The Holy Bible is the proof that most so-called Christian churches do not hear the Holy Prophet (Acts 3:23) or follow the Holy Sheppard (Mt 4:4, 5:17-19, 16:22-23, 28:18-20, Jn 1:1-14, 14:6,24, 1Jn 3:1-9). The church is paid a very handsome fee to lead their congregation to believe they are saved by grace not by obedience. Apparently, many called to preach (2Cor 11:13-15) are not preaching what blasphemy is, false witness (liars), hypocrites, fornicators (Rev 22:15). So Be It!

Statins used for the treatment of high cholesterol may have other beneficial effects, but there has been reluctance to prescribe them to patients with liver disease because of concerns that they may cause abnormal liver enzyme levels in the blood. In a new Alimentary Pharmacology & Therapeutics analysis of data from the Danish National Patient Registry, patients with cirrhosis of the liver due to alcohol had a 43% lower risk of dying prematurely than patients not on statins. The results add to previous studies indicating that statins might help patients with chronic liver disease, including cirrhosis.

Antidepressant medications, most commonly prescribed to reduce depression and anxiety, increase the risk of death, according to new findings published in the journal Psychotherapy and Psychosomatics. Most commonly used antidepressant treatment for depression blocks the absorption of serotonin by neurons. However, all the major organs of the body-the heart, kidneys, lungs, liver-use serotonin from the bloodstream. Antidepressants block the adsorption of serotonin in these organs as well. The researchers reviewed studies involving hundreds of thousands of people and found that antidepressant users has a 33% higher chance of death than non-users. Antidepressant users also had a 14% higher risk of cardiovascular events, such as strokes and heart attacks. Taken by one in eight adult Americans, antidepressants are among the most frequently used medications. They are often prescribed by family doctors without a formal diagnosis of depression, on the assumption that they are safe. since depression itself can be deadly-people with depression are at an increased risk of suicide, stroke and heart attack-many physicians think that antidepressants could save lives by reducing depressive symptoms.
