OFFERS!!
What does a multiple offer mean?
Does it mean the offer comes back to you multiple times?
No what it means is with low inventory and buyer's more than one offer is being presented to the owner. How do you feel about this? So you have decided to try and sell on your own. While the current market is good, don't let yourself lose out on a multiple offer situation which in many instances brings over asking price offers on your home. You certainly want to be in a multiple offer situation and you want to get the best price, in the least amount of time with the least inconvenience. You need a REALTOR to help guide you through that.
You're not really saving when you try and sell yourself, the buyer is the one that gets the deal and you may lose out.
Call anytime and we can sit and go over the current market conditions, pricing and where you can be priced in this market.
