
- 1 1/4 pounds boned shoulder of pork or lamb, cut into 1-inch cubes
- 2/3 cup canned coconut milk, well stirred

Combine the mustard, cumin, turmeric, cayenne, salt, and vinegar in a cup. Mix well.

Put the oil in a large, nonstick frying pan and set over medium-high heat. When the oil is hot, put in the onion. Stir and fry until it is medium brown. Put in the garlic. Stir and fry for 30 seconds. Put in the spice paste. Stir and fry for a minute. Put in the meat. Stir and fry for about 3 minutes. Then add the coconut milk and 2/3 cup water if you are cooking continuously in a pressure cooker, or 1 cup water if you are cooking in the frying pan. (Transfer to a pressure cooker at this stage if that is your intention.) Cover and either bring up to pressure, or bring to a boil if you are using the frying pan. Lower the heat to a simmer and cook for 20 minutes in the pressure cooker and 60 to 70 minutes in the frying pan.

Lamb a Favorite Meal at Springtime Holiday Dinner Tables

Versatile and flavorful, lamb is enjoyed across the globe and is especially popular come springtime holidays. Throughout the Middle East and parts of Eastern Europe, lamb has traditionally been enjoyed once the weather warms and the season of fertility renews.

Christians, who refer to Jesus Christ as the “Lamb of God” pay homage to the Easter miracle and often dine on lamb as part of their celebrations. Depending on how they interpret Jewish law, Jews may or may not include lamb at their traditional Passover seder.

Lamb is a tender and tasty meat that can be prepared in various ways. Lamb can be roasted, braised, stewed, broiled, and even grilled.

To prepare lamb well, it is extremely important to follow safety guidelines concerning food cross-contamination. Undercooked and raw meats may contain E. coli bacteria; therefore, lamb should not come in contact with other foods that will be served uncooked.

Many cuts of lamb are very tender so they will not require long marinating times to help break down the fibers in the meat. Lamb does not need a lot of prep time. In fact, a simple seasoning of herbs, garlic or a spice rub will provide substantial flavor. According to The Daily Meal, New Zealand or Australian lamb has a milder flavor than domestic lamb. Over-seasoning can overwhelm the delicate flavor of the lamb in these cases.

While preferences differ, many chefs attest that a bone-in cut of lamb will be more flavorful. However, boneless cuts are easier to carve. Similarly, cooks have strong opinions on the doneness of lamb, with some preferring rare meat while others like theirs well-done. Lamb can be juicy and tender at a wide range of cooking temperatures, so home chefs can decide how they want to prepare their lamb. The average temperature for roasting lamb to medium doneness will fall between 135 to 145 F, with the USDA recommending at least 145 F as the desired temperature. Lamb roasts at a rate of 20 minutes per pound at a cooking temperature of 325 F.

Use a thermometer to accurately measure the internal temperature of lamb. Remove the lamb when it is roughly five degrees below the desired temperature, as the meat will continue to cook even after it is removed from the oven, skillet or grill. After cooking, let the lamb rest for around 10 minutes for thinner cuts and 20 minutes for roasts or leg of lamb to allow the juices to redistribute.

Certain flavors pair especially well with lamb, including citrus, mint, garlic, oregano, and curry. Lamb can be served beside potatoes, couscous, polenta, vegetables, and even pasta. ■

Thank you!

To all the people who have supported us and helped with our campaign.

We could never express all our gratitude to those of you who have assisted in our campaign. For those who allowed us to put our signs in your yards, distributed our rack cards, went door-to-door on our behalf, came to help with our phone bank, and there are of course the many of you who voted for us.

Thank you for your support, trust, and enthusiasm. We all share a love for the village of Albion and a desire for it to be a great place to live.

Again, thank you for your support.

Joyce Riley, Jason Dragon and Sandra Walter
